1990 Outlook

Accelerated Aging Process Considered Beneficial For Lions' 'New Kids'

If the name weren't already spoken for, it would be no stretch of the imagination to describe the 1990 Penn State Nittany Lions as the "New Kids on the Block."

Of the nearly 100 players on the depth chart at the conclusion of spring practice, only 11 will be in their final season of eligibility this fall.

Eight seniors are penciled in the tentative opening day lineups, but four of those, all offensive linemen, have started a composite total of a mere two games.

There are 13 starters among the 35 lettermen returning. Behind the first units on offense and defense, however, the experience quotient drops sharply.

"I really think this is the youngest squad I have been around in 40 years at Penn State," Coach Joe Paterno said at the conclusion of spring practice.

Youth's blessing is energy, enthusiasm and the perspicacity to receive and store information at warp speed. Youth's curse is immaturity, errors of inexperience and an attention span that wanders at warp speed.

Paterno hopes to be more blessed than cursed in his Silver Anniversary season as head coach of the Nittany Lions and icon of major college football.

"Coming out of spring practice, I think we are comfortable with what we want to do offensively and defensively in the fall and with whom we want to do it," Paterno said. "That's important."

"The inexperience of this team makes it difficult to do a lot of tinkering once fall practice begins. Injuries, particularly at a couple of key positions, also would be especially disruptive."

The Nittany Lions were 8-3-1 last fall, adding the garnish to their 50th winning season in the last 51 years with a 50-39 triumph in an offensive shootout with Brigham Young at San Diego's Sea World Holiday Bowl. Penn State finished No. 14 in the United Press International coaches poll and No. 15 in the Associated Press tally of the nation's writers and broadcasters.

Two of the more telling losses from the 1989 ensemble are tailback Blair Thomas and inside linebacker Andre Collins, All-Americans who were top draft choices of the New York Jets and Washington Redskins, respectively, in the National Football League college lottery. Thomas, the second-leading rusher in school history, was selected second by the Jets, the highest a Penn State player has ever been chosen in the pro draft.

LEROY THOMPSON

A Top 10 finisher in the Heisman Trophy vote, Thomas accounted for most of the roar in the Lions' rushing offense a year ago with 1,341 yards, nearly 60 percent of the team total. The Philadelphia phenom had an all-purpose total of 1,535 yards and a record-equalling eight 100-yard games.

Filling such cavernous cleats is about as appetizing as a Limburger cheese pizza.

Senior tailback Leroy Thompson, elected as one of the co-captains at the conclusion of spring drills, got a leg up on the rest of the field with a strong spring showing on the heels of an arresting effort in the Holiday Bowl. Moved from tailback to fullback when Thomas returned from a 1988 knee injury, Thompson put a pair of holes in the Brigham Young hull with 68 rushing yards and two touchdowns on 14 carries.

A Tennessee expatriate whose Knoxville home is almost in the shadow of Neyland Stadium, Thompson was the No. 3 rusher last fall with an average of 3.4 yards on 54 attempts. His resume includes more than 1,300 all-purpose yards in three letter-winning seasons.

"Leroy needs to stay healthy. He has to play in a couple of games where he carries the ball 10 or 20 times and gets comfortable. He really hasn't had that kind of experience," Paterno said.

"Leroy's attitude is a lot like Blair's. He has great work habits on the field and is the kind of strong personality who leads in the locker room."

One of the intriguing unknowns about the 1990 Lions is the career path of senior Gary Brown, whose bountiful skills are valued on either side of the line of scrimmage. A tailback and fullback in his freshman and sophomore seasons, Brown answered an emergency call to start five games at the hero position on defense last fall.

Paterno says Brown's unselfishness has earned him the option to either remain as a member of the defensive secondary or return to challenge for a role in the running attack.

"When we voted for captain in the spring, I told the defense to use a yellow slip and the offense to vote on a white slip. Gary put up his hand and showed me both slips. He said 'which one' and I said 'that's your choice.'"

Brown's 1990 address will be determined sometime prior to the start of preseason practice after Paterno meets with the senior and his family. Brown's speed and competitive zest will make him an "impact" player anywhere his number "27" appears.

Behind Thompson, and perhaps Brown, there are other running backs with promising credentials.

Gerry Collins, Andre's younger brother, was the No. 2 rusher in 1989 and carved up Syracuse with 104 yards on 19 attempts. His 4.7-yard average was topped only by Thomas among rushers who had more than 20 carries.

Sophomore Richie Anderson struggled with a balky back late last season and early this spring. If he's healthy, Anderson has big-league size [6-1, 210] and an explosive style as evidenced by a rushing average of 4.8 yards and a kickoff return yield of 22.3, best on the squad last fall.

Another potentially damaging offensive weapon blunted by injuries is tailback Bobby Samuels, who underwent off-season surgery to repair damage to his foot. Samuels, whose schoolboy sprint conquests included Notre Dame's Raghbi Ismail, posted a 19.7-yard average on a team-leading 10 kickoff returns last fall.

Since the 1986 National Championship season, the Nittany Lions have gotten yoeman effort at fullback from a succession of players without the physical dimensions the position requires. The recovery of redshirt senior Sam Gash from 1989 leg miseries and the green-ing of sophomore Brian O'Neal gives the 1990 Lions a pair of 220-plus pounders to shoulder the power running and blocking chores the offensive design demands.

"Sam Gash is the kind of fullback you need to be an outstanding football team," Paterno said. "His preseason injury last year was a big blow and his return this spring was a big lift. Sam sets a tone on the practice field and in the locker room that's a model for our younger players."

Gash's career has been pock-marked by a chain of injuries, resulting in a counterfeit career total of only 129 yards rushing. The redshirt senior was the Lions' No. 2 scorer in 1988 when he had seven short-range touchdowns.

O'Neal didn't miss a down all spring. Paterno sees a promising future for the sophomore, who had 32 yards rushing and a touchdown [vs. Rutgers] in limited action as a "true" freshman last fall. Brian Moser looked the part of a prospect in the Blue-White game when Gash pulled out early with a tight hamstring. Brian Kurlaj could further fortify the position if he is back to good health following a spring ankle injury.

With the "post-Thomas" ground attack a promise rather than a premise, Penn State's multiple offense qualifies for bonus points with an air game that boasts experienced fliers and bombardiers. Junior quarterback Tony Sacca qualified for the air medal in a Sea World Holiday bowl dog-fight with Brigham Young's Ty Detmer. Sacca hit on 10-of-20 attempts for 206 yards, including scoring strikes of 24 yards to Terry Smith and 52 yards to David Daniels. It was the third best postseason statistical performance ever by a Lions' quarterback.

"Tony is getting better and better all the time," Paterno noted. "He needed the kind of spring he had this year. He has started to assert himself as a leader, one of the areas he needed to demonstrate development.

"Sacca has marvelous physical skills. As he matures and sharpens his concentration, we anticipate the level of his performance will rise appropriately."

Sacca's game experience belies his age [20 last April]. He has been the starter in 15 of the 23 games he's dressed for at Penn State and already is closing in on the Lions' all-time Top 10 in career passing. With 1,515 yards entered in his account, Sacca is only a couple of big performances away from Chuck Burkhardt in tenth place.

While Sacca is the frontrunner, he is being closely pursued by three deserving challengers — fifth-year senior Tom Bill and redshirt juniors Matt Nardolillo and Corey Jett.

Bill re-enrolled during summer school after sitting out the Spring Semester to address personal problems. The opening day starter each of the last two seasons,

Bill has seen his ambitions foiled first by injury and later by a mis-step that led to a disciplinary suspension for three games last fall. In three seasons, Bill has a 47.0 percent completion rate and over 1,300 passing yards.

"I have my fingers crossed for Tom's sake, and the team's sake, that he will be back in the fall," Paterno said.

Nardolillo appeared under center in just three games but has shown growth in the mechanical and cerebral aspects of the position. A knee sprain put him on the shelf for the spring game but isn't expected to hamper his full participation come fall.

"Matt had a fine spring," Paterno remarked. "He was a 55-58 percent passer in scrimmages and practices. He has a nice touch and showed the capacity to make some nice adjustments."

Nardolillo's absence in the Blue-White game was a boost to the candidacy of Jett, whose handling of the foreign team offense earned him a transfer from cornerback to quarterback. Jett was 10-for-27 and had a pair of TD tosses, one of 77 yards to Samuels, in the Blue-White contest.

"Corey has a chance to be a good quarterback," Paterno said in sizing up the solid 6-footer who was a teammate of Brown at Williamsport [Pa.] HS.

"He has a lot of snap on the ball. His motion is a little erratic but when he throws correctly, it is an easy ball to catch. Since he is new to the position, reading coverages is one of the things that has been troublesome for him."

Penn State quarterbacks have the luxury of a veteran covey of receivers, headed by redshirt senior David Daniels who led the Lions a year ago in catches, receiving yards, and first down and touch-down receptions. Daniels has accounted for 684 yards on 38 catches and scored five times in two seasons.

His juggling end zone grab of a 52-yard toss from Sacca in the Holiday Bowl was highlight film material. But, with a career average of 18 yards per catch, Daniels has a demonstrated propensity for the spectacular. Witness the 75-yard scoring play, longest of the Lions' season, on a pass from Bill to start Temple on the way to a 42-3 defeat.

Teammate and classmate Terry Smith doesn't match Daniels' size but is the kind of pesky wideout that drives defensive backs to distraction. Twice in 1989, Smith got "lost" by coverage people and both plays resulted in big gainers — 43 yards at Rutgers and a 24-yard touchdown against Brigham Young in the Holiday Bowl. Smith's 18.6-yard average was the best for the receivers.

Junior O.J. McDuffie, part three of the veteran receiving trioka, spent his spring as a starting outfielder for the baseball team. McDuffie caught 11 passes in 1989 and ranked No. 7 among the national leaders in punt returns. He showed his exceptional speed and quickness by stealing a record-equalling 20 bases for the Lions' nine.

"Daniels, Smith and McDuffie will have to carry the load while the younger players get some experience," Paterno said. "They represent a strong foundation on which to build our receiving base this fall."

Ex-defensive back Rich Rosa, promising in limited action last fall, benefitted from a full spring practice at split end. One of the newcomers of note is Chip LaBarca, who stepped front-and-center with 91 receiving yards on a pair of catches in the spring game. LaBarca prospered, in an instructional sense, from McDuffie's decision to play baseball. Rangy Troy Drayton, an attractive target at 6-3, is another youngster who made a favorable spring impression.

No area of the squad is more unsettled than the tight end position.

"If we had one disappointment this spring," Paterno said, "it would be the string of injuries at tight end, a spot where there were question marks to begin with."

The top three candidates at tight end — John Gerak, Al Golden and Rudy Glocker — were casualties. Glocker had a winter workout knee injury that puts his 1990 availability in jeopardy. Gerak, ticketed for a move from fullback, never got serious time at the new position due to a muscle pull. The most experienced of the three, Golden sat out the final two weeks with a bad knee.

Jeff Anderson and Rick Sayles in search of new playbooks. Both turned out to be quick learners and shared second billing to Golden on the depth chart issued at the end of April.

An all-senior offensive line presents a picture of cohesion and experience but, for the 1990 Nittany Lions, such an image has the authenticity of a Hollywood movie set.

What one would project as the starting quintet up front played a combined total of 866 minutes last fall and 703 of those were credited to one man — strongside tackle Matt McCartin, the lone returning regular. Center Rob Luedeke, guards Mike Flanagan and Dave Brzenchek and tackle Pat Duffy are brand-new to starting responsibilities, although both Flanagan [vs. Texas] and Brzenchek [vs. Brigham Young] each had one such exposure a year ago.

"Aside from McCartin, whose spring leadership was rewarded by his election as a co-captain, the offensive line has a number of players who have put time in the program without getting a lot of attention," Paterno noted. "Young people like Luedeke, Flanagan, Brzenchek and Duffy have earned the opportunity to play regularly."

The Lions aren't deep in reserve strength but guards Sean Love and Jerrod Vance have previous starts in their back-grounds and tackle Greg Huntington has at least token game experience. Mac Gallagher, Paul Siever, Mark Flythe, E.J. Sandusky, Mike Heller and Sean Moffitt are backup candidates anxious to enlarge their respective roles. Two newcomers — Derick Pickett and Tom Prawdzik — and redshirt junior Todd Rucci, who moved over from defense, are green but have special skills of interest.

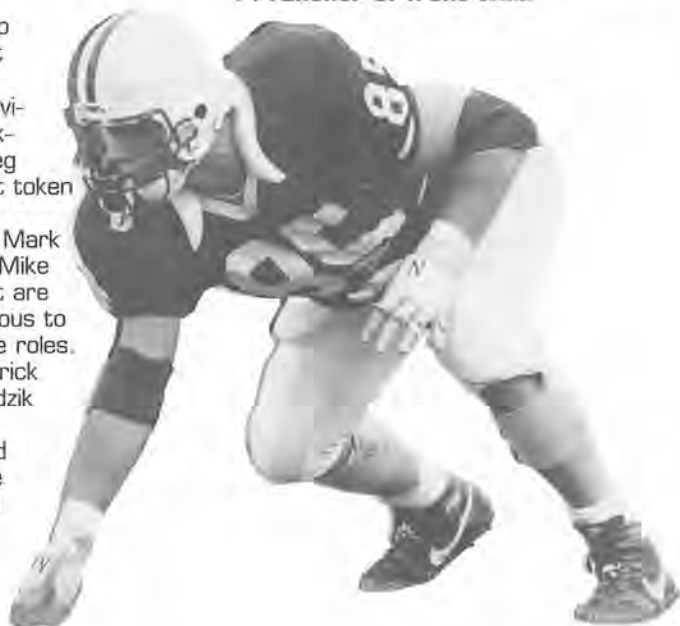

Making a case for the Nittany Lions'

"youth movement" is as simple as entering in evidence a defensive depth chart. Just three names turn up with a single season of remaining eligibility — tackle Frank Giannetti, safety Willie Thomas and reserve outside linebacker George Kidwell. Gary Brown, should he opt for a return to hero, is a potential addition to the list.

It will not be easy to compensate for the loss of defenders like Collins, linebacker Brian Chizmar, tackle Rich Schonewolf and safety Sherrod Rainge from a unit that ranked No. 4 in the nation in scoring defense last fall. Between them, Collins, Chizmar, Schonewolf and Rainge earned a total of 15 letters in four seasons, an experience level unmatched among the defensive returnees.

Giannetti and nose tackle Jim Deter provide a working nucleus on the defensive line. A fifth-year senior, Giannetti started 10 games in 1990 after making three appearances in the starting lineup a year earlier. Deter didn't allow injuries to diminish his contribution last year. He was No. 2 among "down" linemen [to

Rich Schonewolf] in total tackles with 35, including a headline effort of seven stops against West Virginia.

Redshirt juniors Todd Burger and Tony Matesic got isolated starting assignments due to injuries and figure to show the progression of that experience plus an additional spring practice. Burger made an off-season move on Schonewolf's vacant spot at right tackle and heads into the autumn preseason as the No. 1 contender.

Getting back nose tackle Eric Renkey, whose 1989 season was a washout due to a painful toe injury, is a lift to the defensive planners as is the addition of three gifted sophomores — Tyoka Jackson, Lou Benfatti and Chris Mazzyck — all of whom took redshirt seasons as freshmen.

"We have some solid experience on the defensive line, with people like Giannetti and Deter, and some youngsters who have a chance to be pretty good. Burger and Matesic got their feet wet last year and it showed this spring. Renkey has all of the tools to be an outstanding nose tackle if he can get his weight under control," Paterno forecast.

The inside linebacking tandem of Collins and Chizmar smashed statistical barriers like a runaway locomotive last fall, rolling up nearly 250 tackles and winning a place among the most proficient defenders in Penn State history.

While the Collins-Chizmar act is tough to follow, redshirt seniors Keith Goganious and Mark D'Onofrio have no reservations about making the attempt.

D'Onofrio, who moves inside from a 1989 starting berth at outside linebacker, is the top returning tackler with 54 stops and a team-leading 11 quarterback sacks. A fierce competitor, D'Onofrio also forced five fumbles, recovered two, and made five tackles behind the line of scrimmage.

If the coaching staff needed convincing, Goganious proved his readiness for a regular shift by winning the Jim O'Hara Award as the "most improved" defensive player in spring drills. A 1989 spring finger injury was a setback that limited his participation to reserve duty last fall. Goganious has the superior size (6-3, 232) to plug the running lanes and the mobility to excel in coverage.

As is the case with Renkey on the defensive line, the inside linebacking picture would be brightened if senior Andre Powell, part of the training room team in 1989, makes a successful recovery, a la Blair Thomas, from major knee surgery. A two-time letterman, Powell has the rare distinction of starting at linebacker as a "true" freshman.

Promise isn't the issue among the inside linebacking reserves. Brett Wright, Rob Ruslavage, Greg Astle, Brian Monaghan and Jason Oakman are rich in potential but, as seems to be the case almost everywhere, lean on experience — the best teacher.

"D'Onofrio and Goganious are strong leaders and excellent players. They give us a strong combination to start with. Add Andre Powell to the mix and it's better yet," Paterno offered. "After the first three, we're not talking about kids who have any significant playing time."

In what clearly is a contradiction in terms, the "elders" at outside linebacker are among Penn State's youngest in chronological years. Reggie Givens and Rich McKenzie, both of whom turn 19 this year, were starters as "true" freshmen in 1990 and Eric Ravotti, also 19, lettered as one of the principal defensive reserves.

Givens, the leader among freshmen in minutes played, broke into the defensive lineup for the West Virginia game and remained there for the rest of the season. He had an active year with 37 tackles, two sacks, a pair of fumble recoveries and three stops behind the line of scrimmage. McKenzie answered the call for an injured D'Onofrio in the Holiday Bowl and responded with a night's work that included four tackles and some heavy pressure on Brigham Young's Detmer.

Ravotti and Kidwell, whose availability is subject to a comeback from postseason back surgery, will duel with McKenzie at the "willie" slot along with Tom Wade and Ron Fields.

Givens' principal pursuers will be Ryan Grube and Ivory Gethers. Grube is a red-shirt sophomore who struggled with injuries during the spring. Gethers, a top prospect with exceptional speed, played behind Collins a year ago and registered 19 tackles. His move to outside linebacker was complicated by a spring shoulder injury requiring corrective surgery.

Like Powell at inside linebacker, "willie" prospect Tom Wade still is somewhat limited by the implications of major knee surgery. A fully healthy Wade would be a bonus to the outside cast. Ron Fields and Pat Irwin round out the field of prospects on the flank.

Senior co-captain Willie Thomas has started more games [21] than any other returning player. But, even Thomas — a cornerback in his previous life — showed up in a new neighborhood this spring. In a repeat of what was a successful 1989 experiment involving Rainge, Thomas took up residence at free safety where his experience will be valuable in adjusting the defense to changing formations and shifting field position.

"Willie is more of a natural at safety than he was at corner," Paterno noted. "He is a very fluid kid, tackles well and has the intelligence and experience to excel in the new position."

Thomas led all defensive backs with 38 solo stops last fall and was No. 5 overall in tackles with 53. He was one of 10 players to start every game. Thomas is nearing 100 career tackles (88) and has two interceptions in his three letter-winning campaigns.

The domino effect touched off by Thomas' move to safety sent Hernon Henderson from the left side, where he started in 1989, to right corner and created an opening on the final depth chart claimed by reserve Leonard Humphries. Darren Perry, a six-time starter when he shared time with Brown last fall, is an old hand at hero.

Despite just two years of high school experience, Henderson prospered as a starter, after taking a redshirt season as a sophomore. He was second to Rainge in interceptions with four and had 15 deflections, tops among defensive backs.

Humphries made a memorable play at Texas when he recovered a blocked punt for the winning touchdown. He was in 10 of 11 games and got a considerable work-out as a defensive reserve.

Henderson's experience is much more extensive than either of his principal challengers, Greg Fusetti and Frank Yeboah-Kodie. Fusetti has some previous gametime and the experience to play either side. Speed is Yeboah-Kodie's best asset. The sophomore from Montreal, Canada, had to sit out with a shoulder injury a year ago.

Pressing Humphries for playing time will be Mark Graham and sophomore Tisen Thomas, who was one of the stickouts in the Blue-White game with an interception, a pass deflection and 151 yards on returns. A part-time player as a "true" freshman in 1988, Graham is back after a year lost to shoulder woes.

Matt Baggett missed spring drills to continue his recovery from a Holiday Bowl spleen injury, which meant more repetitions for Mike Smith and Lee Rubin at free safety. The trio, particularly Baggett whose linebacker size doesn't diminish his closing speed, provides a blue-chip insurance policy behind Thomas.

Chris Cisar, a letterman as a freshman in 1988, returns from a dislocated wrist to shore up the hero position, which gets a lift as well from the spring development of sophomore Shelly Hammonds.

There will be something old and something new about the kicking game. The "old" is Doug Helkowski, who has handled every punt for the past two seasons, more than 125 in all. Helkowski enters 1990 with a career average of 38.8, already No. 7 on the school's career chart.

The "new" will be an as yet unnamed successor to Ray Tarasi, last year's leading scorer when he nailed a school record 82.6 percent of his field goal tries.

The chase for Tarasi's vacant position boiled down to Henry Adkins, V.J. Muscillo and John Van Allen this past spring. There is, however, no clear-cut leader heading into the fall preseason.

The Nittany Lions appear to be especially blessed in the punt and kickoff return departments. McDuffie was No. 7 in the nation last fall with a punt return average of 14.63 that included an 84-yard scoring gallop at Syracuse. Off what he showed in the Blue-White game, Tisen Thomas is another gifted punt returner.

McDuffie and Thomas both have kickoff return skills as well but they are by no means a minority of two. Thompson, Brown, Anderson and Samuels also have brought back kicks and posted some big numbers doing so. Thompson's 24.2 career average is the best of anyone in the group. Anderson [22.3], Brown [20.7] and Samuels [19.7] are clustered around the 20-yard norm but boast the explosiveness to break any return in a big way.

Accelerating the aging process has never received a scientific priority but, in the laboratory where he has achieved many spectacular successes, Joe Paterno has an experiment underway.

HENRY ADKINS
5-9 156 1-14-69
Senior Kicker
Charlotte, N.C.

With record-setting Ray Tarasi lost to graduation, the placement responsibilities are up for grabs and Henry Adkins is one of the stronger candidates to succeed Tarasi this fall. Adkins' principal competition will come from redshirt sophomore V.J. Muscillo and true sophomore John Van Allen. Adkins is the only one of the group that has ever attempted a field goal or PAT in a game. Adkins' hit two of three field goal attempts in the Blue-White game, including one of 32 yards in the fourth period that was the game-winner for the Blue team. He earlier hit a 25-yard effort and was short on a try of 50 yards. His afternoon's effort included two PATs in as many attempts.

LION CAREER: 1989—Tarasi's extraordinary efficiency meant a season of inactivity for Adkins, who didn't attempt a field goal or PAT. He demonstrated both his distance and accuracy in practice sessions. 1988—Aside from a successful PAT in the Cincinnati game, Adkins' participation was limited to kickoffs until he became the placement specialist for the Maryland game. He hit the first field goal of his college career in the opening quarter against the Terps, splitting the up-rights from 27 yards. For the year, he was 1-of-4 on field goal tries. He missed from 46 yards vs. Cincinnati, 49 yards vs. Maryland and 39 yards vs. Pittsburgh. He was perfect on four PATs. 1987—Adkins was a member of the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-time all-conference selection at Charlotte County Day School, Adkins was successful on 3-of-6 field goal attempts his senior season. In his career, he connected on 8-of-13 field goal tries with his best a 53-yarder. Adkins won three letters as a kicker and punter and in baseball as a shortstop and pitcher.

PERSONAL: Full name is Henry Thomas Adkins. He is enrolled in the finance program of the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I'm encouraged by what I've seen of our kicking. I couldn't tell you that I feel we are home free but I am encouraged. I think Henry Adkins has a chance to be a good kicker." — Joe Paterno.

JEFF ANDERSON
6-2 230 5-6-69
Junior Tight End
State College, Pa.

One look at the depleted ranks at tight end was all that was required to send Jeff Anderson from the defensive meeting room to the offense planning center down the hall. A linebacker for most of his career, Anderson made an easy adjustment to tight end and shared the No. 2 spot on the spring depth chart with teammate Rick Sayles, another converted linebacker. The competition is almost too close to call and it wouldn't be surprising if Anderson cracked the starting cast by the time the Texas game rolls around. With Al Golden on the shelf for the spring game, Anderson started for the Blue offense and had one catch for an eight-yard game. An intelligent player, Anderson's experience on both sides of the ball makes him doubly valuable.

LION CAREER: 1989—Anderson played sparingly as a defensive reserve, but figured in a couple of the season's most significant plays as a member of the kickoff return team. His 19-yard runback at Pittsburgh gave the Lions excellent field position to launch their drive for the winning field goal. After a fine 17-yard kick return against Maryland was wiped out by a procedure penalty, Anderson returned the re-kick 25 yards. In the Holiday Bowl, he had a pair of kickoff returns for 39 yards, one a 23-yard effort that provided the impetus for a scoring march. Anderson appeared in seven of 11 games. 1988-Anderson spent the season in the training room, continuing the rehabilitation of a broken leg suffered in the 1987 preseason. He did get some limited work with the foreign team, only to suffer a succession of additional injuries. Anderson dressed for one game [Rutgers], but did not play and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: An all-state selection in football and lacrosse at Bridgewater East HS, Anderson served as captain in both sports his junior and senior years. A linebacker and tight end, he recorded 196 career tackles and snared 26 passes. Anderson competed for New Jersey's South team in the 1987 football and lacrosse all-star games.

PERSONAL: Full name is Jeffrey Scott Anderson. His father, Dick, who served as an assistant coach on the Penn State staff from 1973-83, returned to the Lions' staff this year after six seasons as head coach at Rutgers. Anderson has two brothers and a sister and is a management major in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "We moved Jeff from inside linebacker to tight end because we thought he could help us at a position where we don't have a lot of experience. Jeff is a good athlete and played some tight end in high school. He runs and catches the ball well. Jeff has to learn to block a little better, which you would expect since he hasn't played offense anytime recently." — Joe Paterno.

RICHIE ANDERSON
Sophomore Tailback
Sandy Spring, Md.

A healthy Richie Anderson could have a major impact on the tailback picture this fall. The sophomore, who played impressively, but sparingly as a freshman last fall, was out for the first part of the spring with the holdover effects of a late-season back injury that ruled him out of the Pittsburgh game and the Holiday Bowl. Anderson was able to participate in the final two weeks of spring ball and was one of the Blue-White standouts with two touchdown receptions on passes of 31 and 32 yards from Tony Sacca. Anderson rushed for 29 yards on 10 carries and caught four passes for 76 yards. Anderson is a prototype tailback with the size to run with power inside and the speed to turn the corner outside. On the final spring depth chart, he was bracketed with Bobby Samuels behind Leroy Thompson and Gerry Collins.

LION CAREER: 1989-One of the few freshmen to log any significant playing time, Anderson showed exceptional promise as a tailback and kick returner. He had 16 carries for 77 yards, an average of 4.8 per attempt. He scored a touchdown on a one-yard run against Temple. His most impressive game was at Syracuse, where he gained 44 yards on five carries, including a 35-yard run that was his longest of the season. He topped the kickoff return statistics with a 22.3-yard average on seven runbacks. His 34-yard return vs. Alabama was the Lions' longest of the season.

HIGH SCHOOL: Anderson was one of the most honored players in the nation as a senior rushing sensation at Sherwood HS in Sandy Spring, Md. A consensus scholastic All-America, he was USA Today's choice as Maryland Player-of-the-Year. He also won the Washington Post's nod as Offensive Player-of-the-Year in the Metro area. In two seasons, Anderson rushed for more than 3,500 yards and 40 touchdowns. He averaged better than eight yards a carry and more than 200 yards a game as a senior, when he gained 2,062 yards. An outstanding basketball player as well, Anderson averaged in excess of 20 points per game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Richard Darnoll Anderson. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Richie Anderson is an outstanding prospect. He has to make a place for himself. He is obviously starting out behind two good football players — Leroy Thompson and Gerry Collins — but, because of injuries, has not gotten enough work to really challenge them yet. He has to go out there and show people and just play, to show people that he is better than the competition." — Joe Paterno.

GREG ASTLE
Sophomore
Inside Linebacker
Winter Park, Fla.

Greg Astle's rise through the linebacker ranks to a backup spot (with Andre Powell) behind Mark D'Onofrio was one of the pleasant happenings of spring practice. Although he didn't play as a freshman, Astle put a year on the foreign squad to good use sharpening the skills he displayed as a Florida scholastic standout. In the spring game, Astle started at inside linebacker for the White defense and checked in with three tackles, two of them unassisted. He also was credited with a pass deflection. Astle's inexperience is typical of many of the reserves at the linebacker position, but he makes up for a lack of seasoning with an aggressive approach to his defensive responsibilities.

LION CAREER: 1989-Astle got his feet wet as a member of the foreign team defense and retained freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-year starter at Lake Howell HS, Astle set a Florida prep record as a senior when he was credited with 29 tackles in a game. He won first-team All-Central Florida honors and was Defensive Player-of-the-Year in Seminole County. He was credited with 139 tackles in his final season.

PERSONAL: Full name is Greg Gordon Astle. He is a business administration major.

MATT BAGGETT
6-1 210 1-19-69
Senior Free Safety
Doylestown, Pa.

An injury to his spleen in the Holiday Bowl required surgery and kept Matt Baggett on the sidelines this spring. Baggett, however, attended every practice and kept up with the defensive plan both on the field and in the meeting room. Baggett's recovery is expected to be complete by the start of fall practice, setting up the possibility of a preseason contest with Willie Thomas for the free safety position that opened up with the graduation of Sherrod Rainge. Baggett previously has shown his versatility in stints at outside linebacker and hero. A hard hitter, he also has good speed and a veteran's understanding of the defensive scheme.

LION CAREER: 1989-Moved from outside linebacker to free safety in the preseason, Baggett started for the injured Rainge against Virginia, Temple and Boston College. He became the backup when Rainge returned for the Texas game, finishing the year with 261 total plays. Baggett made 20 tackles (14 solo) and broke up four passes. He had four-tackle efforts vs. Virginia and Boston College. Injured on special teams against Brigham Young, Baggett underwent surgery immediately after the game to repair a damaged spleen. 1988-A starter against Rutgers when the Lions opened with an extra linebacker, Baggett won his first letter as he accumulated 311 plays, almost evenly split between defense [148] and special teams [163]. He ended the season with 14 tackles [12 solo] and six defended passes. Baggett had three-tackle games against Virginia, Rutgers and Syracuse. 1987-Baggett worked with the foreign team defense, but did not register playing time, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: An all-state selection at Central Bucks West HS, Baggett started at linebacker on the 1984 and 1985 state championship teams. A Big 33 selection, he also won all-league honors in basketball and in track as a javelin thrower and relay man.

PERSONAL: Full name is Matthew McLeod Baggett. He has a brother and a sister. Baggett is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts speech communication major.

Sophomore
Green Pond, N.J.

Given the opportunity to escape the anonymity of the foreign team, Lou Benfatti capitalized with a spring performance that sent him marching up the depth chart to No. 2 at right defensive tackle. With a big preseason effort, Benfatti could apply some pressure to projected starter Todd Burger. Opening for the White defense in the Blue-White game, Benfatti had an active afternoon with four solo tackles and one assist. He also crashed across the line of scrimmage to foil one rushing attempt for a three-yard loss. Benfatti is big enough and quick enough to be a significant contributor on the defensive line.

LION CAREER: 1989-Benfatti went to school on the defensive basics as a member of the foreign team. He did not appear in any games, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: At Morris Knolls HS, coach Bill Reagan didn't hesitate to sing the praises of his senior standout, who grew from a 225-pound contributor as a junior to a 260-pound All-Everything as a senior. Benfatti won a first-team All-New Jersey berth on teams chosen by the Newark Star-Ledger and the Associated Press. He surfaced as well on the Scholastic Coach All-America team.

Senior Quarterback
Flemington, N.J.

Penn State's starting quarterback in each of the last two season openers, fifth-year senior Tom Bill withdrew from school during the spring semester to deal with some personal problems. Although he missed spring practice, Bill has the experience to catch up quickly if he makes it back this fall. Bill has excellent mechanics, a veteran's understanding of the offense and is a commanding presence in the huddle. He bounced back from an early season suspension to play effectively in the final three games of the season. Bill's return would further strengthen a position that already is solid with starter Tony Sacca, backup Matt Nardolillo and newcomer Corey Jett ahead of him on the depth chart.

LION CAREER: 1989-After opening under center against Virginia and Temple, Bill was suspended for violation of a team policy on Sept. 18. He did not dress for the Boston College or Texas games and dressed but did not play vs. Rutgers. He returned for a series late in the win at Syracuse and worked two quarters-plus in each of the final three games — Maryland, Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. He completed 43 of his 89 passes, a percentage of 48.9, for 605 yards. Bill had three touchdown passes and two interceptions. His longest completion also was the team's longest — a 75-yard touchdown heave to David Daniels on the first play of the Temple game. Bill also had a 38-yard TD pass to Daniels vs. the Owls and a five-yard TD toss to Terry Smith against Notre Dame. His best yardage total was 192 [six completions] vs. Temple. He hit high marks for attempts [27] vs. Virginia and completions [13] at Pittsburgh. He also was the No. 4 rusher with 111 yards on 28 attempts, including a career-high 76 yards on the ground vs. Notre Dame. His 20-yard run against Notre Dame also was a career long. Bill's rushing total was the best for a Lions' quarterback since Doug Strang [179] in 1984. 1988-After a blazing start, Bill's season went up in flames when he suffered a dislocated kneecap against Rutgers and spent the rest of the year as a spectator. In three appearances as a starter, Bill completed 36-of-68 passes for 476 yards and three touchdowns. He suffered a pair of interceptions and was sacked nine times. Bill had a brilliant game in the opener at Virginia, hitting on 15-of-22 passes for 179 yards and two TDs.

He was neither intercepted nor sacked and added 12 yards on three rushes. In his three starts, Bill logged 195 offensive plays. 1987-As a redshirt freshman, Bill was backup to Matt Knizner. He was in for 111 plays and completed 16-of-36 attempts [44.4 percent] for 247 yards. He had TD passes, both to Ray Roundtree, of 21 yards vs. Alabama and 59 yards at Syracuse. His longest and most effective stint was against Alabama, when he was rushed into action after Knizner suffered a concussion. He hit 7-of-11 for 88 yards and one TD against the Tide. He was 4-of-10 for 100 yards and a touchdown in a reserve appearance at Syracuse. Bill's rushing totals were modest: 11 carries for 29 yards. He threw four interceptions and was sacked three times. A preseason shoulder injury hampered his development and he missed the Pittsburgh and Notre Dame games with a hand injury suffered when he hit a teammate's helmet in warmups prior to the Maryland contest. In a brief Citrus Bowl role, he carried once for three yards and did not attempt a pass. 1986-Bill worked with the foreign team and did not see action during the National Championship season. However, he did portray Miami's Vinny Testaverde in Fiesta Bowl practices and helped the Nittany Lions prepare for the Heisman Trophy winner and his No. 1-rated squad.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-time all-state performer in football and lacrosse, Bill won All-American honors in both sports. As a quarterback for Hunterdon Central HS, he passed for 49 scores and over 5,000 yards. He guided the team to the state title game in his senior year and served as captain of the football and lacrosse squads that year. He played in the 1986 New Jersey all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Thomas James Bill. He has six brothers and two sisters and is an administration of justice major in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I think Tom has a good shot at making it. He went through his rehabilitation and helped coach at his high school in the spring. I have my fingers crossed for Tom's sake, and for the team's sake, that he will be back this fall."

GARY BROWN
Senior Hero/Tailback
Williamsport, Pa.

When fall rolls around, Gary Brown will jump into a stance and the suspense will finally end. Brown's future remained a mystery this spring as the three-time letterman passed up spring drills to catch up on some academic work. The leading rusher out of the tailback slot as a sophomore, Brown was asked to help out on defense last fall and did so nicely, starting at hero in five games and adding an exclamation point to Penn State's Holiday Bowl win over Brigham Young by stealing the ball from Ty Detmer and racing 53 yards for the clinching touchdown. Whenever he winds up, Brown is the type of gifted athlete who not only can play on either side of the line, but do so with distinction. He is a proven Division 1-A runner with nearly 1,800 yards of all-purpose yardage in 1987-88. As a defensive back, Brown uses his excellent speed to close on running plays or chase down pass receivers. At 208 pounds, he runs with power or, in a defensive mode, tackles with authority.

LION CAREER: 1989-Brown was moved from tailback to hero during pre-season drills. He shared the position with Darren Perry, starting against Rutgers, Syracuse, Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. Brown ranked No. 4 among defensive backs and No. 11 overall in tackles with 21 solo stops and 13 assists. He had a season-high of eight stops vs. Rutgers and racked up his only quarterback sack against Temple. In addition to his fumble recovery and TD run in the Holiday Bowl, Brown registered four solo tackles. His running skills were put to good use on kickoff returns where he averaged 19.5 yards on four runbacks with a long of 23 vs. Alabama. 1988-With Blair Thomas injured, Brown shared tailback duties with Leroy Thompson and Sean Redman. Brown finished as the leading rusher with 689 yards on 136 carries, an average of 5.1 yards per try. His longest run of the season was a 57-yard touchdown scamper at Temple. Brown also paced the team in scoring with 44 points on seven touchdowns and one two-point conversion. He was the No. 4 pass receiver, making 11 catches for 152 yards and one touchdown. His best rushing statistics were against Maryland, a game in which he gained 102 yards on 17 tries, the first 100-yard rushing performance of his Penn State career. He topped the 80-yard mark against both Boston College [83] and Temple [80]. Brown caught four passes for 45 yards against Rutgers. He also was the No. 1 kickoff returner with 427 yards, an average of 19.4 yards per try, and topped the team in all-purpose running with an average of 115.3 yards per game rushing, receiving and returning. His 36-yard kickoff return at Virginia was his longest of the season. He established a record for kickoff returns with seven at West Virginia. Brown opened at tailback in six games and played on 376 offensive downs, second only to John Greene among running backs. 1987—The No. 3 rusher, Brown started at tailback in the Citrus Bowl for the injured Blair Thomas and rushed 13 times for 51 yards [3.9 average], with a long gain of 21 yards. He also caught two passes for 14 yards. In 11 regular-season appearances, Brown carried 42 times for 273 yards [6.5 average] and three TDs. His 80-yard TD jaunt at Syracuse was Penn State's longest play and put Brown in the record book for the longest run by a Lion freshman [matching Kevin Baugh's effort vs. Colgate in 1980]. Against the Orange, Brown had his best day with 94 yards on five carries. His two other TDs came on a 36-yard run vs. Cincinnati and a 19-yard scamper for the winning score vs. West Virginia. He also caught three passes for 19 yards and returned four kickoffs for 71 yards. Brown and Leroy Thompson shared No. 2 tailback chores behind Thomas.

HIGH SCHOOL: Pennsylvania's 1986 high school Player-of-the-Year, Brown earned first-team all-state honors and led Williamsport Area HS to the Eastern Conference championship. In three years, Brown rushed for 4,111 yards, scored 74 touchdowns and capped his career by playing in the 1986 Big 33 game. A track standout, Brown was part of a state championship quartet in the 4x100 relay.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gary Leroy Brown. Brown, who has two younger brothers, is enrolled in the rehabilitation education curriculum of the College of Education.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Sometime before fall practice begins, we'll sit down with Gary and his family to talk about his situation. He helped us when we needed help at hero last year and, if that is where he wants to stay, we'll certainly keep him there. But, if he wants to come back and play tailback again, we'll respect that decision. It's Gary's call." — Joe Paterno.

"He's very understanding and sensitive. If someone is being taken advantage of or not being treated fairly, it really gets to him." — Mrs. Dorreen Brown, Gary's mother.

"Every player wants to play pro football. Looking at it realistically, every player is not going to make it. [Playing different positions] could help me in that it will make me a better all-around player. It will show my versatility." — Gary Brown.

DAVE BRZENCHEK
6-3 259 8-10-68
Senior Guard
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A surprise starter at short guard in the Holiday Bowl, Dave Brzenchek renewed his claim for top billing at the position during spring practice. A dependable, smart player who minimizes mistakes, Brzenchek compensates for some physical shortcomings with an admirable resolution not to be beaten. While Jerrod Vance and Sean Love can be expected to challenge when fall practice convenes, Brzenchek is the early favorite to open at short guard against Texas.

LION CAREER: 1989-In a limited back-up role in the regular-season, Brzenchek logged just 26 plays in six games. He spent most of his time at center, but also played some guard, as he had in previous campaigns. Brzenchek came on strong late in the season to rate a starting call at guard for the Holiday Bowl. He suffered an injury in the game and was unable to finish. 1988-The No. 3 center on the final depth chart, Brzenchek dressed for every game, but played in just two [Virginia, Temple]. He finished with a total of 11 plays. 1987-Working at guard, Brzenchek continued to improve his offensive skills although he did not appear in any games. 1986-Brzenchek worked at guard with the foreign team and did not play during the National Championship season.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year letterman as a linebacker and tight end and as a center in basketball, Brzenchek was a Big 33 selection in his senior year at Coughlin HS. He captained both the football and basketball teams as a senior. The football team, with Brzenchek as a team leader, won the Wyoming Valley West conference in 1985. Brzenchek also played on the winning East team in the Unico all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is David John Brzenchek. He has two brothers and two sisters. Brzenchek is an aerospace engineering major.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Dave is not an overpowering football player, but is very smart and has great technique. He's not a guy that will make a substantial impression if you put a watch on him, weigh him or observe how much weight he can put over his head. But, he never makes a mistake. Dave is going to be a fine guard."

Defensive Tackle
Clark, N.J.

As a redshirt sophomore last fall, Todd Burger showed a knack for rushing the passer that did not fail to attract the coaching staff's attention. After working some at nose tackle in 1989, Burger concentrated at defensive tackle in the spring and wound up as heir apparent to Rich Schonewolf, the second-team All-East operative who has moved on to the Kansas City Chiefs. Burger is quick to shed blocks and apply heat to the quarterback. He had a pair of tackles for the winning Blue defense in the spring game.

LION CAREER: 1989-Burger's first-year resume included some very big plays. In the Holiday Bowl, he was credited with four tackles [two solo] and two quarterback sacks for 10 yards in losses. He had a quarterback sack and a tackle for loss in the fourth quarter of the Texas game, when the Longhorns were trying to mount a comeback. When Jim Deter reinjured his ankle against Notre Dame, Burger was inserted on the nose and responded with four tackles. He started at nose tackle in the Pittsburgh finale, only to be sidelined in the first period with a knee strain. Burger failed to appear in just two games [Boston College, Alabama] as he accumulated 125 defensive plays and won his first letter. 1988-Burger worked on the foreign team at defensive tackle. He did not play and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year starter and two-way tackle at A.L. Johnson Regional HS, Burger was first-team all-state and USA Today honorable-mention All-America. As a senior, he made 56 tackles, 12 sacks and 10 tackles behind the line and was named Union County Defensive Player-of-the-Year. His career statistics were just as impressive: more than 150 tackles, 23 sacks and 27 tackles for losses. A three-sport captain, Burger also was a two-time all-state midfielder in lacrosse and put the shot 59 feet indoors.

Junior Hero
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Spring practice provided Chris Cisar with an opportunity to retune the talent that made him a valuable contributor to the defense and special teams in 1988. Sitting out last season left Cisar a little rusty and made the winter conditioning and spring practice programs important in reestablishing himself as a factor in the defensive secondary. By the end of spring drills, Cisar had climbed to No. 2 at the hero position, behind Darren Perry. In the Blue-White game, he started for the Blue and had two unassisted tackles as well as a pass deflection. A healthy Cisar will be a bonus to the defensive depth in 1990.

LION CAREER: 1989-A dislocated wrist in one of the final preseason scrimmages put Cisar on the shelf for the entire season. He received a medical red-shirt and retained a year of eligibility.

1988-Cisar and North Hills HS teammate Eric Renkey saw more service on defense than any other "true" freshmen. Cisar appeared in all 11 games on special teams and as a reserve free safety. He made 12 tackles [nine solo] and notched a personal-high three stops against Cincinnati.

HIGH SCHOOL: A multi-talented player, Cisar played five positions during his prep career, which culminated in North Hills HS being named mythical 1987 National Champions by USA Today. As a senior, Cisar collected 79 tackles and five interceptions as a defensive back and 16 receptions for 261 yards and seven TDs as a tight end. He also carried the ball 23 times for 152 yards and returned punts and kickoffs. According to his coach, Jack McCurry, he also could have done the placekicking and punting. Cisar was first-team all-state, a USA Today honorable-mention All-American, a member of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Fabulous 22, a Big 33 pick, and a choice for the Pittsburgh Press Finest 44. He also was an outstanding southpaw pitcher for the baseball team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Christopher Dana Cisar. His sister, Donna, is one year ahead of him at Penn State. He is a business logistics major in the College of Business Administration.

GERRY COLLINS
5-8 191 6-4-69
Senior Tailback
Cinnaminson, N.J.

While one brother [Andre] has gone on to the NFL Washington Redskins, another [incoming freshman Phil] joins Gerry Collins on the Nittany Lions' roster this fall. Gerry waged a spirited battle for the starting tailback job in the spring and was just an eyelash behind starter Leroy Thompson as the No. 2 man on the final depth chart. For the second year in a row, Collins registered an impressive performance in the Blue-White game, racking up 52 yards on 16 carries to lead the White team in rushing and trail only Thompson [10 for 75] among the game's ground-gainers. With some valuable game experience in 1989, Collins figures to be prominent in the rushing plans this fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Blair Thomas dominated the headlines, but Collins quietly gained nearly 300 yards [293 on 62 carries] and posted an excellent 4.7 yards per rush average that was topped only by Thomas among players who had 25 or more attempts. His best game was at Syracuse, where he charged past the century mark with 104 yards on 19 carries. Collins was the only player other than Thomas to gain 100 yards in a game. His longest run and only touchdown came on the same play against Temple, when he raced 20 yards for a score. Collins was over 50 yards in two contests — against Virginia [11 for 57] and Temple [6 for 51]. His rushes produced 12 first downs. He also caught a pair of passes, both in the win over Rutgers at the Meadowlands. In the final five games, Collins had just 14 attempts for 27 yards as Thomas drew the lion's share of the rushing burden. 1988-Collins ran tailback for the foreign team and has three years of eligibility remaining.

HIGH SCHOOL: Collins was a first-team all-county and second-team All-South Jersey selection as a tailback at Cinnaminson HS. He served as captain of the team his senior year and also was a sprinter on the track and field team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gerald S. Collins. He is one of 19 children with six brothers and 12 sisters, including one former [Andre] and one present [Phil] Penn State football player. Collins is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "He's tough to find. He's very strong-legged and he accelerates very well. And he's got great eyesight that allows him to see where the openings are. For his first year as a tailback in a big program, he did very well."
 — Joe Paterno.

"Colorado State was the only big school to offer me a scholarship. Because I was short, most schools didn't want to take a chance on me. Colorado State did. But when I got there they had me on the fourth team. I thought I should have been higher. So I decided to come home and I sat out a semester. My mom had always wanted me to go to Penn State, so I went [as a walk-on], had a really good spring and Coach Paterno offered me a scholarship." — Gerry Collins.

 Junior Fullback
 Camp Hill, Pa.

Bob Daman didn't get on the field during spring ball due to a painful back injury that could rule him out this fall. Although he doesn't appear on the final depth chart as a result of his absence from spring drills, Daman would project as both a running back and prominent member of the special teams should his physical situation have a satisfactory resolution prior to the beginning of preseason drills.

LION CAREER: 1989-While he didn't have a carry from scrimmage, Daman made his mark as a member of the special teams, playing effectively on the kickoff return unit. He fielded three kick-offs and logged 55 return yards, an average of 18.3 that was good enough to rank him No. 4 in the composite kickoff return statistics. Daman's longest return was 23 yards at Texas. He also received credit for one assisted tackle at Maryland. 1988-Daman was a member of the foreign team and did not play, thus retaining four seasons of eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: Daman rushed for 1,371 yards his senior year and led Cedar Cliff HS to the 1987 district AAAA championship. The 11-1 Colts defeated York in the district semifinal behind Daman, who rambled for 240 yards, including scoring runs of 82 and 43 yards. He set a school record for career rushing yards in just two seasons at tailback. Daman was a third-team all-state selection at strong safety and was a member of Pennsylvania's victorious 1988 Big 33 squad. For the track and field team, he participated in the jumps, sprints and relays. His best in the long jump was 22-5.

PERSONAL: Full name is Robert Patrick Daman. He is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts economics major.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I think Bob has a chance to be a good fullback if he can get over his back problems. He practiced last year with a lot of pain. This spring we let him rest the back to see if that would help." — Joe Paterno.

DAVID DANIELS
 6-1 191 9-16-69
 Senior
 Wide Receiver
 Sarasota, Fla.

Big plays have become ordinary stuff for wideout David Daniels, whose touchdown reception in the Holiday Bowl ranks among the most memorable in Penn State history. Daniels was at his best this spring with an impressive array of eye-catching grabs in scrimmages. A sore hamstring forced Daniels to miss the Blue-White game, but will not limit him from going all-out once preseason practices begin. Daniels has outstanding skills and at 6-1 is a rangy target. He runs disciplined routes and makes the tough catches in traffic. With the growth that can be expected from an additional year's experience, Daniels seems sure to be among the top receivers in the East this fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Daniels led the Lions in catches, receiving yards, first down receptions and touchdown grabs. He caught 22 balls for 362 yards, 16 first downs and four TDs. His 16.5-yard average was second only to Terry Smith. Daniels and Tom Bill were involved in the longest pass play of the season — a 75-yard scoring strike on the first play of the Temple game. Daniels celebrated his birthday against the Owls with three catches for a career-high 126 yards and two TDs. It was the fifth-best game yardage total for a Penn State receiver and the first 100-yard performance since Ray Roundtree in 1987. In addition to the 75-yarder vs. Temple, Daniels also had a 38-yard touchdown catch against the Owls and twice teamed with Tony Sacca for aerial scores — 33 yards at Texas, 19 yards at Pittsburgh. His season and career game-high for catches was five in the Maryland game, one of four contests in which he topped 50 yards receiving. He carried the ball on the reverse four times for 28 yards and a 7.0 rushing average. His longest run was 10 yards vs. Temple. In the Holiday Bowl, Daniels' remarkable, juggling catch of a Sacca throw produced a 52-yard touchdown. For the game, Daniels had two receptions for 64 yards. He played on 554 offensive downs for the year, more than any other wideout. 1988-Ranked No. 3 in receptions behind Michael Timpson and Dave Jakob, Daniels averaged a team-leading 20.1 yards on 16 catches. His 322 yards were topped only by Timpson [342]. Daniels was involved in one of the biggest plays of the season, a 45-yard pass from Lance Lonergan against Maryland that was the big-gainer in the winning touchdown drive. It was Daniels' longest reception of the season. He had one TD catch and it was equally memorable. The play covered 38 yards and came in the final minute of the first half against Rutgers. The gifted wideout had three receptions in two games [Rutgers, Notre Dame]. His best yardage total was 69 vs. Pittsburgh. Daniels started eight games (in the other three the Lions used a double tight end set) and played 444 downs, ranking him ninth in offensive playing time. He also carried the ball three times on the reverse for a net of 11 yards rushing. His longest gain was 18 yards at Virginia. 1987-Daniels worked with the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: Daniels earned all-state and honorable-mention All-American honors as a wide receiver and defensive back at Sarasota HS, the alma mater of former Lion defensive lineman Tim Johnson. In his career, Daniels caught 62 passes for 1,246 yards and 16 touchdowns. He also intercepted 11 passes. A competitor in the annual Florida-Georgia all-star game, Daniels was named 1987 Player-of-the-Year by the Sarasota Herald Tribune. A standout on the track squad, he also was selected to the All-South prep team.

PERSONAL: Full name is David Daniels. He is enrolled in the administration of justice program in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Personally, I don't think I'm the main target. All the other wideouts are just as good or better than me, and we all have different talents. I don't look at it as having a big receiver. I look at it as a team and a wide receiver corps." — Dave Daniels.

JIM DETER

Senior Nose Tackle Sykesville, Pa.

Jim Deter isn't the fastest player you'll ever encounter, or the most fluid or the most physically gifted. What sets Deter apart from the faster, smoother and more athletic pack, however, is the intensity with which he plays every down, every series, every game. Deter held off Eric Renkey and Tony Matesic to remain No. 1 at nose tackle on the depth chart issued at the conclusion of spring practice. The redshirt senior started for the Blue defense in the Blue-White game and made three tackles, two unassisted. He also had one stop behind the line of scrimmage. Deter is a tough customer who doesn't know any speed except full speed ahead.

LION CAREER: 1989—Despite fighting through a season-long ankle injury, Deter started eight games on the nose and totaled 35 tackles, ranking him No. 9 among defenders and No. 2 among down linemen. He had 14 solo stops and 21 assists. He also registered two stops behind the line of scrimmage and successfully defended two passes. Against Notre Dame, Deter made his first career interception to thwart an Irish drive that had reached the Lions' four. His best game statistically was a seven-tackle effort [1 solo, 6 assists] against West Virginia. He had six tackles in the Boston College win. A preseason ankle sprain forced him to miss starting against Virginia and Temple and sidelined him at Pittsburgh, when he resprained the same ankle. He was back in the lineup for the Holiday Bowl. 1988—Converted from linebacker to defensive tackle, Deter appeared in 10 of 11 games and accumulated 151 plays to earn his first letter. He was credited with nine tackles, six of them solo. Deter had three tackles in the win over Cincinnati. 1987—Deter worked with the foreign team, but did not see game action and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A third-team all-state selection his senior year at DuBois HS, Deter recorded 287 career tackles and six interceptions. DuBois captured the district title his junior year and won the conference championship his senior season. A 1986 Big 33 selection, he lettered as a linebacker and fullback and in track as a weightman and sprinter.

PERSONAL: Full name is James Deter. He has two older brothers, who attended Penn State, and a sister. Deter is enrolled in the exercise and sport science program of the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "He's a big-time ballplayer. He's got the genetics, he's fast, he's strong and he's big. I go against him every day in practice. He broke my nose last fall." — Teammate and offensive center Rob Luedeke.

"[Jim] Deter played the last couple of games last year with a broken hand and a lot of other things. He needs to do some things athletically to become a really outstanding player, but he is strong and he hustles all the time." — Joe Paterno.

No. 38
MARK D'ONOFRIO
6-2 230 3-17-69
Senior
Inside Linebacker
Teaneck, N.J.

Mark D'Onofrio never met a collision he didn't like. The mobile 230-pounder, ticketed for the starting inside linebacker position vacated by All-America Andre Collins, doesn't hold anything back when fulfilling his responsibilities for the interior defense. D'Onofrio moved inside this past spring after excelling as an outside operative last fall. He and Keith Goganious are expected to give the Lions a solid inside nucleus this fall. D'Onofrio is an enthusiastic player who hits with authority. As he showed last fall, he can be effective at pressuring the passer when the situation dictates. In his new role, D'Onofrio takes on the added burden of calling the defensive signals. Before he is finished, many expect D'Onofrio will develop into one of college football's premiere defensive players.

LION CAREER: 1989—The move of D'Onofrio to the flank proved to be a splendid switch. He started 10 of 11 games [West Virginia was the only non-start] and hung up 11 quarterback sacks, just four short of Larry Kubin's record 15 sacks in 1979. He was No. 4 in total tackles with 54, made five tackles behind the line of scrimmage, caused five fumbles, recovered a pair of fumbles and had a pass interception. His best game was against West Virginia when he created havoc with nine tackles [an individual high], twice sacked quarterback Major Harris, caused a pair of fumbles and recovered one West Virginia fumble. He also had a pair of sacks in games with Temple, Rutgers and Maryland. He had seven tackles against Notre Dame. An injury kept him out of the Holiday Bowl starting lineup, but he appeared in a reserve role on both defense and special teams. D'Onofrio was involved in 719 plays. 1988-A backup inside linebacker, D'Onofrio missed just one game [Temple] as he topped 200 in total plays with 123 snaps on defense and 89 on special teams. D'Onofrio checked in with 36 tackles, all but two unassisted. He also had one tackle for a four-yard loss. The West Virginia and Cincinnati games were the most active for D'Onofrio, who had five tackles in each. 1987-D'Onofrio worked with the foreign team, but did not register any playing time, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: The 1986 New Jersey Player-of-the-Year, D'Onofrio was a first-team all-state selection and Scholastic Coach All-American at North Bergen HS. A participant in the 1987 North-South all-star game, he recorded over 250 career tackles and intercepted eight passes. D'Onofrio also lettered in basketball.

PERSONAL: Full name is Mark Emil D'Onofrio. He is enrolled in the labor and industrial relations program of the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "He's a wound-up sort of person. He can never relax. If everyone is watching something [on television], he'll start to talk. He can't sit still, can't stop talking. Watching him is like watching TV. It's Channel D'Onofrio." — Teammate and roommate Mark Flythe.

"That's the way I play — intense on every down. I think that's what keeps me going. I'm not the fastest guy in the world, and I'm not the biggest guy. I don't need anything to get me excited. I know if I don't go out on the field ready to play, I'll get myself knocked around. So I go out ready to knock everyone else around." — Mark D'Onofrio.

TROY DRAYTON
Sophomore
Wide Receiver
Steelton, Pa.

A walk-on wide receiver, Troy Drayton flashed the kind of form this spring that could translate into some playing time come fall at one of the more experience-laden positions on the offense. With D.J. McDuffie out for baseball, Drayton took on an increased workload and made the extra instruction pay off with impressive progress. He shares the No. 2 slot [with Rich Rosa] at split end headed into the fall preseason. One of the taller pass targets, Drayton hauled down a 37-yard pass from Tony Sacca in the Blue-White game. It was his only reception of the game.

LION CAREER: 1989-Drayton concentrated on improving his receiving skills as a member of the foreign team. He did not appear in any games and retains freshman eligibility for 1990.

DRAYTON continued:

HIGH SCHOOL: Drayton was a mainstay of Coach Nick Govelovich's attack. He led the midstate with 51 pass receptions his senior season at Steelton-Highspire HS. Despite his outstanding statistics, Drayton failed to attract any major scholarship offers. He decided to attend Penn State and to walk-on as a wideout candidate.

PERSONAL: Full name is Troy Anthony Drayton. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I feel that I've come a long way, but I know there is still a lot of hard work ahead for me. I have a lot to learn to get to where I can be the best I can be. I still have a couple of high school habits to get out of my system."
— Troy Drayton.

No. 70
GENE DUFFY
6-4 259 5-7-68
Senior
Defensive Tackle
Jim Thorpe, Pa.

Gene Duffy hopes his new home at defensive tackle is in the neighborhood that will permit him an occasional turn in the lineup this fall. Duffy found himself behind Frank Giannetti and Tyoka Jackson at left tackle when the pads were put away following spring drills. A tight end in 1989, Duffy experienced no problems with the move across the line of scrimmage.

LION CAREER: 1989-Duffy devoted his energies to the foreign team. He did not appear in any games and retains sophomore eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: A linebacker and tight end at Jim Thorpe Area HS, Duffy was the football and basketball captain. He won his high school's scholar-athlete award as a senior. Duffy also was the pivotman on the basketball team that won the district championship in 1986 with a 22-6 record.

PERSONAL: Full name is Eugene E. Duffy, Jr. He is a mechanical engineering major in the College of Engineering.

PAT DUFFY
Senior Tackle
Canton, Ohio

While his twin brother Roger has gone on to the NFL New York Jets, Pat Duffy seeks to re-establish the family name on the offensive line, where Roger was a fixture for 31 consecutive games. Pat established himself as the No. 1 candidate at short tackle during spring ball, outdistancing some stiff competition for the job left vacant by the graduation of Tim Freeman. A compact, powerful athlete, Duffy had a productive spring practice. Duffy also has seen service at tackle and nose tackle.

LION CAREER: 1989-Freeman's backup at short tackle, Duffy had token appearances in three games. He got a lot of work in the Virginia and Temple games, but not a lot thereafter. On the final depth chart, he was No. 2 behind the durable Freeman. 1988-Back on offense after spending most of 1987 on the other side of the ball, Duffy got into two games [Temple, Cincinnati] at long tackle. He had a total of 10 plays and finished the year listed No. 3 with Matt McCartin. 1987-Working as a nose tackle primarily on the foreign team, Duffy often lined up nose-to-nose with his twin brother. He did not appear in any games. 1986-Duffy did not see game action in his first season, while working with the foreign team at guard. HIGH SCHOOL: Duffy earned three letters as a tackle at Canton Central Catholic HS. He captained the team in his senior year and earned second-team all-state honors. He also captained the Stark County team in the 1986 Stark-Summit all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Patrick Gerard Duffy. In addition to brother Roger, he has a sister. Duffy is an administration of justice major.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Appearance-wise they're alike, but personality-wise they're very much different. Pat is a lot looser. I don't mean that negatively, but we'll go out to a movie on the weekends and he's a lot more sociable. Roger was more of an introvert, conservative with a real quiet lifestyle." — Offensive teammate Mike Flanagan.

No. 56
RON FIELDS
6-1 222 12-17-69
Junior
Outside Linebacker
Bronx, N.Y.

Bronx-born Ron Fields has a chance to realize some playing time at outside linebacker. The redshirt junior spent his spring at the "willie" spot, where Rich McKenzie lettered as a "true" freshman in 1989. None of the "willie" backers has an abundance of game experience, putting Fields on even-footing with the returning hopefuls. He saw service for both teams in the Blue-White game, finishing the afternoon with three tackles (one solo, two assists). He shared the No. 3 spot at "willie" linebacker with Tom Wade on the final spring printout.

LION CAREER: 1989—Fields made brief appearances against Virginia and Texas as a reserve linebacker. He was not credited with any tackles. 1988—After working on the foreign team, Fields retained four years of eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year starter at Adlai Stevenson HS in the Bronx, Fields piled up more than 250 career tackles and registered 32 quarterback sacks. A first-team All-New York and New York Daily News all-city selection, he accumulated over 100 stops, 17 sacks and two interceptions in his senior year, which resulted in his being named to the Sporting News Top 100 list. At season's end, Fields was nominated for 1988 New York City Athlete-of-the-Year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Frederick Ronald Fields. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

No. 61
MIKE FLANAGAN
6-3 270 10-16-68
Senior Guard
Woodstown, N.J.

After breathing the rarefied air of the starting lineup briefly in 1989, Mike Flanagan made a concentrated push for the No. 1 job at long guard in spring ball. His hard work paid off and Flanagan heads into preseason practice with a solid grip on the position vacated by Dave Szott, off to the pro Kansas City Chiefs. A fifth-year senior, Flanagan's previous playing time is not substantial, due to neck and shoulder injuries that cost him most of the 1987-88 seasons. A powerful blocker with excellent maneuverability, Flanagan is almost ideally proportioned for the guard position.

LION CAREER: 1989—Flanagan wound up with almost 75 plays in five appearances, mainly as an offensive reserve. He made the first start of his career at long guard at Texas when Szott was sidelined by an injury. Among the backup linemen, few saw more action than Flanagan, who was No. 2 at long guard when the campaign concluded. 1988—Hurt while lifting weights prior to the season, Flanagan underwent shoulder surgery and was sidelined for the entire campaign. 1987—Flanagan was a backup at long guard behind fifth-year senior Rich Kuzy. He appeared in seven games, logging a total of 119 downs. A neck injury forced Flanagan to the sidelines late in the season. 1986—Flanagan, who worked with the foreign team as a guard, did not see any playing time.

HIGH SCHOOL: Flanagan won Bally and Adidas/Scholastic Coach All-American honors as an offensive tackle for Salesianum HS in Wilmington, Del. He also won first-team all-state and All-Catholic league honors. He transferred from St. James HS in Salem, N.J., following his sophomore season. He played for the Blue team in Delaware's Blue-Gold all-star game. He also pitched for the baseball team at St. James.

FLANAGAN continued:

PERSONAL: Full name is Michael Anthony Flanagan. He has a younger sister and his father, Mike, played professional baseball for six seasons. Flanagan is in the insurance sequence of the College of Business Administration.

No. 68
MARK FLYTHE
6-6 295 10-4-68
Senior Tackle
West Windsor, N.J.

There isn't a player on the roster more physically imposing than Mark Flythe. Making the best use of his mass has led to some experimentation, including some time on the defensive line. Flythe was back on the offensive line this past spring. He now appears comfortably settled at long tackle where the early projection is he will spell starter Matt McCartin. Flythe's improvement appears to be on a fast track, however, and he could submit an argument for an enlarged role in fall preseason drills.

LION CAREER: 1989-Flythe saw action against Temple, Rutgers and Syracuse as a defensive reserve. 1988-Brief stints against Temple, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Notre Dame represented Flythe's first action for the Lions. 1987-Flythe worked with the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-way all-state tackle at West Windsor HS, Flythe also lettered in track as a shot put and discus specialist. He served as football captain his senior season.

PERSONAL: Full name is Mark Lloyd Flythe. He has a brother and a sister. Flythe is a political science major in the College of the Liberal Arts.

GREG FUSETTI
6-0 185 8-27-68
Senior Cornerback
Beaver Falls, Pa.

Penn State's defensive coaches were able to move Willie Thomas to free safety because Greg Fusetti and others are so capable of playing the corner. Fusetti kept the heat on Hernon Henderson all spring, finally settling for second billing at the right corner on the final depth chart. A starter for the Blue defense in the spring game, Fusetti had three tackles and broke up a pass.

LION CAREER: 1989-Fusetti worked himself into a growing role as a reserve at the left corner. He appeared in five games and got his longest workout in the win over Temple. Fusetti recorded the first pass interception of his career against the Owls and had a deflection as well. He was credited with one tackle in the finale at Pittsburgh. 1988-While he did not see action, Fusetti was dressed and available for every home date and the game at West Virginia. In the 1988 Blue-White game, he intercepted a pass late in the fourth quarter and returned it 20 yards. 1987-Fusetti worked with the foreign team and did not see game action, retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-sport athlete at Blackhawk HS, Fusetti scored the winning touchdown in the 1987 Pennsylvania-Ohio all-star game to key a 20-7 victory. He was a guard on the 1986 WPIAL AAA championship basketball team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gregory Joseph Fusetti. He has two brothers and a sister. Fusetti is enrolled in the civil engineering program in the College of Engineering.

No. 56
MAC GALLAGHER
 6-3 270 7-9-69
 Senior Center
 Forty Fort, Pa.

Mac Gallagher's ticket to an expanded role may be the move he made this spring from tackle to center on the offensive line. Gallagher prospered in the new surroundings, reaching No. 2 on the depth chart behind projected starter Rob Luedeke, a fifth-year senior. Gallagher anchored the offensive line for the victorious Blue offense in the spring game.

LION CAREER: 1989-Brief appearances against Temple, Rutgers and Syracuse enabled Gallagher to get some valuable game experience. He played long tackle behind Matt McCartin and Paul Siever. When injuries thinned the tight end ranks at the Holiday Bowl, Gallagher was prepared to fill in there should an emergency arise. 1988-Gallagher dressed for the Boston College, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh games, but saw no service, spending the majority of the season laboring on the foreign team. He played both defensive tackle and center. 1987-Gallagher drilled with the foreign team as a defensive lineman, but did not record any playing time, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state selection as a senior at Wyoming Valley West HS, Gallagher competed in the 1986 UNICO all-star game, where he suffered a shoulder injury that kept him out of the Big 33 contest. A three-sport letterman, he served as captain of the football and basketball teams.

PERSONAL: Full name is Frank McCormack Gallagher. Gallagher, who has four brothers, is a political science major in the College of the Liberal Arts.

SAM GASH
 Senior Fullback
 Hendersonville, N.C.

Sam Gash escaped the injury gremlin that has fouled his Penn State career until the Blue-White game. On the first carry, the redshirt senior fullback pulled a hamstring muscle and had to sit out the rest of the game. Gash is expected to return at 100 percent this fall and his availability is good news for the rushing attack. Gash is more than merely a clever runner. With a compact 224-pound frame, he also delivers a powerful blow as a blocker. Gash lived up to expectations this spring by quickly rising to the top of the fullback ranks and his No. 1 billing on the final depth chart was no surprise. His spring performance earned Gash the Red Worrell Award as the offensive player whose attitude and improvement were judged by the coaching staff to be worthy of special praise. In addition to bountiful physical gifts, Gash also is a natural leader whose work habits in practice and positive presence in the locker room supplement his statistical contribution.

LION CAREER: 1989-A leg injury forced Gash to miss the entire year, but the campaign was not a total washout since he did not lose a season of eligibility. Gash also missed spring practice after undergoing surgery for a wrist injury.

1988-When the Lions got near the goal line, the ball went to Gash, who responded with seven touchdowns, all from close range. Gash got into 10 games and started for an ailing John Greene in the finale at Notre Dame. He was the No. 5 rusher with 110 yards on 35 carries (3.1 average). He averaged 1.3 points per carry and was No. 2 in scoring with seven touchdowns and 44 points. He had the longest run of his career at Notre Dame with a 23-yard gainer in the first quarter. Earlier in the year, Gash reached another personal-high, when he raced 37 yards on a screen pass against Cincinnati. His best rushing total was 28 yards at Notre Dame. 1987-One of a handful of freshmen to log significant playing time, Gash was the No. 3 fullback. He tallied 41 plays on offense, including eight rushes for 19 yards and one touchdown — an eight-yard run against Cincinnati for his first collegiate score. In three games, Gash carried once for five yards against Bowling Green, five times for 17 yards against Cincinnati and twice for minus-three yards against Temple. In addition, he caught one pass for four yards against the Bearcats. Gash also played on the special teams, manning the second line with the kickoff return unit. His progress was limited somewhat by a broken bone in his hand suffered against Rutgers. He appeared in the Citrus Bowl on special teams and was credited with two tackles (one solo, one assist).

HIGH SCHOOL: An Adidas All-American and first-team all-state selection at Hendersonville HS, Gash rushed for 4,739 career yards and 72 touchdowns. A four-year letterman in basketball, he played center on the school's 1987 state title team. Gash was president of the student body his senior year and a member of the National Honor Society.

PERSONAL: Full name is Samuel Lee Gash, Jr. Gash, who has one brother, is enrolled in the general arts and sciences discipline of the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Sam Gash was a key to our football team last year and will be again this year. Sam is the kind of fullback you need if you are going to be the football team we want to be. Sam had an outstanding spring. Sam brings us something Blair did in terms of leadership, worth ethic, and demeanor. People respond to the positive aspects of Sam's lifestyle and the way he handles himself in the locker room." — Joe Paterno.

"I almost left Penn State last fall. But the Bible helped me change my mind. I've always had the desire and the love of the game and the desire is now there and I have the ability to succeed." — Sam Gash.

No. 80
JOHN GERAK
6-4 250 1-6-70
Junior Tight End
Struthers, Ohio

After two years at fullback, the coaching staff was hopeful of getting a spring look at John Gerak as a tight end. A muscle pull in the winter conditioning program sidelined him for the first half of spring practice and the one day he did get on the field he pulled the same muscle again. An uncertain situation at tight end probably still tickets Gerak for duty there in the fall, despite the lost practice time this spring. He figures to battle with Al Golden and a trio of ex-linebackers — Jeff Anderson, Rob Ruslavage and Rick Sayles — for what is considered one of the most wide-open positions on the squad.

LION CAREER: 1989—Gerak used his 31 carries to pick up 108 yards rushing, ranking him No. 5 among ground-gainers. He scored one TD [at Syracuse] and accounted for nine first downs. His best rushing performance was in the Rutgers game, when he collected 32 yards on 120 attempts. He twice had runs of nine yards [Temple, Boston College]. In the big win at Syracuse, he cracked across from seven yards out for the final touchdown. He also caught three passes for 20 yards. Gerak started the first three games as Blair Thomas' running mate before Leroy Thompson replaced him for the final eight weeks. The No. 2 fullback at season's end, Gerak appeared in all 11 games, logging a total of 332 offensive plays. 1988-As a "true" freshman, Gerak participated in nearly 100 plays and missed appearances in only three games [Boston College, Rutgers, Maryland]. He rushed 12 times for 22 yards at West Virginia. Gerak was moved to the backfield to take advantage of his size and exceptional maneuverability.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state performer at Struthers HS, Gerak was a standout at fullback and defensive end. Although he missed the first three games of his senior year with a sprained ankle, Gerak piled up 56 solo tackles, 16 sacks, caused four fumbles, recovered five fumbles and picked off two passes. He was the Northeast Ohio Defensive Lineman-of-the-Year and expected to be recruited in that capacity. However, Gerak's size, speed and strength made him a tight end candidate in the minds of many schools. He was a USA Today and Scholastic Coach All-American. His career statistics included more than 200 tackles, 36 sacks and 836 rushing yards. Gerak also lettered in basketball, baseball, and track and field. He cleared 6-5 in the high jump and ran the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

PERSONAL: Full name is John M. Gerak. He is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "John's worked so hard. He's big, fast and strong. He was born big, but he had to work at the others. He is a big human being who knows he has weaknesses. He knew he had to work through those in order to reach his potential, to become better. John dedicated so much time. It was those little things he did that made him better." — Struthers HS coach Gary Zetts.

No. 37
IVORY GETHERS
6-1 211 3-11-70
Junior
Johns Island, S.C.

After spending last season as the principal backup to All-American Andre Collins, Ivory Gethers was moved outside during spring ball. His education at the new position received a setback, however, when he underwent surgery on an injured shoulder. Expectations are that Gethers will be fully recovered by this fall and, if that's the case, he and incumbent starter Reggie Givens will duel for the No. 1 job at the strongside linebacker spot. An outstanding high school player, Gethers has exceptional speed and is an explosive tackler for a person his size.

LION CAREER: 1989-As a defensive reserve, Gethers got into every game and finished the year with a total of 138 plays. He got his most significant workouts in the Virginia and Temple games. Gethers wound up with 19 tackles, 12 of them unassisted. He also caused a fumble [West Virginia] and broke up a pass. 1988-Gethers retained four seasons of eligibility after sitting out to recover from the same torn anterior cruciate injury that sidelined Blair Thomas. He suffered the injury on the first day of fall practice.

HIGH SCHOOL: One of the most highly recruited players in South Carolina, Gethers registered 176 tackles, 15 quarterback sacks and two interceptions during a senior season, which resulted in his being named to every all-state team. A Scholastic Coach All-American, he made more than 300 stops and 36 sacks during his career at St. John's HS.

PERSONAL: Full name is Ivory Gethers. He is pursuing a major in landscape contracting. Gethers was student government president in high school and has followed Penn State football since he was eight years old.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "The biggest difference between inside and outside is that inside you always have someone coming straight at you, wanting to knock you flat. On the inside you just have to be tough.

GETHERS continued:

Everyone is coming at you at the same time. And if you aren't going to get to the action, the action is coming to you. You get banged around on every play." — Ivory Getters.

No. 85
FRANK GIANNETTI
6-2 255 3-14-68
Senior
Defensive Tackle
Toms River, N.J.

An impressive spring practice solidified Frank Giannetti's hold on the starting position at left defensive tackle. Giannetti is the most experienced of the down linemen with more than 1,000 plays in two letter-winning seasons. While somewhat undersized at 6-2 and 255 pounds, Giannetti goes all-out on every play and uses his quickness to shed offensive blockers. A starter for the White defense in the spring game, Giannetti checked in with five solo tackles and wrapped up one run behind the line of scrimmage for a three-yard loss. The defensive staff has him penciled in No. 1 at left tackle going into fall camp.

LION CAREER: 1989—A broken hand against Virginia did not prevent Giannetti from being a regular member of the defensive front. He missed only one start [Temple] despite playing with a cast most of the year. Giannetti logged 26 tackles, 12 of them unassisted, trailing only Rich Schonewolf (41) and Jim Deter (35) among down linemen. He had two quarterback sacks, translating into 17 yards in enemy losses. His best statistical performance was a seven-tackle (four solo) effort in the home finale with Notre Dame. He also had five stops against Alabama, another Top 10 opponent. Giannetti recorded his quarterback sacks at Texas and Syracuse. 1988—When Bob Mrosko was injured against Syracuse, Giannetti stepped forward and played with the poise and intensity of a player of greater experience. He had four tackles against the Orangemen, a quarterback sack and deflected a pass. Giannetti remained a starter for games with Alabama, West Virginia and Maryland, making 17 tackles over three weeks before Mrosko returned. Giannetti ended the year with 29 tackles (19 solo), two quarterback sacks and a share of a third, and two tackles for losses. He was credited with six tackles vs. both Alabama and Maryland and had five solo tackles at West Virginia. Giannetti played 373 defensive downs and 47 more on special teams, second only to Eric Renkey among non-regulars. 1987—Giannetti concluded the campaign No. 3 at left defensive tackle with Deryk Gilmore. He logged time in two games — Bowling Green in the season-opener and Cincinnati (total of 10 defensive downs). He received credit for two tackles, both against Cincinnati. 1986—Giannetti worked with the foreign team as an outside linebacker and did not see action in his first year.

HIGH SCHOOL: Giannetti won all-state honors as a tight end and defensive end for Toms River East HS. A winner of four letters, he captained the team in his junior and senior seasons. Toms River won the conference title in his senior year and he played in two New Jersey all-star games — the North-South and the All-Shore Classic. Giannetti also won letters in basketball as a forward and in baseball as a pitcher.

PERSONAL: Full name is Frank John Giannetti. Giannetti, who has two older sisters, is an exercise and sport science major in the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: [On moving to tackle from linebacker] "When you play linebacker, you only had to worry about the tight end and the person blocking you. As a lineman, you have to worry about the tackle, the tight end and the guards. There is a bigger change than people think." — Frank Giannetti.

REGGIE GIVENS
5-11 218 10-3-71
Sophomore
Sussex, Va.

Most Penn State football freshmen get a gradual introduction to the mental and physical demands of playing at the Division 1-A level. Not so for Reggie Givens, who was in the thick of things before his 18th birthday and was the regular "sam" linebacker for the final month of the season. In his first spring practice, Givens showed the dividends of last year's experience coupled with an intensive instructional program by remaining No. 1 at the strong-side outside linebacker spot. Not a particularly big man, Givens is an intelligent player who minimizes his mistakes. He runs extremely well and does a solid job in pass coverage. In the Blue-White game, Givens was credited with five tackles (2 solo, 3 assists). If this progress continues as expected, Givens and sophomore teammate Rich McKenzie will provide the Lions with an exciting young tandem at outside linebacker.

LION CAREER: One of three "true" freshmen to win a letter, Givens had more playing time than any other member of the incoming class. He was in all 11 games, winding up with 544 plays on defense and special teams. He opened at outside linebacker against West Virginia, Maryland, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and in the Holiday Bowl with Brigham Young.

He finished with 37 tackles, ranking him eighth among defenders. Givens also had a pair of quarterback sacks, three tackles for loss and recovered two fumbles. His best tackling total of the regular-season was at Maryland, a game in which he made six stops (4 solo, 2 assists). He recovered fumbles against Pittsburgh and West Virginia. He returned the fumble at Pittsburgh 19 yards to set up a first quarter field goal. In the Holiday Bowl, Givens played with the poise of a senior, making six unassisted tackles, sacking Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer and breaking up a pass.

HIGH SCHOOL: In his senior season at Sussex Central HS, Givens was elected Virginia Defensive Player-of-the-Year. He made all of the all-district and all-state teams and won All-America honors from Scholastic Coach magazine. Coach Dwight Reagan used Givens' multiple talents at inside linebacker, outside linebacker, fullback and tight end. A four-year starter, Givens topped 100 tackles as a senior when he also had three pass interceptions.

PERSONAL: Full name is Reginald Alonzo Givens. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I thought for a kid just 18 years old, playing in the Holiday Bowl, Reggie did awfully well. I think he has a great future." — Joe Paterno.

RUDY GLOCKER
 6-5 230 12-9-69
 Junior Tight End
 Bucktown, Pa.

One of the big disappointments of the off-season was a knee injury to Rudy Glocker that sidelined him for spring practice and puts the 1990 season in jeopardy as well. Glocker underwent surgery for a torn anterior cruciate ligament — the same injury that previously felled teammates Andre Powell, Ivory Gethers and Tom Wade. He suffered the tear during winter workouts. Even with an exceptional rehabilitation program, Glocker would be pushing it to get back this fall. He is the kind of rangy target quarterbacks love and, at 230 pounds, has the size to handle the blocking responsibilities of the position.

LION CAREER: 1989-Sharing time with Al Golden at the No. 2 tight end spot, Glocker appeared in six games. He got his most significant workout against Temple. For the year, Glocker piled up 66 offensive plays, but did not catch a pass. He spent the early fall playing catch-up as the result of a spring finger injury that idled him for much of the off-season work. 1988-Glocker worked with the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: Glocker earned first-team all-state and USA Today honorable-mention All-America honors as a tight end/linebacker at Owen J. Roberts HS. A Scholastic Coach All-America pick his senior year, he won the Jim Henry Award, presented by the Maxwell Club to the top scholar-athlete in the five-county area encompassing Philadelphia and its suburbs. His career statistics included 36 sacks and over 200 tackles. As a senior, Glocker registered 11 sacks and 65 solo tackles and caught 28 passes for 393 yards. Selected to play in the Big 33 game, he also was the starting center on the basketball team and a competitor in four events in track.

PERSONAL: Full name is Rudolph Karl Glocker. Glocker, who has two older sisters, is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts.

KEITH GOGANIOUS
 6-3 232 12-7-68
 Senior
 Inside Linebacker
 Virginia Beach, Va.

The pain of losing the veteran inside linebacking duo of All-America Andre Collins and Brian Chizmar was eased for the defensive staff by the spring performance of Mark D'Onofrio and redshirt senior Keith Goganious, who appears to be a major player in the Lions' scheme. A backup to Chizmar last fall, Goganious turned back all spring challenges to finish No. 1 on the projected fall depth chart at one of the inside spots. Goganious has outstanding size and moves extremely well for a big man. He had an impressive afternoon in the Blue-White game, making eight tackles from his starting position for the Blue defense. He had five solo stops, three assists and recorded one tackle behind the line of scrimmage for a one-yard loss. Goganious' encouraging development during the spring was acknowledged by his selection as winner of the Jim O'Hara Award, presented annually to the defensive player whose "exemplary conduct, loyalty, interest, attitude and improvement" sets him apart.

LION CAREER: 1989-Goganious settled in as the principal backup to Brian Chizmar. He got into all 11 games for 216 downs on defense and special teams. He was credited with 18 tackles, three more than the previous year. He had his biggest statistical days in the first and last games — against Virginia and at Pittsburgh — making five tackles in each. He also came up with an important defensive effort vs. Notre Dame, forcing an Irish fumble at the Penn State goal line, which was recovered by the Lions. A finger injury in spring practice forced Goganious to miss some important off-season work. 1988-Playing both inside and outside linebacker, Goganious was involved in more than 300 plays to rank No. 5 among defensive reserves. The only non-starting linebacker who played more was Neil Hamilton. Goganious started in place of Quintus McDonald in the finale at Notre Dame. He had 15 tackles (7 solo) while playing in all 11 games. 1987- Goganious did not see action and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A linebacker and defensive end at Green Run HS, Goganious was named an honorable-mention All-American by Adidas, USA Today and Scholastic Coach. A three-year starter, he recorded over 270 career tackles and intercepted 12 passes. A second-team all-state selection as a junior, Goganious sat out the first seven games of his senior season with stretched knee ligaments, but returned to register 39 solo tackles and five interceptions in the final five contests. As a member of the East squad in a post-season all-star game, he won Most Valuable Player honors.

PERSONAL: Full name is Keith Lorenzo Goganious. He has one brother and one sister. Goganious is a management major in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "[Mark] D'Onofrio and [Keith] Goganious are really good inside linebackers. They're big kids. Both can run and they are smart." — Joe Paterno.

"I think I'm more suited for inside linebacker. Outside you need more quickness and I feel more comfortable inside. I feel great and I know the coaches have confidence in my ability. The defense is designed for Mark [D'Onofrio] and me to make a lot of tackles. You can't compare us to Collins and Chizmar, because we are four different people." — Keith Goganious.

AL GOLDEN

6-2 242 7-4-69

Senior Tight End

Colts Neck, N.J.

Spring practice was Al Golden's big chance to establish himself as the front-runner for the vacant starting position at tight end. Golden made a favorable early impression before a knee injury midway through the drills put him out of commission for the final two weeks and the Blue-White game. Based on his experience of last year, however, Golden was penciled in as an offensive starter on the depth chart issued at the conclusion of spring drills. He hopes to report to preseason practice in A-1 condition, ready to join what looms as a spirited competition for the starting call against Texas. Golden is a rugged blocker with the soft hands to be an effective pass receiver.

LION CAREER: 1989-With appearances in eight of 11 games, Golden won his first letter, logging a total of 66 plays. He didn't catch a pass and would have been challenged had one been thrown in his direction since a hand injury forced him to play most of the year with a balky cast. Most of his minutes came in double tight end situations. Glocker was moved from defensive tackle to tight end in spring ball and showed an immediate affinity for the new position. 1988-Golden had brief stints in the Virginia, Temple and Cincinnati games as a backup defensive lineman. 1987-Golden did not play, retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-way starter at Red Bank Catholic HS, Golden was a first-team all-region selection his senior year. On offense, he lined up at tight end and caught 11 career touchdown passes. Also a linebacker and defensive end, Golden recorded 189 career tackles, including 76 his senior year. As a member of the Monmouth County squad in the All-Jersey Shore Classic, Golden won Most Valuable Player honors on defense.

PERSONAL: Full name is Alfred James Golden, Jr. Golden, who has two brothers, is majoring in pre-law.

No. 17
MARK GRAHAM
 5-9 170 9-19-69
 Junior Cornerback
 Clifton, N.J.

An eye-catching performance in the Blue-White game that included two pass interceptions boosted Mark Graham's stock at the left cornerback position. The red-shirt junior is locked in a contest with Leonard Humphries and Tisen Thomas for starting responsibilities that opened up with the move of Willie Thomas from cornerback to free safety. Graham also had a pair of tackles in the annual spring game. After sitting out all of 1989 with a shoulder injury, Graham was able to participate fully this spring. He is an especially attractive player since he has the versatility to play either corner.

LION CAREER: 1989—A spring shoulder injury kept Graham out of the Blue-White game and wound up costing him the entire season. He received a medical redshirt and retained three years of eligibility.

1988—Graham was one of only four "true" freshmen to see significant playing time on defense (Eric Renkey, Chris Cisar and Leonard Humphries being the others). He was in on 47 plays in five games and made two tackles with his longest stint coming at Temple.

HIGH SCHOOL: Graham lettered in three sports, but was a relatively unheralded football recruit coming out of Clifton HS. He was the top tailback as a senior and was named to the Newark Star-Ledger all-state team and the Passaic/Essex division all-conference team. Graham also played cornerback, but was recognized more for his rushing totals. He lettered as a guard in basketball and was a standout member of the track and field team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Mark S. Graham. Graham, who was born in Jamaica, is a finance major in the College of Business Administration and has hopes of working on Wall Street.

No. 96
RYAN GRUBE
 6-4 227 2-13-71
 Sophomore
 Outside Linebacker
 Northampton, Pa.

While he can be considered a top prospect, Ryan Grube didn't have the benefit of a full spring practice. The coaching staff looked at him as both an inside and outside linebacker, but injuries impeded his progress. Grube and Ivory Gethers, another player coming back from a spring spent in the training room, are projected behind Reggie Givens at the strongside outside linebacker spot. If he comes back fit and makes up for the learning time missed this past spring, Grube would be a candidate to get some work with the defense.

LION CAREER: 1989—Toiling for the foreign team defense, Grube did not appear in any games and retains freshman eligibility for this season.

HIGH SCHOOL: From the same Northampton HS program that produced former Penn State All-America linebacker Dennis Onkotz, Grube averaged over 10 tackles per game over three starting seasons as the bulwark of the defense. A tight end on offense, Grube had a career mark of 20 yards per pass reception. He had arthroscopic knee surgery following his senior season, but it did not prevent him from participating as a member of the basketball team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Ryan Jon Grube. He is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Ryan was inside early in the spring, but played there only a couple of days before he got hurt. When he recovered, we put him outside when [Ivory] Gethers got hurt and we felt the need for another good athlete there [outside linebacker]. Ryan is a very fine athlete. He is not comfortable at the position yet, so it's hard to tell just how good a football player he is right now." — Joe Paterno.

HAMMONDS
5-10 185 2-13-71
Barnwell, S.C.

A lack of game experience didn't prevent Shelly Hammonds from entering a strong argument for a role of some significance in the defensive backfield. While behind lettermen Darren Perry and Chris Cisar on the depth chart that concluded spring practice, Hammonds is an exciting prospect. Starting at hero for the White defense in the spring game, Hammonds was credited with a pair of tackles.

LION CAREER: 1989—Like many of his freshman classmates, Hammonds got his first exposure to the program as a member of the foreign team, retaining freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Hammonds' blazing speed was an extraordinary asset for the Barnwell HS gridgers. A three-year starter at tailback and safety, Hammonds was the South Carolina AA Player-of-the-Year as a senior. He gained nearly 2,500 yards rushing in his final two seasons. Coach Mac Wier felt Hammonds could excel in college as a running back, defensive back or wide receiver.

PERSONAL: Full name is Shelton Cornelius Hammonds. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

DOUG HELKOWSKI
Senior Punter
Ruffsedale, Pa.

No one on the Nittany Lions' roster has more experience at his specialty than Doug Helkowski, who has punted 125 times in the last two seasons as the regular in that job. Helkowski is the leader to handle the punting chores again in 1990 although walk-on Jamie Dreese applied some pressure with a 42.8-yard average in the Blue-White game, slightly better than Helkowski's mark of 40.4. Helkowski did have the longest punt of the spring game, a 49-yarder. He also kicked nine times compared to six for Dreese. Helkowski's career average of 38.8 ranks him No. 7 on the school chart for all-time punting average leaders. In two seasons, he has punted for nearly 5,000 yards and had seven kicks blocked.

LION CAREER: 1989—Helkowski's final numbers were a little less impressive than those he posted in his initial campaign as the regular punter. He averaged 38.2 yards on 57 punts — down from his 39.2 average of a year earlier. He had a net average of 34.3 and left eight kicks inside the opponents' 20-yard line, one of them inside the enemy 10. His longest punt of the year was 53 yards against Virginia. Helkowski also enjoyed his most successful game of the season against the Cavaliers, averaging 44.2 yards on six punts. He had his busiest day of the season in the finale at Pittsburgh, when he was called upon to punt eight times. 1988—In his first season as the regular punter, he booted the ball 68 times and averaged 39.2 yards per attempt. Only two of his punts traveled less than 30 yards and five were over 50 yards with a long of 54 at Alabama. He had two punts blocked by Cincinnati, a game in which he punted 11 times. Helkowski also had 11 punts and a season-best 41.2-yard average at Alabama. 1987—Helkowski learned the two-step punting technique in his first year after kicking with three steps in high school. He did not play and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: Helkowski was a first-team all-state choice as a punter for Greensburg Central Catholic HS in his senior year. A three-time all-conference choice, he averaged 43.6 yards as a senior. As a placekicker, he kicked five field goals and added 13 PATs. He also won three letters in baseball as a pitcher and first baseman.

PERSONAL: Full name is Douglas Alan Helkowski. He is enrolled in the exercise and sport science major of the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "One of my goals is to some day punt as well as [Ralph] Giacomarro and [John] Bruno. They were

Junior Guard
Farmingdale, N.Y.

If bloodlines have anything to do with athletic success, look for Mike Heller to break out of the pack at offensive guard. Mike is the brother of Ron Heller, the outstanding Nittany Lion lineman (1981-83), who is a professional standout with the Philadelphia Eagles. A hard worker who has demonstrated consistent improvement, Heller will report to the short guard position for preseason drills. He will compete with Dave Brzenchek, Sean Love and Jerrod Vance for a spot that is wide open with the graduation of Ed Monaghan, who started eight games there in 1989.

LION CAREER: 1989-Heller dressed and traveled with the team, but did not appear in any games. 1988-Heller retained freshman eligibility for 1989 while earning his stripes as a member of the foreign team.

HIGH SCHOOL: Heller won MVP honors in football, baseball and wrestling as a standout athlete at Farmingdale Senior HS. A tight end and nose guard, he was featured on the New York Daily News All-Metro team in addition to winning All-New York, All-Long Island and all-county honors. A pitcher and outfielder for the baseball team and a 215-pound wrestler, Heller won all-star mention in both sports.

PERSONAL: Full name is Michael James Heller. He has two brothers and three sisters. His brother, Ron, was a standout offensive lineman for the Nittany Lions, winning three letters (1981-83), and going on to play professionally in the National Football League. Mike is pursuing his course studies in the College of Health and Human Development.

HERNON HENDERSON
5-11 189 9-9-69
Senior Cornerback
Chantilly, Va.

With the move of Willie Thomas to free safety, HERNON HENDERSON got a look at right cornerback during spring practice. A regular on the left corner as a redshirt junior last fall, Henderson showed the capacity to play either side and gives the coaching staff some options in planning their defensive backfield strategy for 1990. On the last spring depth chart, Henderson was No. 1 at right cornerback in the chase with Greg Fusetti and Frank Yeboah-Kodie for a starting spot this fall. Henderson had a big spring game, leading the White defense in tackles with eight [five unassisted] and breaking up two passes.

LION CAREER: 1989-One of only five defensive players to start every game, Henderson intercepted four passes, second to team-leader Sherrod Rainge, and had 15 pass deflections, tops among the defensive backs. He registered 37 tackles to trail only Rainge and Thomas among defensive backs. Henderson had a pair of pass thefts and broke up five passes in the 7-3 victory over Boston College. He had another giant game against Alabama with six tackles, a season-high, an interception and four deflections. He had a 30-yard interception return, a career long, against Boston College. Henderson was in for more than 600 plays (651) on defense. 1988-Henderson opted to spend a year on the foreign team to play catch-up after a late grid start in high school. He worked at cornerback with the demonstration squad and retained sophomore eligibility for 1989. 1987-One of five "true" freshmen to earn a letter in his first season, Henderson registered two tackles, both at Syracuse. Playing at the No. 3 left corner, he was in on 18 downs defensively and 68 special teams plays.

HIGH SCHOOL: A third-team all-state and honorable-mention All-Metro Washington (D.C.) choice as a defensive back, Henderson began playing football in his junior year at Chantilly HS. Henderson also was a Virginia North-South all-star. He won three letters and was an all-region pick in soccer and earned two letters and regional recognition as a sprinter in track. He captained the track and soccer squads in his senior year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Hernon Devon Henderson. Henderson, who has four older sisters, is enrolled in the mechanical engineering program of the College of Engineering.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: (On taking a red-shirt year) "It was a lot more pressure off me, so I think that's how I learned to relax. My freshman year I never really felt comfortable, where I could just go out for a practice and not worry about anything. Now, it's just like, 'come on, let's play.' I worked on seeing the ball, catching the ball, backpedaling, accelerating, turning my body, keeping my shoulders squared, seeing everything within my peripheral vision, getting in the middle of the field and being able to see everything around me."
— Hernon Henderson.

LEONARD HUMPHRIES
5-9 170 6-19-70
Junior Cornerback
Akron, Ohio

With Willie Thomas now at safety, Leonard Humphries hopes to step front and center as the heir apparent to Thomas' starting job at cornerback. Humphries had a consistent spring practice despite missing a handful of drills with injuries. He checked in with one tackle for the Blue defense in the annual spring game and broke up one pass attempt. A fall contest looms between Humphries, Tisen Thomas and Mark Graham for a regular role in the defensive secondary.

LION CAREER: 1989-As a member of the punt receiving team, Humphries made one of the year's biggest plays when he picked up a Texas punt that had been blocked by Andre Collins and carried it two yards into the end zone for the winning touchdown. Humphries got into 10 games (missing only the Temple contest) and wound up with 148 downs on defense and special teams. His statistics included nine tackles, five of them unassisted. He also broke up five passes. Humphries had three solo tackles and two pass deflections in the Notre Dame game. In the Holiday Bowl, he played extensively and was credited with four solo tackles and one pass defended. 1988-As a "true" freshman, Humphries logged 80 plays and appeared in seven games, but did not letter. He was credited with three tackles [two solo]. Only two first-year freshmen saw more action on defense than Humphries.

HIGH SCHOOL: An all-city and all-county cornerback at North HS, Humphries averaged 11 tackles per game as a senior and had five interceptions. He also was used at quarterback, running back and free safety. In a county all-star game following his final campaign, he made 12 tackles and one interception. Humphries also lettered four years as a sprinter in track and was vice-president of his senior class.

GREG HUNTINGTON
Junior Tackle
Cincinnati, Ohio

This may be the year that Greg Huntington pulls away from the pack to assume a prominent role on the offensive line. With the graduation of Tim Freeman, the short tackle position will have a new occupant this fall and Huntington should press fifth-year senior Pat Duffy for the job. Duffy's familiarity with the position and the program gave him a slight edge in the spring. Huntington hasn't had a lot of work in two previous seasons, but he has shown steady improvement and demonstrated the versatility to play both guard and tackle.

LION CAREER: 1989-Huntington played short guard, finishing No. 3 on the depth chart behind Ed Monaghan and Sean Love. He totalled 55 plays in five games [Temple, Boston College, Texas, Rutgers and Syracuse]. His busiest day was against Boston College. 1988-It is rare for a freshman to play on the Penn State offensive line, but Huntington did reach the third peg on the depth chart. He got in on a handful of plays at Virginia and Temple.

HIGH SCHOOL: Selected as the Line-man-of-the-Year by the Cincinnati Post as a senior at Moeller HS, Huntington signed with the Lions after being recruited by a number of Division I-A schools. He was named first-team All-Southwest Ohio and second-team all-state.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gregory Gerard Huntington. He is an economics major in the College of the Liberal Arts. His father, Tom, attended Penn State.

No. 97
TYOKA JACKSON
6-2 250 11-22-71
Sophomore
Forestville, Md.

The coaching staff liked what it saw of defensive tackle Tyoka Jackson during spring practice. Jackson not only has the size required to play on the flank, but also is blessed with the straight-ahead speed necessary to pressure the passer. The opportunity to work behind the experienced Frank Giannetti established a daily regimen for Jackson of what's required in terms of physical and mental preparation. Jackson was No. 2 to Giannetti on the final spring depth chart. In the Blue-White game, he had one solo tackle and registered a three-yard loss on a second stop behind the line of scrimmage.

LION CAREER: 1989-Jackson turned up all along the defensive line for the foreign team, retaining freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Jackson won an exceptional reputation at Bishop McNamara HS in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. A first-team All-Met selection of the Washington Post, he topped the 100-tackle plateau as a senior when he also rang up 12 quarterback sacks.

PERSONAL: Full name is Tyoka Jackson. He is enrolled in the School of Communications.

No. 10
COREY JETT
5-11 195 5-4-89
Junior Quarterback
Williamsport, Pa.

Corey Jett can be described as an opportunist. Given the chance to play quarterback in spring drills, the redshirt junior turned in a performance that sent his stock soaring. Jett's move to quarterback was triggered by Tom Bill's absence from spring practice and its importance was magnified when Matt Nardolillo went down with a knee injury that kept him out of the Blue-White game. Jett won raves with a spring game total of 184 passing yards that included touchdown tosses of three yards to Jeff Vanderbush and 74 yards to Bobby Samuels. Working for both teams, Jett was 10-of-27 and suffered a pair of interceptions. He also had 14 rushing yards on four attempts. The emergence of Jett as a prime-time player at quarterback will provide the Lions with some comfortable depth at the position come fall, particularly if Bill and Nardolillo return as expected.

LION CAREER: 1989-Jett appeared in one game (Syracuse), but made an overlooked contribution as quarterback for the foreign team. When he wasn't wearing a white shirt, Jett concentrated on duties as a defensive back. 1988-Jett was a quarterback on the foreign team and retained four years of eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year starter and two-way player, Jett was instrumental in Williamsport HS's 38-3 mark during his tenure. The Millionaires won the conference title in 1986 with Jett at wide receiver and defensive back. He moved to quarterback as a senior and figured in 21 touchdowns [12 passing], was the recipient of the Smith Award as the top prep athlete in a three-county area and was honorable-mention all-state. Jett made 13 interceptions in his scholastic career.

PERSONAL: Full name is Corey Lunn Jett. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I liked the way he threw the ball and the way he handled himself [with the foreign team], so we gave him a good look in the spring. I like what he's done. For a kid that has not been there [at quarterback] very long, he has a chance to be pretty good." — Joe Paterno.

"It's never really fun playing on the foreign team because you are always running for your life. Linemen and backs are thrown together to help out the first-string defense. We are not taught any schemes, we are just taught to run the plays." — Corey Jett.

GEORGE KIDWELL
6-2 215 1-10-68
Senior
Outside Linebacker
Wellsburg, W.Va.

George Kidwell's spring was devoted to rehabilitation from off-season back surgery. If Kidwell can come back to play at 100 percent this fall, it will be a bonus since most of the other outside linebackers are light on game experience. What he lacks in size, Kidwell makes up with an all-out, aggressive approach to defense. He moves well and is an elusive target for offensive blockers. The two big question marks are whether Kidwell can be ready physically and how quickly he can absorb what he missed during spring ball.

LION CAREER: 1989-A surprise starter against West Virginia, Kidwell made an early impression on Major Harris and his Mountaineer teammates with a first quarter sack. Kidwell played 78 downs in eight ball games, the most significant stint against West Virginia. After getting on the field for only two plays in the first month of the season, Kidwell came on strong to earn increased playing time in the final eight weeks. He finished with seven tackles, five of them solo, and had a particularly good game vs. Notre Dame when he logged four tackles. 1988-Kidwell was not enrolled in school. 1987-Kidwell saw action in eight games as both a reserve outside linebacker and special teams regular. He was credited with eight solo tackles and a fumble recovery. He had his most productive game against Cincinnati with five solo stops and a recovered fumble. On the final depth chart, he was the No. 4 outside linebacker. 1986-Kidwell worked with the foreign team, retaining freshman eligibility for 1987.

HIGH SCHOOL: A defensive tackle and tight end at Brooke HS, Kidwell made the West Virginia all-state team as a senior. Coach Paul Billard's team rolled over Parkersburg in the state championship game. The football and basketball captain, Kidwell was selected to play in the annual North-South all-star game at the conclusion of his scholastic career.

KIDWELL continued:

PERSONAL: Full name is George Glenn Kidwell. He has one sister. Kidwell's major is rehabilitation education in the College of Education.

BRIAN KURLEJ
Sophomore Fullback
Cherry Hill, N.J.

Brian Kurlej's hopes of parlaying an impressive spring into a post in the rushing offense were dashed by an early ankle injury. Kurlej, who had attracted some favorable attention with his running and blocking skills, was out of commission for the final three weeks of spring ball and missed the Blue-White game. If his recovery goes as anticipated, Kurlej will get a long look in the fall preseason. He shared the No. 3 fullback spot with sophomore teammates Brian Moser and Greg Filkovski on the depth chart issued at the conclusion of the spring.

LION CAREER: 1989-Kurlej retained freshman eligibility, spending the fall running the foreign team offense against what developed into one of the better defenses in Division 1-A, ranking No. 4 in scoring defense.

HIGH SCHOOL: As a senior tailback at Cherry Hill East HS, Kurlej was just 45 yards short of 1,000 in rushing. He averaged 8.1 yards per attempt and scored 20 touchdowns. His pass receiving skills were an added dimension of the offense. He caught 20 balls and scored two touchdowns while averaging better than 16 yards per reception. He was an all-area pick of the Philadelphia Inquirer and made the All-Jersey squad selected by the Newark Star-Ledger. With Kurlej carrying the offensive burden, Cherry Hill East went 11-0 and won a state championship in 1988.

PERSONAL: Full name is Brian David Kurlej. His academic program is directed toward a degree in business administration.

CHIP LaBARCA
5-9 177 10-20-70
Sophomore
Wide Receiver
Bayville, N.J.

If anyone needed convincing, Chip LaBarca offered irrefutable evidence that his exceptional high school record was no fluke with a spring showing that shot his stock all the way up to No. 2 at the flanker position on the depth chart heading into fall practice. With O.J. McDuffie out for baseball and Terry Smith available part-time due to an injury, LaBarca pounced on the opportunity to carve out a place in the pass offense. The redshirt sophomore showed off his outstanding hands, his superior speed and his admirable knack for escaping the coverage in several of the spring scrimmages, including the Blue-White game. LaBarca made a pair of catches for 91 yards — the best yardage total of any receiver in the game. He hooked up with Corey Jett on a 62-yard pass that set up the first score of the game, a 25-yard field goal by Henry Adkins. A later 29-yard reception of a Tony Sacca pass was the long-gainer in another scoring drive.

LION CAREER: 1989-LaBarca helped sharpen the techniques of the defensive secondary as a pesky wide receiver for the foreign team. He retains freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: LaBarca played for his father, Chip, Sr., at Toms River South HS. He had a career total of 134 receptions for 2,417 yards and 43 touchdowns. That computes to an average of 18 yards per catch and a touchdown every 3.1 receptions. A two-time All-New Jersey pick of both the Newark Star-Ledger and the Associated Press, LaBarca caught 40 balls for 668 yards and 10 touchdowns as a senior when he was selected to play in the New Jersey all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Charles LaBarca. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

MARK LAWN
 Senior Kick Snapper
 Jericho, N.Y.

A broken hand isn't something that necessarily sidelines every player unless, like Mark Lawn, your occupation happens to be snapping for punt, field goal and conversion attempts. Lawn was idle for a portion of the spring with a cracked bone in the hand. He made it back to reclaim his responsibilities in the Blue-White game and regain a hold on the deep snap duties come fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Lawn had a couple of episodes in the spotlight, one forgettable and another memorable. Against Alabama, Lawn's snap for what would have been the winning field goal sailed high and the timing was disrupted, resulting in a Tide block. Confronted with almost identical circumstances at Pittsburgh, Lawn's snap was perfect and Ray Tarasi nailed a field goal on the final play to defeat the Panthers. The overall efficiency of the field goal unit, and Lawn's precision as snapper, is validated by Tarasi's 19 field goals and record 82.6 percent accuracy figure.

1988-Lawn was backup snapper to Greg Truitt but did not see any game action.

1987-A year on the foreign team did not disturb Lawn's freshman eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-time captain at Jericho HS, Lawn hung up career totals of more than 1,000 yards rushing and 25 touchdowns. A fullback, linebacker and nose guard, he was a first-team all-county pick after helping Jericho to a conference title in 1986. He also played in the post-season Nassau County all-star game. Lawn annexed all-county honors in track as well, throwing the shot and discus for the thinclads.

PERSONAL: Full name is Mark Joseph Lawn. He has two older brothers and two older sisters, one of whom is a former Penn State swimmer. He is pursuing his course work in the College of Health and Human Development.

No. 57
SEAN LOVE
 6-3 275 9-6-68
 Senior Guard
 Tamaqua, Pa.

While he ended the spring behind Dave Brzenchek at short guard on the final depth chart, Sean Love isn't the type of player to be satisfied with backup responsibilities. A competitive young man, Love can be expected to apply pressure to Brzenchek and Jerrod Vance for the starting nod against Texas. Love's game experience and his capacity to handle the physical demands of the position make him an important asset on the offensive line, whether in a starting or a reserve role. Love was the starting short guard for the victorious Blue team in the annual spring game.

LION CAREER: 1989-Once he got past some early injury problems, Love's development was impressive enough that he was inserted into the starting lineup at shortside guard for important late-season games with Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. He started in the same position earlier at Texas and showed his capacity to play either side by opening in the offensive lineup at long guard vs. Virginia. Although he didn't get into the Boston College, Alabama or Maryland games, Love played in a total of eight contests, finishing with 366 offensive plays, which ranked him No. 6 among offensive linemen in total playing time. 1988-Despite his offensive inexperience, Love saw action in nine of 11 games. He finished with 225 plays, ranking seventh among offensive linemen. He had more than 50 plays in games against Cincinnati and West Virginia. Love did not play in the Pittsburgh and Notre Dame games in the final two weeks of the season. He was switched to offense in spring practice. 1987-Love worked with the foreign team as a defensive tackle. He saw no game action and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state choice as an offensive and defensive lineman, Love led Marian Catholic HS to a conference title in his senior season and a district title as a junior. Marian Catholic was 32-4, including 13-0 in 1986, and ran up 24 straight wins in his three seasons as a letterman. A Big 33 selection, Love won defensive Most Valuable Player honors for the Pennsylvania squad.

PERSONAL: Full name is Sean Fitzgerald Love. Love, who has two older brothers, is an exercise and sport science major in the College of Health and Human Development.

ROB LUEDEKE
Senior Center
Bridgewater, N.J.

Behind the durable Roger Duffy, Rob Luedeke patiently waited his turn for something more than a token role in the offense. Luedeke stepped forward to stake a spring claim on Duffy's vacant job and left little doubt that he will be tough to dislodge from the lineup this fall. For Luedeke, the positive side of playing behind Duffy was the opportunity for a close-up inspection of what it takes to excel at the Division 1-A level. Luedeke made the most of the chance as was obvious in his solid spring performance. He was the starting center for the White offense in the Blue-White game.

LION CAREER: 1989-For a second straight season, Luedeke was the principal relief man for Duffy. He got into action in four games [Virginia, Temple, Rutgers, Syracuse]. He played 12 downs in the 42-3 win over Temple. Following spring practice, Luedeke was named winner of the Red Worrell Award as the "most improved" offensive player. 1988-As backup to Duffy, Luedeke appeared in three games [Virginia, Temple, Cincinnati]. He had a total of 26 plays, giving him 56 in two seasons as a reserve. 1987-The No. 3 center early in the year, Luedeke moved up a notch when Mike Wolf was injured, becoming the backup to Duffy. He appeared in the Cincinnati, Temple and Rutgers games, logging a total of 30 plays. 1986-Luedeke was a member of the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1987.

HIGH SCHOOL: A center and defensive end at Raritan West HS, Luedeke won an armload of honors, including all-state. Captain of the football team, he also lettered in basketball [forward], baseball [pitcher and first base] and golf. He played for the South team in the 1986 New Jersey all-star game. Luedeke's high school coach, Chuck Nelson, was a teammate of Joe Paterno at Brown.

PERSONAL: Full name is Robert D. Luedeke. Luedeke, who has a sister, is majoring in the broadcast-cable option in the School of Communications.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I feel it [1990 season] will be my turn to play and I'm ready. I definitely feel good about it. I'm not sorry I haven't played more in the past four years. All through high school, I was never the superstar. As the years go by, you start to move up and some other guys fall by the wayside. You've just got to hang in there and keep going. Eventually everything will come around." — Rob Luedeke.

MIKE MALINOSKI
6-2 267 9-9-71
Sophomore
Defensive Tackle
Shenandoah, Pa.

In a spring experiment, Mike Malinoski was moved from the offensive line to defensive tackle. He wound up No. 3 at right tackle, behind Todd Burger and Lou Benfatti, on the depth chart. Finding a position where Malinoski's size and excellent quickness can be put to the best use is a priority for the coaching staff. He played the right side for the Blue defense in the spring game and was credited with an unassisted tackle. A willing worker, Malinoski's ability to work either side of the ball provides some options for the fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Malinoski got acquainted with the program by demonstrating the formations of upcoming opponents as a member of the foreign team. He did not see any game action and retains freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Malinoski was the centerpiece of Coach Dave Williams' defense at Shenandoah Valley HS in 1988. He won first-team small school all-state recognition from the Associated Press and was the Reading Eagle Defensive Player-of-the-Year. Malinoski's amazing senior statistics included 165 tackles, 14 quarterback sacks and 11 tackles for losses.

PERSONAL: Full name is Michael Christopher Malinoski. He is enrolled in the science program of the College of Science.

TONY MATESIC
 Junior
 Fairview, N.J.

Spring was catch-up time for Tony Matesic who had hoped to parlay a strong showing into increased billing in the regular defensive rotation. Matesic's opportunity was foiled by an ankle injury in the winter conditioning program. He got back to play in the Blue-White game, although probably at less than 100 percent. He had one tackle playing behind Jim Deter for the Blue defense. A healthy Matesic will press for an enlarged defensive workload in the fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Matesic battled throughout the preseason with the more experienced Frank Giannetti for the starting job at left tackle, a job Giannetti won for the opener with Virginia. Matesic was pressed into immediate service, though, when Giannetti suffered a broken bone in his hand. He started against Temple, but slipped back into a reserve role when Giannetti returned in that game. In the finale at Pittsburgh, Matesic again got a hurry-up call, this time at nose tackle, when starter Todd Burger went down. He finished the year with six tackles, five of them in the Temple game, when he also shared a quarterback sack. 1988-A member of the foreign team, Matesic retained four seasons of eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: Matesic was one of the most decorated defensive players in New Jersey in 1987. A big-play nose tackle, he registered more than 150 tackles, 36 quarterback sacks and 11 fumble recoveries in his junior season. As a senior, he was named second-team All-American by USA Today, a Sporting News Top 100 selection, all-state and Scholastic Coach All-American. He made seven tackles in the New Jersey North-South all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Anthony Mario Matesic. He is majoring in administration of justice in the College of the Liberal Arts.

 Sophomore
 Columbia, S.C.

Given the experience of the three players ahead of him, Chris Mazyck faces a stiff climb up the ladder at the nose tackle position. Mazyck was No. 3 on the depth chart issued at the close of spring drills behind projected starter Jim Deter, and the duo of Eric Renkey and Tony Matesic, which shared second billing. Mazyck's size and quickness are almost ideally suited to the position. He needs to continue to familiarize himself with the defensive scheme and sharpen his techniques. Mazyck got a good workout for the White defense in the spring game and was credited with a pair of tackles.

LION CAREER: 1989-Mazyck's freshman eligibility wasn't disturbed as he spent a get-acquainted season on the foreign team.

HIGH SCHOOL: Few scholastic athletes create the kind of stir Chris Mazyck did as a senior at Lower Richland HS. As a senior defensive lineman, Mazyck accumulated the kind of box-car numbers that won him Scholastic Coach All-American honors. He passed the 100-tackle plateau (108), racked up 17 quarterback sacks and recovered three fumbles. The Columbia Touchdown Club voted him Player-of-the-Year in South Carolina and

MATT MCCARTIN
6-5 274 1-26-68
Senior Tackle
Highland Park, Texas

The most experienced of the returning offensive linemen, Matt McCartin secured his starting job at long tackle during spring practice. The dependable McCartin also elevated his leadership instincts a notch, winning election as offensive co-captain [with Leroy Thompson] in a team vote prior to the spring game. McCartin has outstanding size and is a determined blocker who adapts nicely to either running or passing situations. His talent and career resume places McCartin among the superior offensive linemen in the East.

LION CAREER: 1989-McCartin won the regular job at long tackle in fall camp and started all 11 games, one of only five offensive players to do so. In his first year as a starter, McCartin played on 703 offensive downs, second only to Roger Duffy among linemen. The Texas native took particular delight in the Lions' 16-12 win over the Texas Longhorns at Austin.

1988-After token duty in his first season, McCartin won a letter by appearing in 160 offensive plays in eight games. His most extensive action was against Rutgers. He also had extended stints at Virginia and Temple. 1987-McCartin saw limited service in his first season after transferring from Southern Methodist. He was in action for 12 plays against Cincinnati.

HIGH SCHOOL: McCartin earned first-team All-Metro Dallas honors playing for Highland Park HS. Also an all-district choice, McCartin earned three letters for a team that compiled a 21-10 mark in his three seasons.

PERSONAL: Full name is Matt James McCartin. His three sisters and brother also have first names beginning with the letter M. He is enrolled in the broadcast-cable major in the School of Communications.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: [On transferring to Penn State] "I was thrilled to be walking into a winning program. I was impressed with the dedication to academics here and I thought the coaching staff was outstanding. I felt really awkward at first, but [Roger] Duffy and the guys on the [offensive] line helped me out and made me feel welcome right away. The coaches also really went out of their way to help me adjust. At SMU, most people were from the Texas area, but here I met people from all over." — Matt McCartin.

No. 24
O.J. MCDUFFIE
5-11 186 12-2-69
Junior
Wide Receiver
Gates Mills, Ohio

O.J. McDuffie was excused from spring practice to play with the Nittany Lions' baseball team. He won a berth as the starting centerfielder and was No. 3 in the final batting statistics with an average of .336. McDuffie also tied a season mark for stolen bases with 20 in 21 attempts. He tied another mark with a hitting streak of 18 straight games. McDuffie finished with 43 hits, scored 23 runs and logged 17 RBIs. Once the transition from spikes to cleats is complete, McDuffie seems sure to be a focus of the passing and return games. He shared time with David Daniels and Terry Smith at the split end and flanker positions in 1989 and was the primary punt returner from mid-season on. McDuffie is an "impact" player who will be central to Penn State's offensive plans in 1990.

LION CAREER: 1989-McDuffie's multi-dimensional skills were on display at Syracuse, where he blistered the Orangemen for a season-high 203 all-purpose yards with 115 on returns, 48 rushing and 40 on pass receptions. His resume against the Orange included an 84-yard punt return for a touchdown, the first by a Lion since 1988 and the fifth longest in school history. In addition, McDuffie had a 46-yard run off a reverse and a 25-yard pass reception. For the year, he gained 88 yards rushing (on 17 carries), caught 11 passes for 164 yards and returned 19 punts for an average of 14.6 yards, which ranked him No. 7 among the national leaders in punt returns. McDuffie's all-purpose yardage was over the 500 mark (530). He had a 15-yard run on a reverse vs. Notre Dame and a 10-yard scamper vs. Alabama. He also made a leaping grab of a Tony Sacca pass for a 19-yard touchdown against the Tide. In the Holiday Bowl, McDuffie rushed twice (for minus-three yards), caught two passes for 36 yards, had a seven-yard punt return and racked up a bowl record of 128 yards on five kickoff returns, the longest 46 yards. 1988—Although his contribution was modest in seven limited appearances, McDuffie caught four passes for 42 yards (two at Virginia, two at Alabama) and had one rush for six yards. He returned three kickoffs for 48 yards, but did not letter.

HIGH SCHOOL: Few high school athletes have generated more widespread recruiting interest than O.J. McDuffie, the "All-Everything" performer at Hawken HS. In three seasons, he piled up more than 7,000 all-purpose yards and scored 79 touchdowns. A wide receiver as a sophomore, he played running back his final two seasons and was an All-America choice of Parade Magazine, Scholastic Coach and USA Today. As a senior, he rushed for 1,834 yards on 261 carries, caught 45 passes for 633 yards and scored 28 touchdowns. McDuffie also was third-team all-state and averaged 17 points a game in basketball and belted 10 home runs and batted .539 for the baseball team to draw the attention of three major league clubs.

PERSONAL: Full name is Otis James McDuffie. He was named by his grandmother after the Buffalo Bills All-Pro running back O.J. Simpson, who was one of her favorite players. He is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "O.J.'s a very mature young man. He probably can afford to miss some spring ball because he's been here and played a lot. He doesn't have to learn a new system, he knows the coaches and the quarterback." — Defensive backfield coach Ron Dickerson.

"When we recruited O.J., he asked if he could play baseball, and we said 'sure' if you can make the team. I said he would have to participate in spring football as a freshman. 'You may be good enough that you don't need spring football,' I told him, but I don't read your press clippings." — Joe Paterno.

RICH MCKENZIE
6-2 230 4-15-71
Sophomore
Outside Linebacker
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

A letterman as a freshman in 1989, outside linebacker Rich McKenzie possesses the kind of big-league credentials that could make him something special before his college career concludes. One of the most heavily recruited high school players in the nation as a senior, McKenzie finished his first spring practice as the No. 1 weakside linebacker. As his game has become more disciplined, McKenzie has improved as a pass rusher and become more comfortable with his part in the overall defensive scheme. In the Blue-White game, McKenzie started outside for the White defense and was credited with four tackles, three of them unassisted. He also sacked Tony Sacca for a 13-yard loss. Like Reggie Givens, his linebacking partner on the strong side, McKenzie is young (19), but has the physical gifts to compensate for a lack of significant experience.

LION CAREER: 1989—An injury to Mark D'Onofrio put McKenzie in the defensive lineup for the Holiday Bowl, the first start of his college career. He made an impressive bow with a solid performance that included four tackles, three of them unassisted, and some heavy pressure on Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer. One of only four freshmen to see any significant playing time, McKenzie got into eight games and played a total of 66 downs during the regular-season. He was credited with four unassisted tackles on the final defensive statistics. He got a lengthy workout against Temple, a game in which he made two tackles.

HIGH SCHOOL: McKenzie was at the top of every college recruiter's "most wanted" list. A consensus high school All-America, McKenzie was rated the No. 1 linebacker in the nation by Parade Magazine. Coach Ray Buscemi of Boyd Anderson HS, felt McKenzie might be the most dominating player in scholastic football as a senior when he made 98 tackles (64 solo) and had 12 quarterback sacks. In his career, McKenzie was credited with more than 350 tackles, 38 quarterback sacks and 14 fumble recoveries. A first-team All-America selection of USA Today, McKenzie was voted Florida Player-of-the-Year by the Associated Press. He also made the Scholastic Coach All-America team. McKenzie also was a three-year starter for the basketball team and ran track, finishing second in the Broward County 100-meter finals as a junior.

PERSONAL: Full name is Richard

Anthony McKenzie. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "The difference between Richard from last season to now is night and day. One of the things that has been great is Richard believes in us and he knows we believe in him. He got to play in the Holiday Bowl. He did an outstanding job. He can make some things happen for us this fall, especially rushing the passer." — Assistant Coach Tom Bradley.

SEAN MOFFITT
6-2 267 12-21-68
Senior Guard
Tunkhannock, Pa.

Redshirt senior Sean Moffitt has been a man on the move for the past couple of seasons. He has finally settled in as an offensive guard and made some important strides in spring ball. Mike Flanagan and Paul Siever were ahead of him at long guard on the wrapup spring depth chart, but Moffitt has closed what was a much larger gap at the beginning of spring drills. Moffitt played for the Blue offense in the spring game, backing up Flanagan at long guard. He is anxious for a more significant part in the offense and, with a strong preseason showing, could make an upward surge.

LION CAREER: 1989—Originally ticketed for duty at guard, Moffitt got a hurry-up call for a return to defense when injuries thinned the ranks at nose tackle early on. He worked briefly on defense in the Temple and Pittsburgh games, but wasn't credited with any tackles. 1988—A spring move to defense meant overtime learning for Moffitt, an offensive player as a freshman. He saw limited action, getting into the Temple and Cincinnati games for brief reserve stints at defensive tackle. 1987—Moffitt did not play while working with the offensive line. He retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: The 1986 Wyoming Valley Lineman-of-the-Year, Moffitt earned second-team all-state honors for Tunkhannock HS. He started three seasons on defense and two on offense for coach Tom Oldziejewski, a former Penn State lineman. He registered 103 tackles (14 for losses) and 17 sacks in his senior year, when he was a Big 33 selection as well as a UNICO all-star.

PERSONAL: Full name is Sean Patrick Moffitt. He has an older sister and brother. Moffitt is enrolled in the administration of justice program in the College of the Liberal Arts.

No. 36
BRIAN MONAGHAN
6-2 225 12-4-70
Sophomore
Inside Linebacker
Wexford, Pa.

In his first spring practice, linebacker Brian Monaghan struggled to establish himself as a solid prospect for backup consideration at the inside linebacker spot where Mark D'Onofrio is expected to start this fall. Monaghan shared the No. 3 slot with Rob Ruslavage on the depth chart issued following the Blue-White game. A top talent who comes from the same high school league that produced teammates Eric Renkey, Chris Cisar, Bobby Samuels and Rick Sayles among others, Monaghan is shy game experience, but has all the measurables.

LION CAREER: 1989-Working against the likes of Blair Thomas helped Monaghan form an appreciation of Division 1-A runners from his inside linebacker slot on the foreign team. He did not see any game action, preserving freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Monaghan made the Parade All-America team as a linebacker at North Allegheny HS. He was listed as well on All-America squads compiled by USA Today and Scholastic Coach. Monaghan finished his career with more than 300 tackles, 146 in his senior season when he was a first-team all-state choice. Both Pittsburgh newspapers included him in their compilations of the area's outstanding high school players. Selected to play in the Big 33 game, Monaghan played soccer before football intervened and also was a basketball and track standout.

PERSONAL: Full name is Brian Andrew Monaghan. He is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

BRIAN MOSER
6-1 225 10-1-71
Langhorne, Pa.

An injury to Sam Gash on the first rushing play of the Blue-White game spelled a busy afternoon for Brian Moser, Gash's backup at fullback for the White offense. Moser carried 13 times for 51 yards, ranking him No. 3 among ground-gainers in the contest. He had a long run of nine yards and also caught a pass for a one-yard gain. While Gash and sophomore Brian O'Neal head into the fall 1-2 at fullback, Moser will vie with sophomore teammates Brian Kurlej and Greg Filkowski for some duty in a reserve capacity.

LION CAREER: 1989-Although he didn't get into any games, Moser got a feel for the intensity of major college football from a year's exposure to the Blue defense as a running back on the foreign team. He retains freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: A fullback at Neshaminy HS as a senior, most of Moser's scholastic reputation was established as a linebacker. He racked up 181 tackles his senior season when he won second-team Associated Press all-state honors. USA Today listed Moser as an honorable mention on its high school All-America list. A member of the National Honor Society, Moser appeared on all-surburban and all-area squads chosen by the Philadelphia Inquirer. Moser also threw the shot, discus and javelin for the track squad.

PERSONAL: Full name is Brian Donald Moser. Enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies, Moser has designs on a major in architectural engineering.

V.J. MUSCILLO
5-8 185 10-25-70
Sophomore Kicker
Long Branch, N.J.

What shapes up as one of the more interesting battles of the fall preseason is the identity of a successor to Ray Tarasi as the placekicker. V.J. Muscillo was locked in a tight chase with Henry Adkins, John Van Allen and Chris Ingraham during spring practice. He emerged just a step behind Adkins according to the final spring depth chart, which listed him No. 2 at the conclusion of the Blue-White game. Muscillo helped himself in that game with a 27-yard field goal on his only attempt and a pair of successful PATs. While he was somewhat inconsistent during the spring, Muscillo has the capacity to be accurate from long range.

LION CAREER: 1989—Muscillo showed a strong leg in scrimmages and practice sessions, but did not have the opportunity to kick in a game, preserving his freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Muscillo's kicking exploits at Long Branch HS earned him Parade Magazine All-America honors. He nailed 22 field goals and successfully converted 75 PATs. In practice, he once hit a field goal of 62 yards. His strong leg was further verified by a kickoff average of more than 60 yards.

PERSONAL: Full name is Vincent Joseph Muscillo. He is majoring in science in the College of Science.

MATT NARDOLILLO
Junior Quarterback
Randolph, N.J.

Despite a knee strain that cost him the final week of spring practice, Matt Nardolillo will find himself in a familiar position come fall — dueling again with fellow New Jersey high school product Tony Sacca. The two have been adversaries since scholastic days. Nardolillo shared the No. 2 slot with Tom Bill on the final spring depth chart. His progress in the spring was encouraging to the coaching staff. Nardolillo might have been well enough to play in the spring game, but rest won out as the better alternative. The redshirt junior, expected to be back at full strength by the arrival of fall camp, is a key offensive ingredient for the 1990 Lions, whether cast in a starting or reserve role.

LION CAREER: 1989—When Sacca twisted a knee in the Texas game, Nardolillo had to be rushed into action on a third-and-seven situation. He completed a six-yard pass to Blair Thomas to keep a scoring drive alive. 1988—Nardolillo spent his rookie season familiarizing himself with the program as the quarterback of the foreign team. While he dressed for seven games, he did not play and retained four years of eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: Regarded as one of the top quarterback prospects in the Northeast, Nardolillo shared first-team All-New Jersey honors with Sacca. In his career at Randolph HS, Nardolillo passed for 3,949 yards and 37 touchdowns. He also rushed for 15 touchdowns. As a senior, he completed 68-of-110 passes (61.8 percent) for 1,100 yards and 13 touchdowns in leading Randolph to an 11-0 season. Nardolillo and Sacca were opposing quarterbacks in the 1988 New Jersey North-South all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Matthew Patrick Nardolillo. Nardolillo, who has three older brothers, is majoring in labor and industrial relations in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Matt Nardolillo had a really fine spring. He was a 55-58 percent passer during the scrimmage and practice sessions. He showed a nice touch and made some excellent adjustments. Then he hurt his knee and had to miss the final week and the spring game. We probably could have pushed him to play in the Blue-White game, but it didn't make any sense to do that." — Joe Paterno.

GREGG NORTON
 5-10 188 6-14-70
 Junior
 Wide Receiver
 Port Jefferson, N.Y.

Gregg Norton is looking to break into the lineup at the flanker position where he played behind Terry Smith and O.J. McDuffie last fall. Norton ended spring practice sharing the No. 3 slot on the depth chart with Todd Jessup. Working behind Smith with the White offense in the spring game, Norton didn't catch a pass, but he was credited with a pair of tackles on coverage.

LION CAREER: 1989—As a reserve wideout, Norton made brief appearances in three games — Temple, Rutgers and Syracuse. He didn't catch a pass and finished No. 3 at the split end position on the wrapup depth chart behind David Daniels and Joe Markiewicz. 1988—Norton became acquainted with the offensive system as a member of the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: A wide receiver and kick returner at Port Jefferson HS, Norton earned all-league and all-county honors. A three-year letterman, he was captain of the football and track teams. Norton ran the anchor leg on the 4x400 relay team, which won all-state honors in 1988.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gregg Thomas Norton. Norton, who has an older sister, is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

JASON OAKMAN
 6-4 222 7-9-71
 Sophomore
 Inside Linebacker
 Spencerville, Ohio

During spring practice, newcomer Jason Oakman went to school on the elementary and advance techniques of playing inside linebacker. Oakman proved such an apt pupil that he advanced all the way to No. 3 behind projected starter Keith Goganious and backup Brett Wright, both older and more experienced players, on the depth chart posted at the conclusion of spring drills. Oakman started inside for the White defense in the Blue-White game and was credited with an unassisted tackle.

LION CAREER: 1989—Oakman remained a freshman from an eligibility standpoint for 1990 after spending his first season on the foreign team.

HIGH SCHOOL: From a division V program at Spencerville HS, Oakman displayed his versatility by playing seven positions on offense and defense. He was plugged into three spots (guard, tackle and center) on the offensive line as well as four positions (inside and outside linebacker, defensive end and nose tackle) on the opposite side of the ball. A first-team division V all-state pick of the Associated Press, Oakman also was elected to membership in the National Honor Society. He also was the division V state champion in the discus.

PERSONAL: Full name is Jason Scott Oakman. He is an aspiring artist, whose study now is concentrated in the art curriculum of the College of Arts and Architecture.

BRIAN O'NEAL
 Cincinnati, Ohio

Coaching staff concerns about the fullback position were eased by the spring performances of Brian O'Neal and Sam Gash. A part-time offensive player as a freshman, O'Neal's spring growth spurt left him No. 2 behind Gash as the out-of-season drills concluded. O'Neal not only showed a capacity to handle the running and blocking skills the position demands, but also exhibited a growing level of maturity, a product of the game experience he accumulated last fall. O'Neal pounded out 31 yards on nine carries from his fullback slot in the Blue-White game. He also displayed his pass receiving skills with two catches for 20 yards. A durable, dependable athlete, O'Neal and Gash give the Lions a fullback combination reminiscent of Steve Smith and Tim Manoa from the 1986 National Championship team.

LION CAREER: 1989—O'Neal broke into the rushing column as a freshman with 32 yards on seven carries. He scored a touchdown on a six-yard burst in the fourth quarter in the 17-0 victory over Rutgers at Giants Stadium. He had a 10-yard run, his longest of the year, in the win at Syracuse. His 16 yards against the Orangemen were the most he recorded in any game. His 4.6-yard average was the best for any of the fullbacks. He played in eight of 11 games, seeing the most service against Temple and Syracuse.

HIGH SCHOOL: From the same Cincinnati Purcell Marian HS program that produced Navy Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Roger Staubach, O'Neal scored 206 career points, including 33 touchdowns. He was a 1,000-yard rusher [1,151] as a senior. O'Neal's exceptional effort earned him an honorable-mention All-America listing from USA Today and second-team All-Ohio honors from the Associated Press. O'Neal's senior portfolio included selection to the Cincinnati Post all-area squad and a berth on the Ohio North-South all-star team. Purcell honored its own by naming O'Neal the school's Athlete-of-the-Year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Brian Louis O'Neal. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Brian didn't miss a snap all spring, which was important to his overall improvement. He is a good-looking prospect at fullback. His blocking got better and he can be a fine runner. Brian has a lot of ability and is going to be a fine back." — Joe Paterno.

DARREN PERRY
5-10 186 12-29-88
Senior Hero
Chesapeake, Va.

After sharing starting responsibilities with Gary Brown last fall, Darren Perry was able to take advantage of some extra instruction when Brown sat out spring drills. Although there is uncertainty about Brown's whereabouts this fall, be it offense or defense, the secondary picture is stabilized by the presence of Perry, who has both talent and experience. Perry had an active Blue-White game with two solo tackles and three assists, one tackle for a five-yard loss and a 19-yard return of an intercepted pass. He started at hero for the victorious Blue squad. If Brown is back on defense, he and Perry will duel for the starting nod. Should Brown elect to play tailback, Perry has a leg up on Chris Cisar and Shelly Hammonds for the regular role.

LION CAREER: 1989—Perry opened in the secondary on six occasions [Virginia, Temple, Boston College, Texas, Alabama, Maryland]. He was credited with 37 tackles, more than half of them [20] unassisted. His strongest outing was against Alabama, when he made a career-high nine tackles and intercepted a pass. His 43-yard interception return vs. the Tide led to a Ray Tarasi field goal. It was the second consecutive year Perry had come up big against Alabama. He had another impressive outing at Maryland with six stops, a tackle behind the line of scrimmage and a pair of pass deflections. He was in for 422 plays during the campaign.

1988—A lack of experience didn't block Perry's rise to a prominent role in the secondary. He started three games at left corner [Rutgers, Maryland, Notre Dame] and finished with over 400 total plays, including 100 on special teams. Perry made 21 tackles, 16 of them unassisted, forced a fumble, made a pair of recoveries and intercepted a pass [Alabama]. In the finale at Notre Dame, he had seven tackles [four solos and three assists], his game-high for the year. 1987—Perry worked with the secondary of the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-sport athlete at Deep Creek HS, Perry won all-district and second-team all-state honors at quarterback. He passed for 2,790 yards and 23 touchdowns and ran for 1,167 yards and 14 scores in a career that saw his team register a 22-8 mark in three seasons. Also a standout in basketball and tennis, Perry captained all three sports for one year and basketball for two. The basketball team won two regional titles with Perry as a starting guard and the football team won the district championship in his junior year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Darren Perry. He has four brothers and three sisters. Perry is a management major in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Being a hero back, you have to come up and take on pulling tackles and guards and force the play inside. You have to be a little more aggressive than at corner and be a little more reckless in there and just make things happen. But I'm not just going to be stopping the run. I'll be in there on deep coverages and I'll be a little bit of everywhere." — Darren Perry.

DERICK PICKETT
6-5 263 8-2-71
Glenside, Pa.

Experience is the best teacher for an offensive lineman, so, admittedly, Derick Pickett's resume is a little thin. He had a crash course at the short tackle spot this past spring, demonstrating an aptitude that earned him No. 3 billing headed into fall preseason practice. Pickett has the size to excel and, to add to his attractiveness, his oversized frame hasn't cost him any mobility. Pickett's continued development could make him a candidate for some game action behind Pat Duffy and Greg Huntington this fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-Pickett's playing time was concentrated on the foreign team. He did not disturb his freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year starter, Pickett was preceded at Penn State by another Bishop McDevitt HS standout, guard Chris Conlin, who won All-America honors as a bulwark of the offensive line for the 1986 National Championship team. Pickett was an All-American choice of Scholastic Coach magazine and made the USA Today honorable-mention list. He made all-Catholic and all-area teams chosen by the Philadelphia Inquirer.

ANDRE POWELL
6-1 228 6-5-69
Senior
Inside Linebacker
York, Pa.

The long road back from major knee surgery did not permit Andre Powell to go all-out during spring drills. The gifted inside linebacker participated in non-contact work, but missed the heavy hitting and was held out of the spring game. Expectations are that Powell will be ready to go full speed when fall practice begins and that's good news for the defensive coaching staff. A starter as a freshman, Powell is penciled in as a backup to Mark D'Onofrio on the inside, but, if he's healthy, he has the exceptional physical characteristics and the game experience to be a starter at either inside position or even outside where he lettered as a freshman.

LION CAREER: 1989-A torn anterior cruciate ligament in the knee, suffered during spring practice, sidelined Powell for the entire season, qualifying him for a red-shirt season. 1988—One of the principal backup linebackers, Powell was in action for over 200 plays [194 defense, 36 special teams], despite missing the first two games while recovering from an injury. He played in the nine remaining contests and was credited with 18 tackles and a quarterback sack [vs. Maryland].

1987—The first of the 1987 freshmen to start a game [Rutgers], Powell was a heavy contributor early in his first season. He filled in when injuries depleted the linebacker corps and finished as the No. 2 outside linebacker behind Keith Karpinski. Registering nine tackles overall, Powell had two solo tackles against both Temple and Rutgers. He played in all 11 games and was involved in 125 special teams plays and 128 defensive downs.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state and Big 33 choice for York HS, Powell also was a USA Today honorable-mention All-American. Locally, he earned York Daily Record Player-of-the-Year honors. His career statistics [246 tackles and five interceptions] included senior totals of 93 tackles, four thefts and 16 tackles for losses. Powell also excelled in basketball as York won the county championship in his junior year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Andre Maurice Powell. Powell, who has a younger sister, is an administration of justice major in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "We let Andre participate in any spring drills where there was no low blocking. Things where he could react, like on pass defense. At the end of the spring, he was still probably a couple of months away from being 100 percent. He was still favoring the knee a bit and it still got sore on him. There is no reason to believe, however, that he won't be O.K. this fall." — Joe Paterno.

TOM PROWDZIK
Whites Crossing, Pa.

Like sophomore teammate Derick Pickett, Tom Prawdzik has the measurables to become a significant player on the offensive line. Prawdzik had the luxury this past spring of working alongside Penn State's most experienced lineman, senior Matt McCartin, at the long tackle position. Prawdzik was quick to grasp the complexities of the blocking assignments, demonstrating the capacity to handle run and pass responsibilities with equal precision. When preseason drills convene in August, Prawdzik will start out behind McCartin and Mark Flythe in the No. 3 slot at long tackle.

LION CAREER: 1989—Prawdzik's address was the foreign team, where he helped sharpen the team's defensive skills by demonstrating the offense of upcoming opponents. He dressed out for a number of games, but did not get into any games, and retains freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: College recruiters camped on the doorstep of Lakeland HS for the chance to win the attention of Prawdzik, a three-year regular who played both offensive and defensive tackle. He made the Associated Press small school all-state team as a senior when he also turned up on the honorable-mention All-America list in USA Today. He twice captured a spot on the All-Lackawanna County squad. The Scranton Times featured Prawdzik on its all-area team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Thomas Prawdzik. He is pursuing a degree in the College of Agriculture.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Tom did very well in the spring. He is a no-nonsense young man, who has an all-business approach to the game. He came here at over 300 pounds, but has gotten his weight down and is much quicker. I think he can be a fine offensive lineman." — Joe Paterno.

No. 94
ERIC RAVOTTI
 6-2 234 3-16-71
 Sophomore
 Freeport, Pa.

The size of Penn State's 1989 jackpot at outside linebacker is evidenced by the rapid rise of Eric Ravotti, Richard McKenzie and Reggie Givens from raw recruits to key defensive performers as freshmen. Ravotti and McKenzie wrestled for the "willie" linebacker position this past spring. While McKenzie received top billing on the depth chart headed into the fall preseason, Ravotti trails by only a step and likely will continue to apply pressure for a starting job. Ravotti started for the Blue defense in the spring game and was credited with one solo tackle. Whether it's as a starter or a reserve, Ravotti figures to be prominent in the defensive planning for this fall.

LION CAREER: 1989-The first freshman to turn up on the depth chart, Ravotti took advantage of some preseason injuries to charge all the way to No. 2 on the opening day card. He saw only limited action in defensive situations, but was a regular on many of the special teams. He was credited with two tackles, one solo. Ravotti returned one kickoff for one yard at Maryland. Prior to the Holiday Bowl, Ravotti got some work at defensive tackle as a possible emergency fill-in. He made appearances in nine regular-season games and his 163 plays was second only to Reggie Givens among freshmen.

HIGH SCHOOL: Ravotti played linebacker and tight end well enough at Freeport HS to win honorable-mention on the USA Today All-America squad. With more than 250 lifetime tackles to go with 33 quarterback sacks, he attracted the attention of a "Who's Who" of Division 1-A powerhouses. He was a defensive principal on the Associated Press all-state team. The Press and Post-Gazette featured Ravotti in their summary of the Pittsburgh vicinity's best and brightest scholastic stars. Ravotti was chosen to play in the Big 33 all-star tilt. He also was selected as a member of the National Honor Society.

PERSONAL: Full name is Eric Allen Ravotti. He is pursuing his studies in the College of Health and Human Development.

ERIC RENKEY
 Junior Nose Tackle
 Pittsburgh, Pa.

One of the big battles for nose tackle Eric Renkey is keeping his weight under control. If he can successfully cut his calorie count, Renkey will give Jim Deter a real run for a starting position on the defensive line this fall. The coaching staff hopes that Renkey comes back in the fall around 270-275 pounds. Despite carrying some extra baggage in spring ball, Renkey did demonstrate he was recovered from the turf toe that forced him to miss eight games last fall. He shared the No. 2 spot [with Tony Matesic] behind Deter on the depth chart at the end of spring ball. In the Blue-White game, Renkey opened on the nose for the White defense and was credited with two solo tackles in addition to one tackle for a one-yard loss. In the opinion of the coaching staff, a slimmed-down Renkey could be a force in the defense.

LION CAREER: 1989-After virtually sharing time with starter Jorge Oquendo in the Virginia and Temple games, Renkey was on the field for only three plays against Boston College and spent the final eight weeks of the season as a spectator. He suffered a painful "turf toe" that qualified him for a medical redshirt and an additional year of eligibility. In the three games he did play, Renkey was credited with two tackles, one each against the Cavaliers and Owls. 1988-One of only three "true" freshmen to letter in 1988, Renkey appeared in all 11 games as a reserve and ended the year as the No. 2 nose tackle. He had 11 solo tackles and seven assists, including four tackles for losses and a recovered fumble at Temple. His best days statistically came at West Virginia and Notre Dame, games in which he was credited with four tackles.

HIGH SCHOOL: Renkey was an outstanding player at North Hills HS, where he played on teams which were 37-2. The team was No. 1 in America according to USA Today in his senior year. A Parade All-American linebacker, Renkey also was the class AAAA Player-of-the-Year choice of Pittsburgh's two major newspapers. A member of the National Honor Society, he was a first-team all-state pick by the Associated Press. In his career, Renkey made more than 300 tackles and had better than 30 quarterback sacks.

PERSONAL: Full name is Eric Steven Renkey. Renkey, who has a younger sister, is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts. He has ambitions to pursue a career as an M.D.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Eric is the kind of guy you like because he works his way through a lot of things. He knows he is heavy and has a problem with his eating, but he doesn't baby himself on the practice field. He works hard. He plays hurt. What he needs is to lose some weight. If he works like a dog this summer, he could be an outstanding nose tackle. Not good, outstanding. Right now, Renkey is consistently about the toughest guy we have over the center because he plays every down. He makes you block him every play. Because of the weight, he doesn't have the quickness or foot speed he had, but you have to admire the kid because he is trying. I will be surprised if Eric doesn't come back at 270 or 275 and ready to really be a force on defense." — Joe Paterno.

"You can fall in a rut and think that football is the only thing that matters. You have to make sure your grades and your personal life are in order first. You can't lose sight of that. It's so easy to just think football, football, football." — Eric Renkey.

RICH ROSA
 6-1 188 12-31-69
 Junior
 Wide Receiver
 Hammonton, N.J.

After his first spring practice as a wide receiver, Rich Rosa advanced up the depth chart to the No. 2 spot (shared with Troy Drayton) behind David Daniels at split end. Rosa was a defensive back in the spring a year ago, but was moved to the other side of the ball in fall drills when injuries cut into the wide receiver ranks. In the Blue-White game, he caught two passes for 20 yards as the starting split end for the White offense. His receptions were for 15 and five yards. He also had a pair of punt returns for 15 yards, with a long of 12.

LION CAREER: 1989-After reporting as a defensive back, Rosa suddenly found himself learning pass patterns when the Lions were left short at wide receiver by a run of assorted injuries. Rosa made appearances in four games and had one reception (for 22 yards) that was the big gainer in a scoring drive. His most extensive stint was vs. West Virginia. Rosa was the No. 3 flanker behind Terry Smith and O.J. McDuffie at the conclusion of the campaign. 1988-The season was a growth experience for Rosa, who did not see game action, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-way starter, punt and kick returner at St. Joseph School, Rosa led his team to the New Jersey Parochial B division state championship game. As a quarterback, he rushed for 600 yards and threw for nearly 1,000 yards. His 19 career interceptions at strong safety are a school record.

PERSONAL: Full name is Richard M. Rosa. He is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts.

LEE RUBIN
5-9 184 11-10-70
Sophomore Safety
Manalapan, N.J.

Newcomer Lee Rubin settled into the No. 3 spot at free safety during spring drills. With Matt Baggett still recovering from off-season surgery, Rubin got some extra attention at a position where the starter, Sherrod Rainge, has graduated. Rubin bears a physical resemblance to Willie Thomas, the projected starter at free safety (both are 5-9, approximately 175 pounds). Rubin is a former high school quarterback, who does not shy away from contact in carrying out his defensive responsibilities. With some early game experience, he could develop into a valuable reserve.

LION CAREER: 1989-Rubin wasn't different from a lot of his freshman teammates, spending a get-acquainted year on the foreign team. He retains his freshman eligibility for 1990.

HIGH SCHOOL: Rubin returned five interceptions for touchdowns in a celebrated career at Manalapan HS. He had a career total of 11 pass thefts, six of them in his senior season when the Associated Press tapped him for its first-team all-state squad. A cornerback and safety on defense, Rubin also played quarterback his junior and senior seasons, guiding Manalapan to a 17-3 won-lost record. He was honorable-mention All-American in the USA Today listings. The Newark Star-Ledger included Rubin among its all-state selectees. He also was picked to play in the New Jersey Coaches Association all-star game. He was a member of the National Honor Society.

PERSONAL: Full name is Lee Dwight Rubin. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

TODD RUCCI
Junior Tackle
Upper Darby, Pa.

Spring practice is a time for teaching and Todd Rucci proved an apt pupil in the 1990 drills. A defensive tackle as a red-shirt sophomore last fall, Rucci got a look at two different positions on offense — center and long tackle. His outstanding size and his excellent footwork make Rucci a solid prospect to show up in the offensive lineup this fall. While he spent a large portion of the spring at center, Rucci played tackle in the Blue-White game and is listed with Tom Prawdzik as No. 3 at long tackle heading into fall camp.

LION CAREER: 1989-After redshirting as a freshman, Rucci saw limited service behind Frank Giannetti and Tony Matesic at left defensive tackle. He was credited with one solo tackle on the campaign [Temple]. Rucci logged 40 plays in eight playing appearances, the longest a stint of 16 plays in the season opener with Virginia. 1988-Rucci served as a member of the foreign team his freshman year and did not see game action, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: Rucci was a "sleeper" coming out of Upper Darby HS, after opting not to play football his junior year. An all-state pick his senior season, he was selected for the Big 33 game after posting 55 tackles, 13 quarterback sacks, five fumble recoveries and one interception.

PERSONAL: Full name is Todd L. Rucci. Rucci, who has two older brothers, is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

ROB RUSLAVAGE

Senior
Inside Linebacker
Clarion, Pa.

A shoulder injury cut short the spring trial of Rob Ruslavage at tight end. He was one of three linebackers [Jeff Anderson and Rick Sayles the others] to get a look at the position where graduation and injuries cut deeply. The time he lost to injury, however, was costly to Ruslavage and probably signals his return to inside linebacker when camp convenes this fall. On an advance depth chart, Ruslavage and Brian Monaghan share No. 3 billing at the position where Mark D'Onofrio is

LION CAREER: 1989-Ruslavage was available for duty as a reserve linebacker, but did not see any game action. 1988-While he didn't play in any games after walking on, Ruslavage did start for the Blue team in the Blue-White game.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-year letterman at center and defensive tackle at Clarion Area HS, Ruslavage was an all-conference choice on offense and defense as a senior. He also threw the shot and discus for the track team, finishing as district runner-up in the discus as a senior.

PERSONAL: Full name is Robert W. Ruslavage. His father, Charles, was a letterman for the Nittany Lions in the 1956-58 seasons. A brother played collegiately at Connecticut. He has two brothers and three sisters. Ruslavage is a civil engineering major in the College of Engineering.

TONY SACCA

6-4½ 218 4-17-70

Delran, N.J.

The No. 1 quarterback headed into fall practice, Tony Sacca already has started 15 of 23 games in his young career. Sacca turned back any challenges to his starting status during spring ball. In the Blue-White game, he played with both teams and finished the afternoon with 10 completions in 24 attempts for 174 yards and two touchdowns. He suffered four interceptions. He had a 13-yard run that was the second-longest of the game and was sacked once for a 13-yard loss. Sacca has outstanding natural ability, but has to work hard on his mechanics. He throws an excellent deep ball. Extremely mobile for a man his size [6-5, 218], Sacca has deceptive foot speed and exerts pressure on defenses with his ability to roll out of the pocket and find a receiver on the move. Becoming increasingly comfortable with the offense and his status as starting quarterback will enable Sacca, the coaching staff hopes, to achieve a new maturity and a "take charge" attitude in the huddle. With 1,515 passing yards in two seasons, Sacca is climbing toward the Top Ten in career passing at Penn State. Chuck Burkhart [1967-69] currently occupies tenth place with 2,076 yards.

LION CAREER: 1989-An outstanding performance in the Holiday Bowl was a highlight of Sacca's second season as the principal starter under center. Against Brigham Young, Sacca matched the Cougars' heralded Ty Detmer's total for TD passes (2) and posted his best aerial numbers of the year, hitting on 10 of 20 attempts for 206 yards. His TD pitches covered 24 yards to Terry Smith and 52 yards to David Daniels. He was intercepted once. It was the third time in Lions' post-season history that a quarterback had thrown for more than 200 yards. Sacca opened under center in nine games. Taking over for Tom Bill in the third week [Boston College], Sacca guided the offense the rest of the way. He shared time with Bill in the final three games of the year, each working approximately a half against Maryland, Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. Sacca finished atop the passing statistics with 56 completions in 137 attempts for 694 yards and six TDs. He was intercepted five times and suffered 12 sacks. Sacca hit a season-high 10 completions at Rutgers, including a 43-yard toss to Terry Smith that was his longest of the year. In the Texas game, Sacca hit his regular-season zenith for yards with 129. His TD throws came against Texas (33 yards to David Daniels), Rutgers (23 to Smith), Syracuse (7 to Dave Jakob), Alabama (19 to O.J. McDuffie), West Virginia (31 to Jakob) and Pittsburgh (19 to Daniels). Over the final four games and the last three quarters of the Alabama game, Sacca attempted 56 passes without suffering an interception. He had a high of 21 attempts in the Alabama game and a completion rate of 66.6 percent vs. Notre Dame [4-of-6]. Sacca averaged 12.4 yards per completion and ended with a season percentage of 40.9. In the rushing column, he carried 50 times for a net of 67 yards. One of his more memorable runs was in the fourth quarter against Boston College, when he scored the winning touchdown, the only rushing TD of his career, on a naked bootleg with less than a minute to play. He had his best rushing numbers against the Eagles, gaining 36 yards on 14 attempts. He had a 15-yard run against West Virginia, his longest of the year, for one of 12 first downs he accumulated on rushing plays.

1988-Injuries hastened Sacca's debut. Deep down on the depth chart when he reported for fall practice, he became the first freshman starter at quarterback in Joe Paterno's then 23 years as head coach when he opened at Temple. Sacca moved from fourth to first-string when all three men ahead of him (Tom Bill, Lance Lonergan, Doug Sieg) were idled by injuries. Sacca appeared in nine games, making five starts before Lonergan returned to take the No. 1 job for the final three weeks. Sacca finished with 54 completions in 146 attempts for 821 yards and four touchdowns. He was intercepted five times. His longest pass came in his first start — a 60-yard touchdown toss to Michael Timpson at Temple. He had a 68-yard scoring strike to Timpson at Alabama wiped out by a holding penalty. Sacca became the first Lion freshman to pass for more than 200 yards, when he finished with 215 against Syracuse. His total offense against the Orange [208] also is a Lion freshman record. Sacca's high for attempts was 33 vs. Cincinnati and for completions 15 vs. Syracuse. He had a 26-yard run against Cincinnati and gained 138 yards overall, but lost 150 for a rushing net of minus-12.

HIGH SCHOOL: Regarded as one of the nation's premier quarterbacks coming out of Delran HS, Sacca was named to three All-American teams (Parade, USA Today, Scholastic Coach) after completing 96-of-176 attempts for 1,665 yards and 24 touchdowns as a senior. He also tallied seven touchdowns rushing. The Philadelphia Inquirer Player-of-the-Year and an all-state selection, Sacca directed Delran to an 11-0 mark and the group II state championship.

PERSONAL: Full name is Anthony John Sacca. Sacca, who has two brothers and a sister, is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts. His younger brother, John, is a member of Penn State's incoming freshman class. John also is a quarterback and a product of the same Delran HS program.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "It's fair to say that the [starting] job is Tony's to lose, although he doesn't have it locked up. A couple of these kids are going to push him. What Tony needs to do is crank it up a notch in his role as one of the leaders on this team. He's beginning to assert himself, but that's an area he needs to develop." — Joe Paterno.

"Tony often got by on pure athletic ability. He'd do six things wrong on a play, but then make everything right by throwing a touchdown. He could overcome his mistakes by pure athleticism. He was a great natural athlete." — Delran high school coach Jim Donoghue.

"Watching him play at age seven, I knew he was a phenomenal athlete." — John Sacca, Tony's father.

"I think Tony should be more at ease now. He is making more of an effort to be a take-charge guy. Now he looks like he's ready to play, that he has more of a feel for what's going on. He's been catching up and I can see a dramatic difference in him. He feels more comfortable." — Offensive coordinator Fran Ganter.

BOBBY SAMUELS
Junior Tailback
Farrell, Pa.

Foot surgery following the season put Bobby Samuels on the shelf for a portion of spring drills, but he made it back to play in the Blue-White game, turning in one of the game's most electrifying plays when he hooked up with quarterback Corey Jett on a 74-yard effort for a White touchdown. Samuels offered a glimpse of his multiple skills with 155 all-purpose yards in the spring contest, an effort unmatched by any other player. He had 83 yards and a TD on a pair of pass receptions, 60 yards (a long of 24) on three kickoff returns and 12 yards (a long of 10) on nine carries. Samuels' explosive big-play potential could be a real bonus to the offense this fall. On the depth chart at the conclusion of spring drills, Samuels shared the No. 3 slot with Richie Anderson and Scott Davidheiser. If he returns at 100 percent in the fall, Samuels can be expected to be prominent, both in the rushing attack and as a kick returner.

LION CAREER: 1989-Persistent foot problems limited Samuel's playing and practice time. He got into all 11 games, winding up with a total of 130 plays on offense and special teams. His biggest contribution was on the kickoff return team, where he averaged 19.7 yards on a team-leading 10 runbacks. Only Richie Anderson (22.3) had a superior return average. Samuels' longest return of the season was 27 yards against West Virginia. He had a game-high of 58 yards in the finale at Pittsburgh. Samuels also made a couple of appearances as a wide receiver, but did not catch a pass. The foot injury caused him to miss the Holiday Bowl. 1988-In his first year, Samuels learned to play both sides of the ball. He started the season as a running back, spent time as a defensive back and returned to the offensive backfield by the end of the year. He saw limited game action and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: At Farrell HS, Samuels gained more than 2,600 yards rushing and scored 41 TDs. He was a first-team all-state pick and made the All-America teams of Parade Magazine, Scholastic Coach and USA Today. A sprinter, Samuels won the Pennsylvania AA state championships in the 100, 200 and 400 meters as a junior. As a schoolboy track star, Samuels beat Notre Dame's heralded Raghib Ismail four of the five times they raced head-to-head.

PERSONAL: Full name is Robert Elliott Samuels. Samuels, who has a younger sister, is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Bobby wasn't able to go all-out until about the mid-point of spring drills. Samuels is as good an athlete as there is on the football field. He has to stay healthy and get some better work habits. When he does that and matures a bit, he can be as fine a tailback as we have." — Joe Paterno.

E.J. SANDUSKY
State College, Pa.

After a trial at tackle, E.J. Sandusky was moved to center to start last fall's drills and continued to work at that spot this past spring. With the graduation of three-year starter Roger Duffy, the Lions are short on experience at the pivot position, which translates into an opportunity for Sandusky and others in the chase for Duffy's job. Sandusky backed up Rob Luedeke for the White offense in the spring game. On the offensive chart at the conclusion of the spring, Sandusky was an eyelash behind Mac Gallagher in the No. 3 spot.

LION CAREER: 1989-While he dressed and traveled, Sandusky didn't see any game action, retaining freshman eligibility. He made a comfortable adjustment, however, to center after spending earlier time at long tackle.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-way player for Coach Ron Pavlechko at State College Area HS, Sandusky served as a co-captain his senior year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Edward Joe Sandusky. Enrolled as a finance major in the College of Business Administration, he is the son of Penn State's defensive coordinator, Jerry Sandusky.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "It's neat playing for my father, that we can share something like that. We can go home and just be talking in a different language. No one else in the family understands what we're talking about." — E.J. Sandusky.

RICK SAYLES
Junior Tight End
McKeesport, Pa.

The move to a new position was just the ticket for Rick Sayles to assert himself as a more prominent member of the team. An undersized outside linebacker, Sayles found it tough to realize any playing time, but, with the move to tight end this past spring, he figures to pop up much more frequently this fall. At 6-4, Sayles is an inviting target for quarterbacks, but he needs to add some beef to better handle the blocking responsibilities of the position. Sayles was the starting tight end for the White offense in the spring game and had one catch for five yards. He also was credited with a tackle on coverage. Sayles and Jeff Anderson were bracketed behind Al Golden on the final spring depth chart.

LION CAREER: 1989-Sayles was primarily an outside linebacker, working some in that role as a member of the foreign team. He got into one game [Temple]. 1988-While he dressed for seven games (all six home contests and the road trip to West Virginia), Sayles did not see any action and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state selection as a linebacker at McKeesport HS his senior season, Sayles registered 17 quarterback sacks during his last two years of play. Selected for the Big 33 game, he was named to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Fabulous 22 team. Sayles also played tight end and defensive end.

PERSONAL: Full name is Lysle Richard Sayles. The nephew of the Miami Dolphins' George Little, Sayles is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies. He has one younger brother.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "We were very encouraged by Rick's move. He is not the biggest man in the world from a weight standpoint, but he is a tall target. He runs very well, has good hands and is a fine athlete. He is a surprisingly good blocker at this stage. He doesn't have a lot of power, but he has really good quickness and I think he's going to help us at the tight end position." — Joe Paterno.

PAUL SIEVER
6-4½ 271 8-10-69
Senior Guard
Coatesville, Pa.

After coming close to beating out Matt McCartin for the longside tackle job a year ago, Paul Siever is locked in another contest for a starting assignment, but at a new position — longside guard. The move pairs Siever against Mike Flanagan, a fifth-year senior who settled into the No. 1 role during spring ball. Siever demonstrates much promise, but his background is short in game experience. He was the starting long guard for the White team in the spring game. Elevating his game a notch would make Siever an attractive candidate for more playing time.

LION CAREER: 1989-Siever had brief

stints in the Virginia, Temple, Texas and Syracuse games, playing backup to McCartin at long tackle. He saw the most time in the 42-3 victory over the Owls in Week Two. For the year, Siever finished with a total of 29 offensive plays. 1988—One of the young linemen who got a good look, Siever logged a total of 67 plays in appearances against Virginia, Temple, Cincinnati and Maryland. He got a solid workout in the Virginia and Cincinnati contests in particular. Siever ended the year No. 2 behind Tim Freeman at short tackle. 1987—Siever worked with the foreign team as an offensive lineman, but did not see action, retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A Parade All-American, Siever led Downingtown HS to a district title as a senior. Downingtown was 27-7 with Siever in the starting lineup and won two straight conference titles with him as a two-way tackle. He also was a Big 33 selection.

PERSONAL: Full name is Paul Leonard Siever. Siever, who has a younger brother, is enrolled in the exercise and sport science curriculum of the College of Health and Human Development.

No. 35
MIKE SMITH
6-1 193 1-6-69
Senior Safety
Juniata Valley, Pa.

Mike Smith is one of those players whose diligent practice regimen hasn't yet yielded extensive playing time. But, in Smith's case, his value as a backup safety isn't diminished by a lack of game experience. Smith ended the spring as backup to Willie Thomas, who was moved from corner to free safety. In the Blue-White game, Smith started for the White defense and was credited with four tackles [two solo]. Smith has an excellent understanding of the defensive scheme, which the position demands.

LIONS CAREER: 1989—Smith was behind Sherrod Reinge and Matt Baggett at free safety. He was on the dress list at home games and traveled on the road, but did not appear in any games. 1988—Smith did not play but spent time at the hero position as a member of the foreign team. He retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-sport standout at Juniata Valley HS, Smith earned 12 letters and served as captain of the football, basketball and track teams. An all-conference and all-county tailback and linebacker, he was selected to compete in the Mid-State all-star game his senior season, when he gained 1,100 all-purpose yards. WTAJ-TV of Altoona [Pa.] honored Smith by naming him its Offensive Player-of-the-Year. As a forward and point guard in basketball, Smith scored over 720 career points. Following his senior season, he was named to the Juniata Valley League all-star team. In track, Smith qualified for the state championships four consecutive years. He competed in four events his senior year, placing second in the 110-meter hurdles and third in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles. A member of the National Honor Society, Smith also participated in the triple jump and ran in the 4x100 relay.

PERSONAL: Full name is Michael Charles Smith. He is majoring in landscape contracting. Smith has three older sisters and one younger sister.

TERRY SMITH
5-8 155 7-29-69
Senior
Wide Receiver
Monroeville, Pa.

Don't let Terry Smith's size fool you, this senior wideout from the Pittsburgh suburbs is a big talent. Smith led all receivers in 1989 with an average of 18.6 yards per catch. He's also capable of returning punts and kickoffs and could function as the backup punter in an emergency. Smith, David Daniels and O.J. McDuffie rotate as the starting receivers — an arrangement likely to continue this fall when all three return. Smith missed some time during the spring with a sore shoulder, but was back to play in the Blue-

White game, although he didn't make a catch.

LION CAREER: 1989—Smith was twice the "invisible man" in the pass offense. Left uncovered by the opposing secondary in games against Rutgers and Brigham Young in the Holiday Bowl, Smith produced major results with a 43-yard gain against the Scarlet Knights and a 24-yard TD pass against the Cougars. Smith started 10 games and caught at least one pass in nine of 11 outings. His 18.6-yard per catch average was the best on the squad. Smith's most productive game was against Rutgers, when he made three catches for 82 yards, including a 23-yard TD. He was second in receiving yardage [298] and fourth in receptions. His other TD catch was a five-yard play on a pass from Tom Bill vs. Notre Dame. In addition to his touchdown, Smith turned in another key play in the Holiday Bowl, passing nine yards out of punt formation to Tisen Thomas for a first down. 1988—Smith came up big at West Virginia, making four receptions for 84 yards, including a 40-yard TD connection with Lance Loneragan. The four receptions tied the freshman record (Kenny Jackson caught four on three occasions in 1980). Smith was the No. 3 receiver in total playing time [229 plays]. He averaged an excellent 18.9 yards per catch [151 yards, 8 catches] and started one game [at West Virginia]. He was the No. 2 punt returner with six returns for 32 yards and a long of 11 yards. 1987—Smith worked with the foreign team as a wide receiver and also with the special teams. He did not play and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: The 1986 WPIAL AAAA Eastern Player-of-the-Year, Smith quarterbacked Gateway HS to the league title that season, scoring his team's only touchdown against North Hills after tying North Hills for the title his junior year. Smith was a member of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Fabulous 22 and the Pittsburgh Press Finest 44 as well as a second-team all-state selection. In the Big 33 game, he caught five passes for 122 yards and a touchdown. Gateway was 24-1-1 in his career as he amassed the following statistics: 812 yards passing, 567 yards rushing and six interceptions.

He also captained the basketball team as a senior.

PERSONAL: Full name is Terry Maurice Smith. He has an older brother and sister. His brother, Harvey, Jr., played football for West Virginia and his father, Harvey, Sr., played basketball at Penn State. Smith is enrolled in the College of Business Administration where he hopes to pursue a degree in management.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I consider myself a pretty good athlete and it [moving from quarterback to wide receiver] came to me fairly easily. It also didn't hurt to have teachers like I had; guys like Michael Timpson, Mike Alexander and Ray Roundtree, all of whom were drafted by NFL teams. They provided me with a great opportunity to watch and learn." — Terry Smith.

No. 1
TISEN THOMAS
5-8 158 1-2-71
Sophomore
Cornerback

Tisen Thomas put on quite a show in the annual Blue-White game. The sophomore piled up 151 yards on punt and kickoff returns and made a sensational over-the-shoulder pass interception along with two other pass deflections. The smallest man on the field [5-8, 158 pounds], Thomas nearly broke two different returns — settling for a long of 26 yards on six punt run-backs and a return of 50 yards on one of two kickoffs. For the day, he had eight returns and 151 yards to go with the interception, two deflections and one assisted tackle. Thomas alternated between the first and second units at left cornerback. While No. 2 on the depth chart issued at spring's end, Thomas will press Leonard Humphries for the starting berth in the fall preseason. Thomas has outstanding speed, an essential for the position, and strong coverage skills.

LION CAREER: 1989—Prior to the Holiday Bowl, Thomas had appeared in seven games, but mostly for just a play or two. He had an extended stint against Temple and charted one tackle at Rutgers. In San Diego, the Brigham Young air attack demanded fresh legs in the secondary and Thomas got his most significant workout of the year. He was credited with four solo tackles. Thomas also was involved in one of the game's biggest plays when Terry Smith passed to him out of punt formation for a nine-yard gain and a crucial first down.

HIGH SCHOOL: Both York newspapers agreed that the multi-dimensional Thomas was the regional Player-of-the-Year his senior season as the offensive and defensive leader for York HS. A wishbone quarterback on offense, Thomas accounted for 27 rushing and passing touchdowns in his career and had three other TDs on punt returns. He had more than 1,100 yards of total offense as a senior. Thomas also started at cornerback and returned punts and kickoffs. Selected to the Associated Press first-team all-state squad, Thomas also was a two-time York County choice. A member of the National Honor Society, Thomas also earned a spot on Pennsylvania's Big 33 all-star team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Tisen Lee Thomas. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies while investigating options for an academic major.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Tisen has a chance to be a starting corner, but will get a lot of competition from [Leonard] Humphries and [Mark] Graham. Tisen has tremendous ability, but is young and sometimes fouls up on little things. Thomas was a legitimate freshman last year and the other kids are older than he is." — Joe Paterno.

No. 25
WILLIE THOMAS
5-10 180 12-8-69
Coral Springs, Fla.

No member of the 1990 Nittany Lions has been involved in more plays in more games than free safety Willie Thomas. All of that experience, however, is as a cornerback and Thomas isn't playing corner anymore. This spring, the coaching staff moved Thomas to free safety where he has an important new responsibility, calling the coverages for the secondary and adjusting to the changing formations on offense. Thomas put some distance between himself and the rest of the hopefuls at free safety with a spring performance befitting a savvy veteran. He was quick to grasp the complexity of the new position without any fall-off of the coverage and tackling skills that have made him such a valuable member of the defense for three letter-winning seasons. His 88 career tackles are more than any other returning defensive player. Teammates showed their respect for Thomas by electing him as one of the tri-captains for this fall, a distinction he shares with Leroy Thompson and Matt McCartin.

LION CAREER: 1989—One of 10 players to start every game, Thomas led all defensive backs with 30 solo tackles and finished No. 5 overall with 53 stops. He had a season-high eight tackles in the win at Syracuse and seven each against Temple and Alabama. Against the Tide, he was credited with six solos, a season-best. He also broke up eight passes, made two tackles behind the line of scrimmage, caused a fumble and intercepted a pass [Rutgers]. 1988—A defensive regular for eight weeks, Thomas appeared in 10 games, missing only the finale at Notre Dame. He topped the Lions in passes defended [13] and was credited with 18 tackles [15 solo]. He intercepted a pass and returned it 19 yards for a touchdown in the win over Cincinnati. Thomas also scored a touchdown in the Temple game, when he recovered the ball after a punt block by Andre Collins and scampered 25 yards to paydirt. Thomas had a season-high of six tackles against Syracuse. 1987—After earning time early as a special teams performer, Thomas proved his ability with starts in the final two games against Notre Dame and Pittsburgh in place of the injured Eddie Johnson. He was one of five "true" freshmen to earn a letter. He was on the field for 305 plays [186 defensively and 119 on special teams] and registered 17 tackles and five passes broken up. In his second start at Pittsburgh, he forced a fumble and racked up 11 tackles, a career high.

HIGH SCHOOL: Thomas, who played quarterback for J.P. Taravella HS, earned all-state honors in his senior season. The Ft. Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel and Miami Herald Dade County Player-of-the-Year. Thomas was an honorable-mention All-American choice by Adidas and USA Today. His team won district and regional titles in his senior year and totaled a 17-1 mark with Thomas at quarterback. As a senior, he registered 1,078 yards rushing with 14 scores and 806 yards passing. For his career, he ran for 1,798 yards and 19 TDs and threw for 1,367 yards.

PERSONAL: Full name is William E. Thomas. Thomas, who has an older brother, is enrolled in the finance option of the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "We put Willie in a spot [free safety] where he could actually be a little bit more involved in some of the decisions that have to be made as a result of formations, field position or other considerations. The safety is required to make some important calls and Willie is the only kid that really had much experience. He had a very, very fine spring. Willie is more of a natural safety than he is a corner. He is a very fluid player who tackles well. I think the move will help our defense overall." — Joe Paterno.

"Basically, I'm a laid-back guy. I look at everything in life as a learning experience; if it's good or if it's bad, you can still learn from it, and make it better the next time. I live by this philosophy and, with it, I can get through anything." — Willie Thomas.

No. 44

LERoy THOMPSON
5-10 207 2-3-69
Senior Tailback
Knoxville, Tenn.

Leroy Thompson has his sights trained on one of the most unenviable jobs in the country — succeeding No. 2 NFL draft choice and No. 2 all-time Penn State rushing leader Blair Thomas as the Nittany Lions' starting tailback. It's a responsibility Thompson would shoulder gladly. He got a leg up on the assignment during spring ball, finishing No. 1 on the final depth chart and leading all rushers in the Blue-White game. Thompson helped the Blue squad to a 20-17 victory with 75 yards on 10 attempts, including a 30-yard run that was the longest of the game. He also caught three passes for 17 yards. Thompson established himself as one of the squad's unquestioned leaders, winning election as an offensive co-captain in a team vote prior to the end of spring drills.

LION CAREER: 1989—Moved from tailback to fullback, Thompson saved his biggest performance of the year for the Holiday Bowl. He rushed for a pair of touchdowns on runs of 16 and 14 yards and tied three Penn State bowl records — touchdowns rushing, points and touchdowns. Although not included in the season individual totals, his numbers of 68 yards on 14 carries represented season-highs. The starter with Blair Thomas in eight of 11 games, Thompson had 184 total yards (on 54 attempts) and caught nine passes for 106 yards. Thompson figured in two of the year's biggest plays — a seven-yard scoring run in the tie with Maryland and a 29-yard gain on a screen pass that was the pivotal play in the drive for the winning field goal at Pittsburgh. His biggest game of the regular-season was a 49-yard effort vs. Temple, a contest in which he also had his longest career run (34 yards). His season-high for attempts was nine (for 25 yards) vs. Boston College. 1988—The No. 2 rusher with 401 yards on 108 carries, Thompson started two games at tailback (Rutgers, Alabama), appeared in all 11 outings and ranked behind only John Greene and Gary Brown in total offensive plays for a running back (304). In addition to his rushing yards, Thompson also chipped in 65 yards receiving and 264 more on 14 kickoff returns, ranking him No. 2 in all-purpose yardage with 730 yards, an average of more than 60 per game. Thompson had his most active day at West Virginia, carrying the ball a career-high 15 times for 74 yards. He had 56 yards against Boston College and topped the 40-yard mark against Maryland (40) and Notre Dame (47). His long kickoff return was 29 yards. 1987—The coveted tailback bolted to the forefront in the Citrus Bowl, winning a media vote as the Lions' offensive Most Valuable Player. Sharing tailback duties with Gary Brown in place of the injured Blair Thomas, Thompson accumulated 201 all-purpose yards, including Citrus and Penn State bowl records for kickoff returns (6) and a then Lion mark for kickoff return yardage (127). He was Penn State's top rusher with 55 yards on six tries and had the team's longest run (24 yards). He also caught three passes. In nine regular-season games, Thompson rushed 20 times for 57 yards. He led in kickoff returns with 10 for 245 yards (24.5 average). Against West Virginia, Thompson's returns were pivotal in the comeback victory. He had consecutive kickoff returns of 28 and 35 yards, the latter leading to a Thomas touchdown that pulled the Lions back into the game. In all, Thompson had four returns for 99 yards against the Mountaineers. His best game of the regular-season was his first — Bowling Green — when he carried 10 times for 36 yards.

HIGH SCHOOL: Thompson's credentials quickened the pulses of college recruiters from coast to coast. In a storybook career at Austin-East HS, Thompson piled up 5,682 rushing yards, added 1,531 yards on pass receptions, scored 95 touchdowns and made 41 pass interceptions. He won election to All-America teams selected by USA Today, Parade Magazine, Coach and Athlete, and Scholastic Coach. He was twice an All-Tennessee choice and was the state's Player-of-the-Year. His team was 50-5 during Thompson's career. A guard in basketball, Thompson was an all-state pick and most valuable player in the 1985 Tennessee state tournament. He also was an all-state sprinter in track.

PERSONAL: Full name is Ulys Leroy Thompson. He has two older brothers and a younger sister. Thompson is a communications major who has ambitions for a career as a sportscaster.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Leroy has an attitude a lot like Blair's [Thomas]. He is a great person on the field and in the locker room. He has outstanding work habits. Leroy is probably more of a leader than Blair in the sense he tries to get people to work a little harder and is around organizing workouts and the like. Leroy needs to stay healthy and play a couple of games where he gets comfortable with 18 to 20 carries. He really hasn't had that kind of experience." — Joe Paterno.

"Anybody who plays the tailback position at Penn State is going to feel the pressure. Blair [Thomas] was an exceptional athlete and an exceptional person and we're going to miss him. What I have to concentrate on is not worrying about Blair and D.J. Dozier and those type of guys. I have to just concentrate and try to improve." — Leroy Thompson.

"Even though during my time here people said I haven't fulfilled expectations, I never paid attention to that. I know this is college and it's going to be more challenging than playing in high school. Definitely I'm a better back than I was two years ago as a sophomore. When I was a sophomore, all I wanted to do was get the ball and use my speed to get to the outside and outrun everybody." — Leroy Thompson.

JOHN VAN ALLEN
McCandless, Pa.

When the subject of a successor to Ray Tarasi comes up, it's impossible to overlook John Van Allen, who made a surprise leap from the foreign team to kickoff responsibilities in several outings last fall. Van Allen has a powerful leg that enables him to drive the ball deep on kickoffs. Henry Adkins and V.J. Muscillo are the early favorites for the placement job, but Van Allen could change all of that with an impressive preseason.

LION CAREER: 1989-Van Allen's long kickoffs caught the attention of the coaching staff and the walk-on kicker got the opportunity to showcase his strong leg in games with Temple, Boston College and Texas.

HIGH SCHOOL: A standout kicker at North Allegheny HS near Pittsburgh, Van Allen won attention for his field goal and placement work.

PERSONAL: Full name is John Edward Van Allen. He is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

No. 62

JERROD VANCE

Senior Guard

Massillon, Ohio

Staying out of the training room was the primary spring goal for Jerrod Vance, who missed 10 games last fall with a broken arm. Vance was able to get in a full spring and finished sharing backup billing [with Sean Love] behind Dave Brzenchek at the short guard spot. Vance is one of those players who has encountered some type of misfortune every time he appears ready for bigger things. His build and temperament are ideally suited to the guard position.

LION CAREER: 1989-Vance's season ended after just nine plays in the opener with Virginia. He suffered another break in the arm originally broken in the 1989 Blue-White game. 1988-Vance logged 31 plays in six games as a reserve at short guard. He saw service against Virginia, Boston College, Rutgers, Temple, Cincinnati and Syracuse with his most significant stint at Temple. A converted linebacker, Vance was bracketed behind Bob Vernaglia and Ed Monaghan on the depth chart. 1987-Vance toiled with the foreign team and maintained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: At Washington HS, Vance was the leading tackler as a linebacker in his junior and senior seasons. Washington was 25-8 in his three letter-winning seasons. He captained the team in his senior year and was a member of the victorious North team in the Ohio all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Jerrod Allen Vance. He has an older sister and a younger brother. Vance is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

No. 93

TOM WADE

Sophomore

Albuquerque, N.M.

Tom Wade looked to recapture the promise that excited the coaching staff a year ago before the New Mexico sophomore suffered a torn anterior cruciate ligament that sidelined him for all of last season. While his rehabilitation continues, Wade was able to participate in spring ball and worked his way up to No. 3 on the depth chart behind Richard McKenzie and Eric Ravotti at the "willie" outside linebacker spot. If he comes back completely healthy this fall, Wade's size, mobility and aggressive approach will make for an interesting scramble for regular and reserve roles. Wade split time with both teams in the Blue-White game and registered one unassisted tackle.

LION CAREER: 1989-Wade tore his anterior cruciate ligament in spring practice and missed the entire fall while undergoing treatment. 1988-In his first exposure to the program, Wade demonstrated opposing defenses as a member of the foreign team, keeping his freshman eligibility intact for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: Coach David Williams made Wade the centerpiece of his defense at Del Norte HS. He was the New Mexico Player-of-the-Year as a senior, when he also made all-state, all-district and all-city teams as a linebacker. Wade was selected to play in New Mexico's state all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Thomas J. Wade. He is an agriculture business major in the College of Agriculture.

 6-0 223 2-2-70
 Junior
 Inside Linebacker
 Pomfret, Md.

With the graduation of Andre Collins and Brian Chizmar, Brett Wright is one of the inside linebackers expected to win an enlarged role in the defensive plan this fall. Wright played behind Keith Goganious in the spring and hopes to push Goganious for the regular job come fall. Not a big man at 223 pounds, Wright more than holds his own against larger opponents. He checked in with three solo tackles in the Blue-White game, operating as a defensive reserve for the White team.

LION CAREER: 1989—With All-America Andre Collins and Ivory Gethers ahead of him at inside linebacker, there weren't a lot of opportunities for Wright. He did see service in the Virginia, Temple, Boston College and Texas games, finishing with slightly more than 12 total downs. 1988—Wright spent his first season on the foreign team. He did not see game action and retained freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: Wright was the defensive Player-of-the-Year on the Baltimore Sun all-area squad following his senior year at Pomfret HS in McDonough, Md. He was instrumental in Pomfret finishing 10-2 in 1986 and winning the state championship. Wright played in the Big 33 game against Pennsylvania and led the Maryland stars in tackles.

PERSONAL: Full name is Brett David Wright. He is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

No. 15
FRANK YEBOAH-KODIE
 5-11 180 9-6-68
 Sophomore
 Cornerback
 Montreal, Quebec

A native of Canada, Frank Yeboah-Kodie hopes his Penn State career parallels that of the last Lion from north of the border — linebacker Pete Giftopoulos, whose interception sealed the National Championship victory over Miami (Fla.) in the 1987 Fiesta Bowl. This spring, Yeboah-Kodie appeared to be over the shoulder woes that limited him last fall. No. 3 at the right corner spot on the concluding spring depth chart, Yeboah-Kodie still is learning, but is blessed with the necessary natural instincts and has exceptional speed, an ingredient the position demands that can't be coached.

LION CAREER: 1989—Yeboah-Kodie enrolled in school in the spring semester and participated in spring practice. A shoulder injury in the fall preseason derailed any plans the coaching staff had for him as a defensive reserve.

HIGH SCHOOL: Yeboah-Kodie spent a year at Vanier College, a collegiate prep school in Montreal, before enrolling at Penn State. An intimidating defender and elusive return specialist, Yeboah-Kodie had more than 200 career tackles and 12 touchdowns on punt and kickoff returns at Rosemount HS in Montreal. He was the city's Player-of-the-Year in 1986, when he earned all-city laurels in football, basketball and baseball. Yeboah-Kodie had scholastic averages of more than 35 yards per kickoff return and 17 yards per punt return.

PERSONAL: Full name is Frank Yeboah-Kodie. His brother, Phil, entered Penn State last spring semester and is a line-backing candidate. Yeboah-Kodie is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

Coaches

Joe Paterno Head Coach

Winningest Active Coach

Silver Season for Lions' Leader

"Joe Paterno mass produces men."

That was the expression former All-American linebacker Dave Robinson used to introduce Penn State's legendary football coach at a sports luncheon in Canton, Ohio, this past spring.

Robinson's phraseology was especially appropriate because it did not limit Paterno's influence to development of the physical and cerebral aspects of intercollegiate athletics and football in particular. It measured Paterno by the yardstick he himself prefers — the number of his pupils who have become contributing and productive members of society.

"...he's never forgotten," ex-President Ronald Reagan said of Paterno at a White House ceremony honoring the 1986 National Championship team, "he's a teacher who's preparing his students not just for the season, but for life."

But, no matter the measure — be it as a coach, a teacher or a leader — the dimensions of the Brooklyn-born Paterno, who followed his college coach, Rip Engle, from Brown to Penn State in 1950, are extraordinary, even historic.

This fall, Paterno celebrates his Silver Anniversary as head coach of the Nittany Lions and sails into his fifth decade as a member of the Penn State athletic staff. Under Paterno's direction, Penn State has become a flagship of the college football fleet.

"When I came here," he said in his recently-published autobiography (Paterno: By the Book, Random House, 1989), "I was determined we were going to have good football teams with people who belonged in college. People who could go out on a football field, knock somebody on their rear end, pick them up, not taunt them, and when they walked off that field, people who would be gentlemen, in some cases scholars, and be the kind of people everyone looked up to."

The fulfillment of the football side of Paterno's ambitious aim is a won-lost record unequalled by any current Division 1-A coach and topped by only five major college mentors in the 121 years that have passed since Rutgers and Princeton started it all in a New Jersey pasture.

"...calling Joseph Vincent Paterno just a football coach is like saying Leonardo daVinci was just a painter or Winston Churchill was just another politician," a Los Angeles Times reporter wrote prior to the 1989 Sea World Holiday Bowl.

In his 24 seasons at the base of Mount Nittany, Paterno has recorded 220 victories, taken his teams to 20 bowl games, captured two National Championships and helped achieve a level of popularity that has produced 71 consecutive sellouts of Beaver Stadium along with nearly 100 appearances on national television.

His 220 triumphs (vs. 57 losses and three ties) is No. 1 among active coaches and No. 6 on the lifetime list. With a winning percentage of 79.1, he is No. 2 to Tom Osborne of Nebraska (81.3) among present contemporaries and No. 13 in the NCAA compilation of the leading percentage winners in college football history.

Paterno's teams have registered six undefeated regular-seasons and two have been voted No. 1 in the final wire service polls (1982, 1986).

Paterno also has few peers when it comes to postseason play. The legendary Bear Bryant is the lone coach to appear in more bowl games (29 for Bryant, 20 for Paterno) and record more bowl victories (15 for Bryant, 13 for Paterno).

The membership of the American Football Coaches Association has elected Paterno national "Coach-of-the-Year" an unprecedented four times (passing three-time recipients Bryant and Darrell Royal of Texas). In 1986, Sports Illustrated tagged him as its "Sportsman-of-the-Year," a distinction never accorded a football coach before or since. UCLA basketball mentor John Wooden is the only other coach similarly honored.

Paterno has had a hand in developing more than 50 first-team All-Americans and sent over 100 players to the National Football League. Two of his products — linebacker Jack Ham and fullback Franco Harris — have been elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Ham, defensive tackle Mike Reid and tight end Ted Kwalick are Paterno pupils in the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame.

And, as his athletes attest, he has left another important imprint.

"His philosophy was that college was getting an education first, playing football and having a good time," recalled All-American linebacker John Skorupan, who later played in the NFL with Buffalo and the New York Giants.

"I think we always felt we had someone special up there. I was part of the 'Grand Experiment,' that football players can get an education and can talk, that they're not dumb jocks...."

Tailback Blair Thomas, drafted No. 2 overall by the New York Jets in the NFL selection meeting last April, sings a similar refrain.

"Joe had a strong impact on me," Thomas said. "Guys wonder why he does what he does, and the answer is that he does things to help you as a person in life...."

Quotebook

Athletic reform: "The Presidents came in with some ideas they felt were important. They got involved and that's a good sign. It's their job to set the standards, to set the tone for intercollegiate athletics. It's the job of the athletic directors and coaches to implement those things, to give the presidents what they want. They said they wanted more time for the athletes, that they wanted to cut the excessive scheduling so the athletes wouldn't miss so much class time. They made it clear they want that to happen." — Centre Daily Times (State College, Pa.) interview, Jan. 20, 1990.

Big 10 membership: "This is indeed an historic moment for Penn State and Penn State athletics. Being a member of the Big Ten will present a great challenge for our program. We will do everything possible to be a worthy member of the conference and, hopefully, be ready to compete for the conference championship in 1995. I can't think of anything more exciting as I begin my fourth decade as Penn State head football coach." — Penn State press release, June 4, 1990.

Collegians opting early for pro draft:

"If a kid feels it is in his best interest to go, he should be permitted to go without anybody bemoaning the fact he has an obligation to the university or anything like that. I think we have a duty to see the kids in our program do the best they can with their lives. Having said that, I'm concerned there will be a lot of kids being led to believe they are good enough to come out early when they really aren't. Some people are going to suffer. I suppose that usually happens when things change. When the hardship rule was introduced in basketball, a lot of kids came out that weren't good enough and they sacrificed their educations. As people started to understand what it would take to come out early and be successful, fewer and fewer kids did it. I think that's what will happen in football." — Press conference, April 5, 1990.

Winning: "Winning is a matter of knowing how to win. . . . Part of being a Penn State player is knowing how to win. I'm not just talking football. Anything. If this is what I want to do, I can and I will." — Paterno: By the Book, Random House, 1989.

"His primary interest in his football players is as members of society," Dr. Dave Joyner, now an orthopedic surgeon, offers in retrospect. "He wanted you to be outstanding individuals in everything you did. Not just as football players."

The payoff to Paterno's emphasis on education is best illustrated by the 19 first-team Academic All-Americans, ten Hall of Fame Scholar-Athletes and 14 NCAA postgraduate scholarship winners who have graced his coaching tenure.

"The players who have been most important to the success of Penn State teams," Paterno has said, "have just naturally kept their priorities straight: football a high second, but academics an undisputed first."

Penn State president Bryce Jordan thinks the public overview of Paterno, the sports celebrity, is flawed.

"He is less known for the dedication and commitment he has demonstrated to this University and, more broadly, to higher education in general," Dr. Jordan said.

An example of Paterno's zeal for Penn State was his participation as a co-chairman of The Campaign for Penn State, a major fund-raising effort that collected more than $350 million to enhance the University's academic programs.

He made a personal pledge of $150,000 to the library and minority student scholarships. The Paterno Libraries Endowment funds the purchase of books and materials to support a wide variety of disciplines at the University.

Unparalleled success hasn't blurred Paterno's vision of what's right about college athletics.

"Just winning is a silly reason to be serious about a game," he said in his autobiography. "For a kid still in school, devotion to winning football games at nearly any cost may cripple his mind for life. Institutions of higher learning don't have the moral right to exploit and mislead inexperienced kids that way."

"The purpose of college football is to serve education," Paterno said, "not the other way around. I found my players to get involved. Ten years from now I want them to look back on college as a wonderful time of expanding themselves — not just four years of playing football."

Paterno's support of scholarship and his creative and compelling views on sports and education have been widely recognized. He has been a frequent witness at Congressional hearings and appeared this past summer before the Knight Commission on the Reform of College Athletics. He delivered the Penn State spring commencement address in 1973 and is the recipient of three honorary degrees — a Doctor of Laws from Brown, a Doctor of Humane Letters from Gettysburg College and a Doctor of Laws from Allegheny College.

With his success has come a certain celebrity, which Paterno tolerates although he often finds it disruptive to his coaching persona.

"I've worked hard to get control of my schedule so I can be around more to be here when there are problems and to spend more time getting to know the squad," Paterno said.

He remains, however, one of the few — perhaps the only — football coach to second the nomination of the President of the United States [at the New Orleans Republican National Convention in August of 1988]. He is widely sought as a speaker for clinics and banquets and has appeared in magazine, newspaper and radio/television advertisements for companies like Bell of Pennsylvania and American Express.

His "folk hero" reputation in Central Pennsylvania has spawned an entire line of Paterno products, including coffee mugs ["Cup of Joe"], lifesize cardboard cutouts ["Standup Joe"] and golf balls with his familiar face ["three out of four guaranteed to go up the middle"].

You can drink Joe Paterno-endorsed spring water and order a "Peachy Paterno" ice cream cone at the University Creamery. The undergraduate student government even has sponsored a Joe Paterno look-alike contest ("I don't know why anyone would want to win it," the coach said).

The lifesize Paterno cutout shows up at wedding receptions, birthday and anniversary parties and nearly was in a police lineup earlier this year. Startled by a silhouette in the house of some vacationing neighbors, a Clinton, Pa., high school student summoned police, who surrounded the house, only, upon entering, to find the "prowler" was a "cardboard Joe."

Paterno's thick glasses, rolled-up pants legs and white athletic socks have become signatures every bit as familiar to Penn State faithful as the MGM lion or the Izod alligator. So, too, are the Nittany Lions' conservative uniforms, with the high-top black shoes, white helmets bereft of logos and plain jerseys without the players' names on the back.

"I don't think our uniforms look that bad," Paterno says. "I think they say something to kids about team-oriented play and an austere approach to life."

Born on Eighteenth Street in Brooklyn, on December 21, 1926, Paterno remembers his old neighborhood as a place where "playing daily at sports was our work: not only touch football but also punchball and stickball..."

Paterno went to St. Edmond's grammar school and Brooklyn Prep high school where he played on the best Catholic-school team in the city as a senior. Brooklyn Prep's only loss was to St. Cecilia of Englewood, N.J., coached by a young Vince Lombardi.

From Brooklyn Prep, Paterno, after serving the final year of World War II in the U.S. Army, accepted an athletic scholarship at Brown University.

"...probably because of my unimpressive height and weight, the Paterno doorstep wasn't overrun with college scouts," he said.

But, under the fatherly Rip Engle at Brown, Paterno blossomed into the heady quarterback of the Bears' football team

Congress regulating college sports:

"Give us a chance to work toward institutional control, then if it doesn't work, let Congress get involved. Right now, I'm reluctant to take that stand. The next two years are crucial. If we can't get it done in the next two years... it's down to the nitty-gritty."
— National Press Club Forum, May 7, 1990.

Losing: I just hate to lose. I know I preach a lot about being willing to lose, that there can be valor in losing to a better opponent, but I have never learned how not to hate losing." — Los Angeles Times, December 28, 1989.

Penn State offense: "We have to have balance. We have to have a passing game. We look for what we always have found with our good football teams — being good enough and strong enough that we can start with the idea we are going to run and then balance it with a solid, precise passing game. Penn State, remember, was the first team ever to win a national championship [in 1992] with more yards passing than rushing." — Press conference, September 5, 1989.

Teaching responsibilities of coaches:

"A coach, above all other duties, is a teacher. Coaches have the same obligation as all teachers, except that we may have more moral and life-shaping influence over our players than anyone else outside of their families... The job of a teacher of academic subjects is to implant facts, ideas, and ways of thinking, and so expand kids' minds.

Sports Illustrated December, 1986

In teaching excellence in football, we have to reach the soul of a player. Football is played, above all, with the heart and mind. It's played with the body only secondarily. A coach's first duty is to coach minds. If he doesn't succeed at that, his team will not reach its potential." — Paterno: By the Book, Random House, 1989.

Football rating polls: "I don't think polls do anything for anybody playing college football. I think they may do something for the fans but not the players or coaches. Some people may like to see themselves rated but that has never been my cup of tea." — Press conference, October 17, 1989.

Instant replay: "I am not a replay guy. I have tried to live with what happens on the field. I understand there are games won and lost because an official makes or doesn't make a call. We won some and we lost some. I think those things even up and I don't have any problems with that." — Press conference, November 14, 1989.

that went 8-1 and was one of the Eastern powerhouses in 1949.

Legendary sports writer Stanley Woodward once described Paterno, who still holds a Brown record with 14 career pass interceptions, as a quarterback "who can't run, can't pass — just thinks and wins."

In addition to his role in the Bears' rushing and passing offenses, Paterno also returned punts and kickoffs, posting career averages of 8.8 and 20.1 yards, respectively. He had a 69-yard punt return for a touchdown to beat Holy Cross in 1949.

Paterno also played two seasons of basketball at Brown [his freshman coach was Pro Football Hall of Fame legend Weeb Ewbank].

After his senior football season, Paterno took an Engle offer to work on a part-time basis with the Brown quarterbacks while awaiting graduation. He had been accepted into his alma mater's law school where he intended to follow the career path of his father, who went to night school to earn his law degree, passing the bar exam at age 44.

"Everything was set," Paterno said, "until I got a surprising phone call from Rip Engle in Pennsylvania. He told me that his contract [to be the new head coach at Penn State] allowed him to bring one assistant coach. Rip astonished me by asking me to take the job."

After 16 years as an Engle assistant, Paterno was appointed head coach of the Nittany Lions on February 19, 1966, a day after his friend and benefactor announced his retirement.

In the 41 years since he arrived in Happy Valley, Paterno has turned aside many opportunities to leave, the most-publicized a famous courtship by the Boston Patriots in the early 1970's.

Explaining his decision to spurn the pros, Paterno told Penn State graduates in his 1973 commencement address: "Money alone will not make you happy. Success without honor is an unseasoned dish. It will satisfy your hunger, but it won't taste good."

Paterno married the former Suzanne Pohland of Latrobe, Pa., in 1962. She's a Penn State graduate, Class of 1962. They have four children who are Penn State graduates — daughters, Diana Lynne and Mary Kathryn, and sons, David and Jay (Joseph, Jr.). The youngest of the Paterno children, George Scott, is a high school student.

In recent interviews, Paterno has indicated retirement is not high on his agenda.

"I sat down with Sue, and I think I'll coach until I'm 70. There are a lot of reasons. I get sick and tired of saying four more years; that's one of the reasons. But as long as I'm healthy and still enthusiastic about coaching, I'll stay until I'm 70."

"Legends have a confounding habit of showing up in strange shapes," Rick Reilly said in the Sports Illustrated article that announced Paterno's selection as "Sportsman-of-the-Year."

"Two-hundred-eighty pound linemen, college presidents, NCAA honchos, network biggies and even your basic U.S. vice-presidents cross-body-block one another to get near him. Good thing, too, because Joe Paterno, the football coach at Penn State University, can teach you some of the damndest things."

Cutting spring practice: "I like spring practice. I think it is very beneficial. I think 15 days may be enough but I wish they had said 15 practices in 22 days [instead of 21]. That would have given you another Saturday when you don't have classes. With the class situation here, and players coming and going to attend late classes or take night exams, Saturday and Sunday are the only time we can teach everybody together." — Press conference, April 5, 1990.

Release of institutional graduation rates: "I think the intent is good. For years the College Football Association has asked its members to respond to a survey and we have done so every year. . . . I think graduation rates ought to be a part of an institution's program. . . . You have to be careful, though. Graduation rates are the 'in' thing but are not necessarily the answer to our problems. There is no sense giving a kid a diploma saying he graduated when he doesn't have a quality education. The diploma itself is not going to make him competitive or give him a better life." — Press conference, September 19, 1989.

Excellence: "Sloppiness is a disease. Nobody ever built a great organization just worrying about the big things. It's the little things that give you the edge. If the equipment man in the locker room doesn't check his equipment properly, the player senses it and the sloppiness gets into his bloodstream and the disease spreads. And the most difficult thing is to find people on every level who understand that and who are completely committed to detail and to standards of excellence." — Paterno: By the Book, Random House, 1989.

Self image: "I don't want to be a phony. One thing in life I don't want to be is a hypocrite. I've never had any delusions about myself, the good part and the bad part. I'm not as good as people paint me out to be, but I'm not as bad as some people think I am. I've got the appearance that I'm a nice old guy, which I'm not. I can be a mean son-of-a-gun." — USA Today, September 8, 1989.

National championship playoff: "Play-offs will come. The more that televised bowl games succeed in making football fans out of more Americans, the more these fans will demand a clear and rational system for choosing a real champion. The present system of bowl games should — and surely will — be a solid part, a foundation of play-offs. The bowls don't have anything to be afraid of. ... I don't want somebody deciding how good we are. If your team beats us, you're better than we are. But don't tell me — or have the President or anybody else — tell me you're better than we are and then not want to play us to prove it." — Paterno: By the Book, Random House, 1989.

Paying a stipend to college athletes: "I've had kids who didn't have a nickel in their pockets. I can't say 'here is $100 until you get straightened out.' I'm not for buying kids, but we ought to give them a decent scholarship. A lot of us are naive. There are academic scholarships available at Penn State and at most of the colleges in this country. Colleges will compete for a top-notch math or science student and give he or she room, board, books and tuition as well as clothing money, transportation money, what have you. That's not considered buying a student. If we give a football player a scholarship, it should be a decent one that enables him to buy an occasional pizza or go to a movie." — Football News interview, September 12, 1989.

The head coach at Rutgers the past six seasons, Dick Anderson is no stranger to the Penn State sidelines. Before leaving to accept the Rutgers appointment in 1984, Anderson spent 11 years as a member of Joe Paterno's staff.

A two-way player for Rip Engle during the 1961-63 seasons, Anderson works with the Nittany Lions' offensive line.

Anderson's six-year record at Rutgers was 27-34-4. One of his more memorable victories was a 21-16 win over Penn State at Beaver Stadium on September 24, 1988 — Rutgers' first success in the series since 1918. Anderson's squads also scored major victories over Michigan State, Syracuse, West Virginia, Duke and Boston College during his tenure. His best season was in 1984 when the Scarlet Knights finished 7-3.

A native of Queens, N.Y., Anderson was a member of Penn State teams that won 24 of 32 games over three seasons and twice earned invitations to the Gator Bowl. An honor student who also lettered as a baseball outfielder, Anderson earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in health and physical education in 1963 and 1965, respectively.

Drafted by the Cleveland Browns, Anderson passed on the National Football League opportunity to pursue a graduate degree while playing weekends for the semi-pro Newark (N.J.) Bears.

His first coaching job was as an assistant to ex-Penn Stater Ken Bunn at Lafayette in 1965. He later worked at Lafayette for Harry Gamble, currently general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, following Gamble to Pennsylvania in 1971. Anderson left Pennsylvania in 1973 to accept Joe Paterno's invitation to join his staff.

In 11 seasons (1973-83), Anderson established himself as one of college football's top offensive line coaches. Five of his players won first-team All-America honors — John Nessel (1974), Tom Rafferty (1975), Keith Dorney (1977-78), Bill Dugan (1980) and Sean Farrell (1980-81). Rafferty and Farrell still are playing in the NFL, with Dallas and New England, respectively.

Anderson also coached Mike Munchak, the Houston Oilers' Pro Bowl lineman, and Ron Heller, a standout with the Philadelphia Eagles.

At Rutgers, Anderson's pupils included 11 players who earned some form of All-America recognition during Anderson's tenure.

Penn State roots run deep in the Anderson family. Anderson's wife, Kathy, is a Penn State graduate as is son, Ken. Another Anderson sibling, Jeff, is a member of the current football squad. A third son, Rick, graduated from the Naval Academy and is a Marine Corps officer. Daughter Lynn is a high school student.

TOM BRADLEY

Responsibility:

Outside Linebackers

Alma mater:

Penn State, 1979

Year at Penn State:

11th year

Collegiate experience:

11 years — all at Penn State

Bowl games as a player:

4 — 1975, 1979 Sugar; 1976 Gator;
1977 Fiesta

Bowl games as a coach:

9 — 1979 Liberty; 1980, 1981, 1987 Fiesta; 1983 Sugar;
1983 Aloha; 1986 Orange; 1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

Tom Bradley brings to coaching the same attributes — enthusiasm, tenacity and a knack for wise decisions — that he displayed as a defensive back and member of the Penn State special teams in 1977 and 1978.

Bradley, in his 11th season on the staff, became a full-time assistant coach in 1980 after a year as a graduate assistant. Nicknamed "Scrap," a moniker he earned for his toughness on special teams, the two-time letterman is in charge of the outside linebackers and continues his special teams association by working with the return teams and the defensive units for field goals and punts.

In 1986, two of Bradley's proteges — first-team All-America Shane Conlan and East-West selection Don Graham — gave the Nittany Lions as strong a group of linebackers as ever assembled at Penn State. Conlan was named the National Football League's 1987 Defensive Rookie-of-the-Year.

Two of Bradley's specialists — Andre Collins and O.J. McDuffie — performed with unusual distinction in 1989. Collins blocked three punts to tie the season record established by Jack Ham in 1968. He also matched Ham's career mark of four punt blocks. McDuffie ranked No. 7 among national leaders in punt returns with an average of 14.6 yards on 19 opportunities.

Bradley also has served as recruiting coordinator and in other coaching positions, including wide receivers coach in 1987 when two of his players — Michael Alexander and Ray Roundtree — were NFL draft picks.

A bachelor, Bradley is a 1979 Penn State graduate with a degree in business. He also holds a master's degree in sports administration from his alma mater.

His athletic background includes competition in track and serving as captain of the football and basketball teams at Bishop McCort High School in Johnstown, Pa. His family is filled with accomplished athletes, including his father, Sam, who played basketball at Pittsburgh; brothers Matt and Jim (now an orthopedic surgeon), who played football at Penn State; and sisters, Patty and Cassy, who were outstanding track and field performers at Villanova.

Year at Penn State:

Bowl games as a coach:

3 — 1987 Fiesta; 1988 Citrus;
1989 Holiday

Penn State's recently-announced affiliation with the Big Ten Conference is a Homecoming of sorts for assistant coach Jim Caldwell, who knows his way around that part of the world. Caldwell was a player and assistant coach at Iowa and spent one season on the Northwestern coaching staff.

A 1977 Iowa graduate with a degree in English, Caldwell was a four-year starter in the secondary for the Hawkeyes. He joined the starting lineup as a freshman in 1973, a season in which he blocked a school-record five kicks. As a senior co-captain in 1976, he won honorable-mention All-Big Ten honors.

In his fifth season with the Nittany Lions, Caldwell has responsibility for the passing game and the quarterbacks. This is his fourth campaign as quarterbacks coach and the third in which he's had overall charge of the air game. He joined the staff just prior to the start of spring practice in 1986 as wide receivers coach.

Caldwell started his coaching career as a graduate assistant with Iowa in 1977. He was an assistant coach at Southern Illinois from 1978-80, serving as defensive coordinator in 1980. He was an assistant coach at Northwestern in 1981, Colorado in 1982-84 and Louisville in 1985. At Colorado, he spent three years on the Buffs' staff with Ron Dickerson, Penn State's secondary coach.

A native of Beloit, Wis., Caldwell is married to the former Cheryl Johnson. They have three sons — Jimmy [11], Jermaine [9] and Jared [6], and a daughter, Natalie [4].

RON DICKERSON

Kansas State, 1971

Year at Penn State:

6th year

Collegiate experience:

17 years — 6 at Penn State; 3 at Colorado; 4 at Pittsburgh; 2 at Louisville; 2 at Kansas State

Bowl games as a coach:

8 — 1977, 1980 Gator; 1978 Tangerine; 1979, 1987 Fiesta; 1986 Orange; 1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

With the evolution of the passing game in college football, perhaps no aspect of coaching has become more important than teaching defensive secondary play. Ron Dickerson, who handles that assignment for the Nittany Lions, is thoroughly familiar with the position from his days as a defensive back at Kansas State and with the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League.

In his sixth season at Penn State, Dickerson joined the Lions in February of 1985 and has accompanied them to four bowl games, two of them National Championship clashes.

Dickerson served on the Colorado staff for three years as assistant head coach and secondary coach before coming to Penn State.

A native of Coraopolis, Pa., Dickerson was an excellent defensive back for the Wildcats, lettering three years and setting the school interception return yardage record. He played in the East-West Shrine game, the American Bowl and the College All-Star game and was a defensive back for Miami in 1971.

Dickerson began his coaching career at his alma mater as the secondary coach from 1972-75. He served at Louisville [1975-77] and Pittsburgh [1977-80] before joining the South Carolina staff in 1981 as assistant athletic director for non-revenue sports. Dickerson accepted the position at Colorado in 1982.

Strong safety Michael Zordich, a 1986 ninth-round NFL draft selection by San Diego, earned All-America honors as a member of Dickerson's 1985 secondary.

Under Dickerson's tutelage, free safety Sherrod Ränge had a splendid senior season in 1989, winning All-East honors and earning an invitation to the Senior Bowl. Ränge, who signed as an NFL free agent with the Kansas City Chiefs, set a Holiday Bowl record with two pass interceptions of heralded Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer.

Dickerson is married to the former Jeannie Morgan and they have two children — Ron, Jr. [19], a promising sophomore tailback at Arkansas, and Rashawn [15], a State College Area High School student.

FRAN GANTER

Penn State, 1971

Year at Penn State:

20 years — all at Penn State

Bowl games as a player:

3 — 1967 Gator; 1969, 1970 Orange

Bowl games as a coach:

17 — 1972, 1975 Cotton; 1972, 1975, 1979, 1983 Sugar;

1979 Liberty; 1983 Aloha; 1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

When the New York Jets made Penn State's Blair Thomas the second overall pick in the 1989 National Football League draft, it focused some well-deserved attention on Nittany Lion assistant Fran Ganter, Thomas' position coach for five seasons. No Penn State player has ever been chosen higher since the NFL began conducting the annual college draft 54 years ago.

Ganter's offensive design capitalized on Thomas' multiple skills, enabling the senior All-American to finish No. 2 in career rushing and all-purpose yards. The Lions' career leader in both departments — Curt Warner — is another Ganter pupil.

In addition to handling running backs, Ganter serves as Penn State's offensive coordinator, a position he's held for seven seasons. He also works with the place kickers. This fall, Ganter caps his second decade in collegiate coaching, marking his 20th year as a member of Joe Paterno's braintrust. Including four seasons as a player, Ganter has been associated with the Penn State program for 24 years.

When it comes to turning out exceptional running backs, Ganter has an impressive track record. Thomas was the fourth of his charges to be selected in the first-round of the NFL draft. Others include Warner (Seattle), D.J. Dozier (Minnesota) and Booker Moore (Buffalo). A number of other gifted NFL backs also have come under Ganter's influence —

Matt Suhey (Chicago), who retired after the 1989 season, Tim Manoa (Cleveland) and Steve Smith (Los Angeles Raiders). Ganter also coached top pro kickers Chris and Matt Bahr.

Ganter's coaching experience began with four years as head freshman coach. He also served as head junior varsity coach for one season, before taking over as running backs coach. He held a dual role as coach and recruiting coordinator for two years prior to being assigned to the offensive staff.

Ganter, a native of Bethel Park, Pa., was a high school standout in three sports (football, basketball, and baseball), serving as captain in football and basketball.

A three-year letterman at Penn State [1968-70], he played fullback on three squads which posted a record of 29-3. Ganter played on two undefeated Orange Bowl championship teams and was the 1970 recipient of the Red Worrell Award for exemplary conduct, loyalty and attitude during spring practice.

Ganter is from a Penn State family. He followed three sisters to Penn State, graduating in 1971. He completed his master's degree in 1972, while serving as a graduate assistant coach.

He is married to the former Karen Bruno of Tullahoma, Tenn. She also is a Penn State graduate. They have their own backfield at home in four sons — Jonathan [10], Christopher [7], Jason [5], and Ben [3].

BILL KENNEY

Responsibility:

Assistant Offensive Line

Alma mater:

Norwich, 1982

Year at Penn State:

3rd year

Collegiate experience:

3 years — 1 at Penn State; 2 at Nebraska

Bowl games as a coach:

1 — 1989 Holiday

A year ago, his first as a full-time member of the Penn State coaching staff, Bill Kenney and Craig Cirbus shared responsibility for the Nittany Lions' offensive line. Three members of their 1989 starting unit will be in National Football League camps this summer — center Roger Duffy with the New York Jets, guard Dave Szott with Kansas City and tackle Tim Freeman with Indianapolis.

A graduate assistant in 1988, the native of Randolph, Mass., was promoted to fill a full-time vacancy on June 2, 1989.

A 1982 graduate of Norwich University in Northfield, Vt., Kenney served as a graduate assistant at Nebraska in 1986-87. While completing his master's degree in athletic administration, he assisted with the Cornhuskers' quarterbacks, running backs and outside line-backers.

Three years a football starter at Norwich, Kenney was a tight end his first two seasons before moving to fullback as a senior, when he was elected co-captain and most valuable player. After earning a bachelor of arts degree in political science, he stayed on as offensive back-field coach for one season.

Kenney coached football and track for two years at Dennis-Yarmouth High School in South Yarmouth, Mass.

He moved to Lincoln, Neb., in 1985 to work on his master's degree and serve as an assistant coach that year at Lincoln High School before landing a graduate assistantship at Nebraska in 1986.

He and his wife, Kathryn, have two sons, Joseph [3] and Matthew [a newborn].

JERRY SANDUSKY

Responsibility:

Defensive Coordinator

Alma mater:

Penn State, 1966

Year at Penn State:

22nd year

Collegiate experience:

24 years — 22 at Penn State;
1 at Juniata; 1 at Boston University

Bowl games as a player:

1 — 1962 Gator

Bowl games as a coach:

19 — 1969, 1970, 1974, 1986 Orange; 1972, 1975 Cotton;
1972, 1977, 1979, 1983 Sugar; 1976 Gator; 1977, 1980, 1982,
1987 Fiesta; 1979 Liberty; 1983 Aloha; 1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

As a defensive tactician, Jerry Sandusky has had to devise ways to disrupt such offensive powerhouses as Tony Dorsett, Marcus Allen, Herschel Walker, Doug Flutie and Vinny Testaverde.

Penn State's 19 post-season trips and winning percentage of 79.4 in his 22 seasons as a member of the coaching staff says something eloquent about Sandusky's capacity for designing defenses, teaching strategy and making game adjustments.

A 1966 Penn State graduate, Sandusky, who joined the coaching staff in 1969, previously coached the linebackers and now serves as the defensive coordinator.

The 1989 Nittany Lions were No. 4 in the nation in scoring defense, surrendering an average of 11.82 points per game. Miami (Fla.) was the national leader at 9.27.

Andre Collins is the eighth of Sandusky's linebackers to win first-team All-American honors. He joins a distinguished list that includes Jack Ham [1970], Charlie Zapiec [1971], John Skorupan [1972], Ed O'Neil [1973], Greg Buttle [1975], Kurt Allerman [1976] and Shane Conlan [1985-86].

The success his disciples have experienced in the National Football League has earned Penn State the tag "Linebacker U."

Sandusky's defensive game plans have been hailed in both of the Nittany Lions' National Championship games. Penn State held Walker to an average gain of 3.6 yards per carry, well below his season average of 5.2, in the Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia. Testaverde found frustration at every turn in the Fiesta Bowl four years later as Sandusky's defenders intercepted a season-high five passes and checked the Heisman Trophy winner without a touchdown pass for the first time all year. Athlon Publications named Sandusky the nation's Assistant Coach-of-the-Year following the 1986 season.

Before joining the Penn State staff, Sandusky served as an assistant football, basketball and track coach at Juniata College in the 1967-68 academic year and as offensive line coach at Boston University in 1968.

A three-year Penn State letterman, he was a starting defensive end in 1964 and 1965 and a key reserve as a sophomore.

Sandusky was a three-sport athlete in football, basketball and baseball at Washington (Pa.) High School.

Sandusky is married to the former Dorothy Gross of Chattanooga, Tenn. They have five children — four boys and a girl.

Sandusky is the author of "Developing Linebackers, The Penn State Way." Proceeds of the book benefit "The Second Mile," a charitable organization Sandusky founded that addresses the welfare of young people.

JOE SARRA

Responsibility:

Inside Linebackers

Alma mater:

California [Pa.], 1960

Year at Penn State:

7th year

Collegiate experience:

20 years — 7 at Penn State;

12 at Lafayette; 1 at Miami [O.]

Bowl games as a coach:

4 — 1986 Orange; 1987 Fiesta;

1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

The greening of Andre Collins and Brian Chizmar, both of whom transferred from the defensive secondary to linebacker, was the responsibility of assistant coach Joe Sarra, who handles the Nittany Lions' interior linebackers. When each of his pupils checked in with over 100 tackles last fall, one of the rare times in school history that two players have hit that plateau in the same season, Sarra had to feel a special satisfaction.

Collins became the second of Sarra's linebackers to earn first-team All-America honors. Among the top 50 players picked in the 1990 National Football League draft when tapped by the Washington Redskins in Round 2, Collins followed in the large footsteps of Shane Conlan, a two-time All-America and 1987 first-round pick of the Buffalo Bills.

The enthusiastic Sarra, a native of Belle Vernon, Pa., joined the Penn State staff in 1984. He also has made coaching stops at Lafayette and Miami [O.].

Sarra also had extensive experience on the high school level before coming to Penn State. He was an assistant coach at Hempfield and Belle Vernon high schools before serving 10 years on the staffs at Southern Columbia and East Washington high schools in Pennsylvania.

Sarra served as head freshman coach at Miami [O.] and was the defensive coordinator for seven years and offensive coordinator for five seasons at Lafayette, before joining the staff of The Second Mile, an organization concerned with the welfare of young people.

A 1960 graduate of California [Pa.] State with a degree in social studies education and guidance, Sarra owns a master's degree from West Virginia [1964] in secondary administration and counseling.

He is married to the former Barbara Benjeski of Duquesne, Pa., and they have two sons.

Pennsylvania state title in 1973.

Under Williams' direction, State College became recognized as one of the top programs in the Keystone State with many players earning collegiate grants-in-aid. Many of Williams' players, including Larry, Matt and Paul Suhey, played at Penn State.

Williams also was recognized by his peers for his outstanding coaching. He was an assistant coach in the annual Big 33 game in 1973 and served as the head coach of the 1974 Big 33 team.

Williams earned a degree in business administration from Penn State in 1963, lettering for coach Rip Engle's teams as a center and linebacker. He was a business education teacher at Bellefonte and State College high schools.

CRAIG CIRBUS

Administrative Assistant in Athletics

Alma mater:

SUNY-Buffalo, 1980

Year at Penn State:

7th year

Bowl games:

4 — 1986 Orange; 1987 Fiesta;
1988 Citrus; 1989 Holiday

After five years as a hands-on coach, Craig Cirbus moves from active coaching to a full-time role in athletic administration. Cirbus was named as an administrative assistant in athletics in February, 1990.

In his new position, Cirbus has a continuing relationship with the football program in addition to other duties. The new role fits nicely with Cirbus' long-term ambition for a career in athletic administration.

After working as both a graduate assistant and volunteer coach from 1984-86, the Buffalo native became a member of the full-time staff in 1987. Last fall, he and Bill Kenney collaborated on the coaching of the offensive line.

Cirbus helped with the defensive line in his first year at Penn State in 1984 and the outside linebackers in 1985 as a graduate assistant. In 1986, as a volunteer coach, Cirbus moved to offense, where his area of concentration was the offensive line.

Cirbus graduated in 1980 with a degree in civil engineering from the State University of New York at Buffalo. He played every offensive line position at SUNY-Buffalo, spending his senior season exclusively at guard.

After graduation, he worked as a structural engineer with Hatch Associates Consultants, Inc., which served as the design and construction management group for the Buffalo subway system.

Cirbus began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Cheektowaga [N.Y.] Central High School in 1980-81. Franks Rocco moved from the football offices to Recreation Building where he works in the Athletic Director's office on a number of football-related matters.

In his ninth year on the staff, Rocco's new duties include football student-athlete services in admissions, housing, financial aid and letter awards; liaison with the State College Quarterback Club and Football Letterman's Club; preparation of NCAA football squad lists; monitoring of the football budget; assisting, as required, in Big Ten transition matters and assisting in the development of long-range football schedules.

After 21 years in high school coaching and three and one-half years in secondary school administration, Rocco joined the Penn State staff in 1982 as administrative assistant. He coached the tight ends and passing game in 1985 before returning to the administrative offices.

Rocco compiled an excellent record as a high school coach, including three years at Altoona [Pa.] Area High School. He also coached at Great Valley, Easton, Allentown-Allen, Penn Highlands and Fox Chapel high schools in Pennsylvania. Week 1

VIRGINIA 14, PENN STATE 6

Sept. 9, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore lofted a pair of first-half touchdown passes to wideout Herman Moore and the Cavaliers kept Penn State's offense out of the end zone as the visitors from Charlottesville handed the Nittany Lions their first setback in a season-opener at Beaver Stadium since 1965.

Virginia's 14-6 triumph was the Cavaliers' first in the five-game series and broke a 12-game winning streak, dating from the Michigan State game 24 years past, for the Nittany Lions in season-openers played at home.

After a promising Penn State possession on the first offensive series of the game ended with a Tom Bill interception, Shawn Moore made the break pay dividends with a 56-yard march in 11 plays, capped by his third-and-12 TD pass of 24 yards to Herman Moore, who outdueling Matt Baggett in the end zone for the ball.

Faced with another long yardage situation in the second period [second-and-nine], Moore found his favorite target running free in the back of the end zone and promptly threw an 11-yard strike that made it 14-0.

Penn State's defense put the clamps on the Cavaliers in the second half, limiting the visitors to 150 mostly harmless yards after intermission. The offense showed signs of life on the first series of the third period, moving from its own 46 to the Virginia 19 before the drive stalled and Ray Tarasi came on to kick a 36-yard field goal. The big play in the march was a 25-yard run by tailback Blair Thomas, who led all rushers with 86 yards on 11 carries.

The Lions got another Tarasi field goal, this one of 34 yards, just before the end of the period to make it 14-6. Virginia, however, took charge in the final stanza with two big defensive series and another on offense.

After Mark D'Onofrio sacked Moore, stripped him of the ball and recovered the fumble, the Cavaliers' defense limited the Lions to three-plays-and-out. On the ensuing offensive series, Virginia held the ball for seven minutes on a march of 63 yards, which ended with an abortive field goal try of 32 yards by Jack McInerney.

Penn State threatened to tie in the dying moments, reaching the Virginia 32 with less than a minute to play. Four tries netted only six yards, however, and the Cavaliers upset of the Nittany Lions, who entered the game ranked No. 12, was complete.

Week 2

PENN STATE 42, TEMPLE 3

Sept. 16, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — A 75-yard scoring strike from quarterback Tom Bill to wide receiver Dave Daniels on the first play from scrimmage got Penn State off to a quick start in a 42-3 victory over the Temple Owls before a rain-soaked audience of 78,000 in Beaver Stadium.

Before the soggy fans had settled into their seats, Bill and Daniels had the Lions on the scoreboard. The touchdown took only 18 seconds — the earliest scoring strike ever by a Joe Paterno-coached team.

"Dave made a great move," Bill said, "and I just did the easy part."

It was a big day offensively for both Bill and Daniels, who was celebrating his 20th birthday. Bill reached a career-high for passing yardage with 192 on just six completions, a staggering 32.0 yards per reception average. Daniels also logged a lifetime-best with 126 receiving yards and two touchdowns on three catches. It was the first 100-yard game for a Penn State receiver since Oct. 10, 1987, and the tenth longest pass play in Lions' history.

When Temple wasn't being tormented by Bill and Daniels, the Owls' frustration was deepened by tailback Blair Thomas, who rushed for 138 yards and two touchdowns. Thomas had highlight film runs of 49 and 25 enroute to the ninth 100-yard game of his career and first since the 1987 finale against Notre Dame. He scored on runs of one and two yards.

Bill accounted for 57 of the 77 yards in Penn State's second scoring drive with passes of 40 yards to Terry Smith and 17 yards to O.J. McDuffie. After the Owls got a 41-yard field goal by Bob Wright to make it 14-3, Andre Collins provided the Lions with a scoring chance by blocking Ed Liberati's punt. It was the second year in a row Collins had blocked a Temple punt.

From the Owls 38, a pair of running plays were unsuccessful, but, on third-and-ten, Bill found Daniels in the end zone with a ball that bounced in the air once before settling in Daniels' hands.

Collins again terrorized the Temple punt team on the first series of the second half. The snap sailed over punter Liberati's head and Collins chased him down at the Owls' two-yard line, pulling him unceremoniously to the ground by his white jersey. Thomas made the play pay an immediate dividend with a two-yard burst to paydirt.

Week 3

PENN STATE 7, BOSTON COLLEGE 3

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Every defender on the Boston College team tackled Blair Thomas.

Only this time, Thomas, who definitely was the workhorse of the Penn State offense with 118 yards on 27 carries, didn't have the football. It rested in the hands of Tony Sacca, who sprinted unmo-lested around the right side for a dramatic winning touchdown in Penn State's 7-3 victory over Boston College.

It was a pulse-pounding finish to a game in which both offenses struggled with the elements—rain, wind and a field that offered uneasy footing at best. Boston College's high-powered aerial offense was limited to 168 yards, while the Nittany Lions passed for just 64.

Boston College jumped to a 3-0 lead in the second period on Brian Lowe's 28-yard field goal to cap a 30-yard drive in six plays. A short Penn State punt and a facemask penalty against the Lions enabled the visitors to move to the Penn State 11, where on fourth-and-three, Lowe split the uprights to give Boston College the early advantage.

For most of the remainder of the game, it appeared the field goal might be enough to win it. Penn State could not get out of its own end in the third stanza and the Eagles' only drive, to the Lions' 32, was short-circuited by a Hennon Henderson interception.

With just 6:12 remaining, the Penn State defense pressed the Eagles into a holding penalty and surrendered only five yards on three plays, forcing a Brian Lowe punt from near the Eagle goal line. Lowe's boot traveled only 20 yards, setting the Lions up on the Eagles' 35-yard line with 3:49 to play.

With Thomas doing most of the work, Penn State reached the 22, where it faced a fourth-and-eight call. Paterno disdained the field goal in favor of a delay pass to the tight end. Sacca, making his first start of the year, bailed out of the pocket, however, and scrambled 13 yards for a first down at the eight-yard line.

On first down, Thomas burst up the middle for four yards and, one play later, blasted into the end zone for what appeared to be the winning touchdown. Officials ruled, however, that Boston College had called timeout prior to the snap and the TD was taken off the scoreboard. Two more Thomas runs advanced the ball to the one. On fourth down, the Lions faked to Thomas and Sacca ran the bootleg to perfection, scoring the first rushing TD of his Lions' career.

Three Penn State defenders had "career" afternoons — inside linebackers Brian Chizmar and Andre Collins and defensive end Rich Schonewolf. Chizmar made 18 tackles, the most for a Penn State player in four years, while his partner, Collins, had a hand in 15 stops. Schonewolf was outstanding on the flank with 10 tackles.

Week 4

PENN STATE 16, TEXAS 12

Sept. 30, Memorial Stadium

AUSTIN, Texas — Andre Collins burst up the middle to block Bobby Lilledahl's punt, and Leonard Humphries picked up the bouncing ball and returned it for a touchdown as the Penn State special teams sent Texas down in flames before a Memorial Stadium crowd of 75,232.

The Nittany Lions' 16-12 victory, their first on the road since the Temple game at Veterans Stadium on October 1, 1988, was achieved the old-fashioned way — with stubborn defense and opportunistic special teams. In addition to the punt block to win it, the Lions limited Texas' respected running game, all the more menacing behind a mammoth offensive line, to 56 yards on 37 tries, an average of 1.5 yards per carry.

Penn State moved 80 yards the second time the offense had the ball on a drive filled with big plays. Quarterback Tony Sacca passed 11 yards to Dave Daniels on first down and Blair Thomas ripped off five yards on a burst up the middle. Thomas, who led all rushers with 90 yards, then galloped down the sidelines on a 31-yard run that put the ball at the Texas 33.

Sacca retreated into the pocket and found Daniels on the right sideline for the touchdown. It was Daniels' third TD catch of the season and Sacca's first scoring pass of 1989. Texas, however, blocked the PAT try, ending a Penn State string of 134 straight successful point-after kicks that was the longest among Division 1-A schools.

Texas answered with a 68-yard drive of its own, which, after a successful PAT, put the hosts in charge, 7-6. Ray Tarasi and Wayne Clements traded field goals of 45 and 31 yards, respectively, to make it 10-9 at halftime. Tarasi's effort was a career long for the senior from Pittsburgh, whose previous best was a 37-yarder against Boston College in 1988.

The Longhorns pushed their lead to 12-9 by trapping Penn State's Gerry Collins in the end zone for a safety on the Lions' first series of the second half. The play was set up by a 41-yard Lilledahl punt downed at the Lions' one-yard line.

After Collins and Humphries combined to put the Lions in the lead, the Penn State defense did not permit the Longhorns to penetrate beyond the Lions' 48-yard line on three possessions after the blocked punt.

The victory gave Penn State a 2-1 lead in its brief series with Texas and improved to 11-3-1 the Lions' record in games against schools from the Southwest Conference.

Week 5

PENN STATE 17, RUTGERS 0

Oct. 7, Giants Stadium

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Inside linebacker Andre Collins, back in his native New Jersey, made a dozen tackles and blocked his third punt of the season to headline a Penn State defensive effort that produced the Nittany Lions' first shutout in 25 games, a 17-0 whitewash of Rutgers.

Collins, a senior co-captain from Cinnaminson, had four solo tackles and assisted on eight others. He also registered one tackle for a three-yard loss. In the third quarter, Collins came storming through the Scarlet punt protection to smother Bill Chesna's punt before it ever left his foot. It was the third block of the season for Collins, tying Jack Ham's 1968 record. It also was his fourth career block, matching the mark established by Ham, later an All-Pro with the Pittsburgh Steelers, during the 1968-70 seasons.

With Collins and Brian Chizmar, who had a hand in 11 tackles, doing most of the heavy work, the Lions limited the Scarlet rushing attack to an anemic 59 yards on 30 carries. Rutgers quarterback Scott Erney, who entered the game averaging 239.5 yards per game passing, had 22 completions, but was held well below his average with 189 net yards. Erney was intercepted once [by Willie Thomas] and dropped three times while attempting to pass.

Another Jersey product, outside linebacker Mark D'Onofrio, was a particular thorn in Erney's side. D'Onofrio had two quarterback sacks and buried Erney from the blind side to force a fumble that led to Ray Tarasi's 25-yard field goal in the third period. D'Onofrio also registered three tackles for 20 yards in losses.

The Lions got all the points they needed on a second period touchdown march of 67 yards on 11 plays. Sophomore quarterback Tony Sacca, making his third straight start, completed three passes in the drive, including a toss of 23 yards to wideout Terry Smith for the touchdown. Tailback Blair Thomas, who suffered a hip pointer on the third play of the game, contributed 20 yards to the scoring march.

Thomas finished the game, played on his 22nd birthday, with 95 yards on 20 carries, despite missing the final 18 minutes.

After Tarasi's third-quarter field goal, Penn State added an insurance touchdown on its final possession of the day, pushing 30 yards in five plays behind the running of two freshmen — tailback Richie Anderson and fullback Brian O'Neal. Anderson contributed the first 16 yards and O'Neal the final 14, including the six-yard scoring run.

Week 6

PENN STATE 34, SYRACUSE 12

Oct. 14, Carrier Dome

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Sophomore wide-out O.J. McDuffie brought back visions of another O.J. of some football notoriety with a 203-yard all-purpose performance that took the air out of pumped-up Syracuse and a sold-out Carrier Dome.

McDuffie, from Gates Mills, Ohio, delivered the Orange's comeback hopes a fatal blow, when he brought a Syracuse punt back 84 yards for a touchdown in the third period. The scintillating runback, the Lions' first for a score since Michael Timpson turned the trick against Cincinnati a year ago, pushed Penn State's advantage to 27-6 and made the final margin of 34-12 a foregone conclusion.

Until this game, McDuffie had been the backup punt returner, handling only four punts in relief of primary returner Blair Thomas. With Thomas coming off a hip pointer at Rutgers, McDuffie got the full-time assignment for the game and responded with 115 yards on five returns. He also had two rushes for 48 yards, one of them a 45-yard run that was the Lions' second-longest from scrimmage this season to date, and caught a pair of passes for 40 yards.

Penn State's rushing attack was at its most proficient against the Orangemen, accounting for a season-high 356 yards. The Nittany Lions had two backs over 100 yards — tailback Thomas and his backup Gerry Collins. Thomas rolled up 115 yards on 17 carries and scored the Lions' first TD on a 38-yard scamper down the left sideline. Collins contributed a career-high 104 yards on 19 attempts.

Before the offense reached cruising speed, the Penn State defense provided testimony that its pregame ranking among the nation's Top 10 in both scoring and rushing defense was no illusion.

The Orange forced a turnover (a Tony Sacca interception) on the first series and quickly drove to a first down at the Penn State 19. After three plays and a penalty, John Biskup attempted a field goal from 37 yards out that was wide left. Twice more in the first quarter, Syracuse was deep in Penn State territory, but came away with only six points on successful Biskup kicks of 36 and 26 yards.

The Nittany Lions limited Syracuse to 63 net yards rushing — the third straight game the opposition failed to reach three-digits on the ground. The Orangemen did become the first team to score on the Lions' defense in the second half, connecting on a 13-yard Mark McDonald to Rob Moore touchdown pass with 2:58 remaining against a unit composed principally of Penn State defensive reserves.

Week 7

ALABAMA 17, PENN STATE 16

Oct. 28, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Had it not been for Thomas Rayam's hand, the second largest crowd in Beaver Stadium history would have left with nothing but fond memories of the 12th game in the series between Penn State and Alabama.

The unbeaten Tide and once-beaten Nittany Lions, both ranked in the Top 20, had played to their respective potentials and now the Lions were poised to win it on an 18-yard field goal with just 13 seconds left.

But, Rayam, a 6-7 senior from Orlando, Fla., foiled an otherwise ideal finish by getting his hand on Ray Tarasi's fourth field goal try of the afternoon and the Penn State hopes were rejected as the Tide survived, 17-16.

The Lions opened strong, taking the opening kickoff 57 yards in 14 plays before the drive stalled at the Alabama nine-yard line and Tarasi came on to kick a 26-yard field goal.

The Tide moved from its own 30 to the Penn State 15 just minutes before half-time. When the Lions stiffened, Philip Doyle came on to kick a 32-yard field goal and tie it at 3-3.

On the first series of the second half, Tony Sacca tossed a 19-yard scoring pass to O.J. McDuffie to again move the Lions in front, 10-3.

Alabama answered with a six-yard scoring pass from Hollingsworth to Lamonde Russell that again evened the issue at 10-10.

Darren Perry intercepted Hollingsworth on the next Alabama series and returned it 43 yards to the Tide's seven-yard line. After three plays netted only two yards, the hosts settled for a 22-yard field goal by Tarasi to go up 13-10.

Alabama scored what proved to be the decisive touchdown on Stacy's 12-yard run on a third-and-nine play from the Penn State 12.

A career-long 46-yard field goal by Ray Tarasi pulled the Lions to within one at the 3:27 mark of the fourth quarter.

Rich Schonewolf's first career interception with 5:37 remaining launched the Lions' final drive. On first down, Sacca was dumped for a six-yard loss, but he came back with a 15-yard pass to Dave Jakob and another yard on a sneak to gain a first down at the Lions' 41.

From there, Penn State put things in the hands of Thomas, who carried 11 straight times. He gained 58 yards in the final series to deposit the ball at the Alabama one-yard line with 13 seconds remaining.

The fantasy fizzled, however, when Tarasi's kick was swatted down by Rayam.

Week 8

PENN STATE 19, WEST VIRGINIA 9

Nov. 4, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — The Penn State defense handed the Major his marching orders before a super-charged sellout crowd and a national television audience looking in on ESPN.

The ballyhooed West Virginia quarterback gained over 300 yards of total offense, but the Nittany Lions forced him to fumble five times, sacked him four times and picked off one of his passes. Penn State cashed five turnovers for 19 points and handed the Mountaineers their 18th consecutive setback at Beaver Stadium. The final was 19-9, West Virginia's lowest point total in 28 games.

Lions' placekicker Ray Tarasi bounced back from a blocked winning field goal attempt against Alabama to register a career-high four three-pointers, among them one of 49 yards, his longest as a Lion.

Tailback Blair Thomas enhanced his rushing reputation with 150 yards against a West Virginia defense that entered the game ranked No. 7 nationally against the running game. Thomas carried 32 times to pass the century mark for the third straight week, the fifth time in 1989 and the 13th time in his career. The numbers against West Virginia put Thomas past the 4,000-yard mark in career all-purpose yardage, making him only the second Penn Stater to reach that plateau.

Quarterback Tony Sacca passed for just 40 yards, but did a couple of things Major Harris didn't — throw a touchdown pass and avoid an interception. Sacca connected with tight end Dave Jakob on a 31-yard pitch that produced the Nittany Lions' only touchdown of the late afternoon.

series following the Lions' only turnover of the game in the second period. West Virginia recovered a Sacca fumble at the Penn State 21 with the score tied 3-3. Harris took the Mountaineers to the Lions' one in six plays, where on fourth-and-one Coach Don Nehlen elected to go for the touchdown.

Freshman outside linebacker Reggie Givens swatted down Harris' pass attempt for a touchdown and a tone had been established for the remainder of the game.

Week 9

PENN STATE 13, MARYLAND 13

Nov. 11,
Baltimore Memorial Stadium

BALTIMORE, Md. — The scoreboard said it was a 13-13 tie, but from the reaction of the two teams it would have been difficult to tell.

After 24 consecutive losses to Penn State, the Maryland players were doing a little celebrating, despite the fact that the final verdict was not a victory. Penn State's sideline, on the other hand, was silent and sullen. A tie appeared little consolation to the Nittany Lions, who charged into Baltimore with a 6-2 record and a No. 13 national ranking.

For the Lions, it largely was a case of missed opportunities. On the afternoon, Penn State made five trips inside the Maryland 20-yard line, including four inside the ten, and all the Lions had to show for the effort was a pair of Ray Tarasi field goals and a seven-yard touchdown run by Leroy Thompson.

Penn State's first two excursions into the Terrapins' red zone ended in frustration, when Tony Sacca slipped enroute to an almost-certain touchdown on a bootleg and Tarasi narrowly missed a 37-yard field goal.

The Nittany Lions' defense, which entered the game No. 1 in the nation with an average of only 8.8 points allowed per-game by eight previous opponents, surrendered a pair of fourth quarter field goals that enabled the Terps to draw even at the wire. The first kick, of 28 yards, came at the end of an 85-yard march, the second after a 57-yard push.

Maryland quarterback Neil O'Donnell completed 10 of 24 passes to account for 219 of the Terps' 307 offensive yards. Blair Thomas was at the point of a Penn State running game that gained 229 yards on the ground. Thomas had his 14th career 100-yard game and topped the 3,000-yard mark in career rushing with 125 yards on 26 carries.

Coach Joe Paterno used two quarterbacks in an effort to jump start the Penn State offense. Sacca worked the first quarter and a half and passed for 45 yards. Tom Bill finished with 119 yards passing, 42 rushing and was at the controls for all three Penn State scoring drives.

Week 10

NOTRE DAME 34, PENN STATE 23

Nov. 18, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Top-ranked Notre Dame bruised the Penn State defense for 425 rushing yards, the most ever against the Nittany Lions, and marched to its 23rd consecutive victory, 34-23, in a game in which defense had been expected to dominate.

Penn State came into the contest ranked No. 1 in scoring defense and No. 14 in rushing defense. The Lions, however, had their hands full with a Notre Dame ground game run with precision by quarterback Tony Rice, who gained a personal high of 141 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Rice, who accounted for 275 yards in the Notre Dame victory at South Bend a year ago, carried 26 times and averaged 5.4 yards per attempt. He also completed 5 of 10 passes for 47 yards.

Tailback Ricky Watters also gained over 100 yards rushing — the first time an opponent had had two runners reach the century mark against the Lions' defense since the 1988 West Virginia game. Watters wound up with 128 yards on 16 tries, an 8.0 average, and scored one touchdown.

Penn State scored the first two times it touched the ball and enjoyed a 10-7 lead early in the second stanza after Ray Tarasi kicked a 36-yard field goal.

The Lions moved 79 yards in a textbook 13-play drive to the game's first touchdown. Blair Thomas smashed across from one-yard out for the score. Thomas, who finished with 133 yards rushing on 26 carries, personally accounted for 24 yards on the march. Starting quarterback Tony Sacca completed three of four passes, including a crucial third-down throw of 22 yards to O. J. McDuffie.

Notre Dame answered with a 65-yard push climaxed by Rice's five-yard sprint to paydirt. The Irish added two more touchdowns in the second period to take a 21-10 bulge at halftime.

Penn State blunted the Irish's first threat of the second half, when Jim Deter intercepted at the five-yard line. But the Lions provided Notre Dame with a fresh opportunity, when Gerry Collins fumbled on the ensuing series and the visitors recovered at the Penn State 14. Rice cashed the "takeaway" with a one-yard run for a touchdown and it was 28-10.

The Nittany Lions gained a season-high 237 yards against an Irish defense ranked No. 9 in the nation. Thomas became the first back in two years to rush for 100 yards against Notre Dame. He also was the last back to turn the trick, in the 1987 finale, when he rushed for 214 yards in a 21-20 Penn State victory.

Week 11

PENN STATE 16, PITTSBURGH 13

Nov. 25, Pitt Stadium

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — It was déjà vu for Ray Tarasi and the Penn State field goal team.

The ball was inside the Pittsburgh five-yard line with just 17 seconds to play and the score tied, 13-13. All Tarasi had to do was send it sailing between the up-rights 20 yards away to bring the Nittany Lions a tasty Thanksgiving weekend victory over arch-rival Pittsburgh.

A month earlier, Tarasi was in a similar situation against Alabama. The ball was inside the five, 13 seconds remained and an 18-yard field goal would have provided a dramatic conclusion for a Penn State team that trailed by one.

Against the Tide, Tarasi's kick was blocked. Against Pittsburgh, it sailed cleanly between the posts to seal a 16-13 victory that staked Penn State's claim to a 19th Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy as the top team in the East.

Penn State started like the last thing it would need was a field goal with time running out. The Nittany Lions put 10 points on the scoreboard almost before the bands finished their pregame shows.

Pittsburgh failed to make a first down on its initial series and the Lions started from their own 24 after a Panther punt. Starting quarterback Tony Sacca orchestrated a 76-yard march in 12 plays, hitting four of five passes in the drive, including a 19-yard pitch to Dave Daniels for the touchdown. Sacca converted two third-and-long situations on passes of 11 yards to Daniels and 13 yards to Blair Thomas.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Pittsburgh tailback Curvin Richards was stripped of the ball by Sherrod Rainge on a first down run and freshman Reggie Givens, who picked the fumble off in mid-air, sprinted 19 yards to the Pittsburgh 32. The Lions moved on to the one, where Tarasi nailed a 19-yard field goal on fourth down.

Pittsburgh recovered from its early lethargy to respond with 10 second quarter points on a 27-yard field goal by Ed Frazier and a two-yard rollout by quarterback Alex Van Pelt.

Tarasi staked the Lions to a 13-10 lead on the final play of the half, successfully concluding a 57-yard drive in 11 plays that was classic execution of the two-minute drill. Tom Bill, working under center in relief of Sacca, completed six of seven passes in the march.

Frazier's 40-yard field goal just 2:23 before the end of the game evened the issue at 13-13, but Bill answered with another brilliant two-minute performance, twice hitting third-and-10 passes for first downs. No play in the drive was bigger than his 29-yard screen to Leroy Thompson that moved the ball from the Pittsburgh 43 to the Panther 14. Two runs put the ball on the two and set the stage for Tarasi and friends.

Week 12

HOLIDAY BOWL PENN STATE 50, BRIGHAM YOUNG 39

Dec. 29, Jack Murphy Stadium

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — In a game of explosive offense, two freak defensive plays decided the issue between Penn State and Brigham Young in the Sea World Holiday Bowl, which lived up to its reputation for high scoring and wild finishes.

By the time Penn State's high octane 50-39 victory over Brigham Young was finished, 41 post-season records had either been surpassed or equalled by the teams. The Lions and Cougars put 89 points on the scoreboard, including a bowl record 64 in the second half; gained 1,115 total offensive yards; rolled up 61 first downs; and punted only three times.

Andre Collins, the All-America inside linebacker, made the first of the decisive defensive plays after the Cougars had closed to within two points [39-41] with 2:58 remaining to play. Collins intercepted Ty Detmer's two-point conversion pass attempt and returned it 102 yards to score two for the Nittany Lions, the first time they had tallied in such a fashion since the rule was introduced in 1988.

On the ensuing Brigham Young offensive series, hero Gary Brown blitzed past Outland Trophy-winner Mohammed Elewonibi to steal the ball from Detmer's passing hand and return it 53 yards for the touchdown that secured Penn State's 16th victory in 26 post-season appearances.

Penn State tailback Blair Thomas, playing his final game, broke the school bowl rushing record with 186 yards on 35 carries, one a seven-yard scoring run, and shared "Player-of-the-Game" honors with the Cougars' Detmer. Thomas, who gained 46 additional yards on a pair of pass receptions, also broke the school mark for total carries in a bowl game.

Junior Leroy Thompson emerged as a rushing force out of the fullback slot with 68 yards on 14 carries and two touchdowns, which put Thompson in the record book in three categories — tying marks for points, TDs rushing and total TDs. While he didn't set any records, quarterback Tony Sacca matched Detmer's total for TD passes (2) and won fresh respect with his best passing performance of the season. Sacca completed 10 of 20 attempts for 206 yards, including TD tosses of 24 yards to Terry Smith and 52 yards to David Daniels, whose acrobatic, juggling reception in the end zone ranks as one of the greatest in Penn State annals.

Free safety Sherrod Ränge, place-kicker Ray Tarasi and kickoff returner O.J. McDuffie were others who had record nights in a game that will be long remembered for its fireworks inside and outside of Jack Murphy Stadium.

Gary Brown . . . bound for decisive final touchdown.

Big TV Numbers

Penn State's victory over Brigham Young in the Sea World Holiday Bowl attracted a television audience that qualified the contest as "the most viewed non-NFL event" in the history of ESPN, the 10-year-old cable sports network.

The 50-39 offensive showcase between the Nittany Lions and the Cougars won a 6.2 rating, which translates into a viewership of 3,397,000 homes. It was the highest-rated Holiday Bowl game in ESPN history.

The Mazda Gator Bowl matched the Holiday Bowl rating, also finishing at 6.2.

ESPN executives said the Holiday Bowl rating was highest at midnight when nearly 4,000,000 viewers (based on a 7.2 rating) were glued to their sets for the conclusion of a game that had the plot of a soap opera cliff-hanger.

Heisman Trophy

John Cappelletti, tailback on Penn State's unbeaten and untied 1973 team, was selected as the 1973 Heisman Trophy recipient.

Cappelletti, now retired after a professional football career, received the coveted award and dedicated it to his younger brother, Joey, a leukemia victim, in a moving acceptance speech in December, 1973, in New York City.

The Heisman Memorial Trophy is awarded annually by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York City to "the outstanding intercollegiate football player in the United States."

Ten other Penn State players have finished in the Top 10 in Heisman Trophy balloting.

Reid, who was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1987, went on to earn All-Pro honors with Cincinnati in the National Football League.

Lombardi Award

Penn State defensive tackle Bruce Clark became the first junior to win the Lombardi Award in 1979 as the nation's outstanding lineman or linebacker.

The trophy, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Houston, was initiated in 1971 following the death of Vince Lombardi on Sept. 3, 1970. The award is given annually "to the offensive or defensive lineman or linebacker who, in addition to outstanding performance, best exemplifies the discipline of Lombardi."

Clark and junior defensive tackle teammate Matt Millen both were finalists for the 1979 award. Senior offensive tackle Keith Dorney also finished in the Top 10 in balloting for the award that year.

Clark and Millen were Penn State's first finalists and only the second and third juniors to be finalists.

Guard Sean Farrell was a finalist in 1982.

Davey O'Brien Award

Penn State quarterback Todd Blackledge was the winner of the 1982 Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award, which includes a $10,000 scholarship grant to the recipient's school.

The O'Brien Award was established in memory of the late Davey O'Brien, who quarterbacked Texas Christian to the 1938 National Championship and was the winner of the Heisman, Walter Camp and Maxwell trophies. The award, sponsored by the Davey O'Brien Educational and Charitable Trust and the Fort Worth Club, is presented for "competitive sportsmanship, academic standing and scholarship, leadership qualities and ability to inspire others, dedication to team success, and quarterback skills and achievements."

Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy

Penn State won an unprecedented 19th Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy in 1989 as Eastern collegiate football's top team.

In 1936, the Lambert brothers, Victor and Henry, of the distinguished New York jewelry house that bears their name, established a memorial to their father, August. They instituted a trophy to be awarded to the outstanding Division I college football team in the East. In 1957, the Lambert Cup was instituted for Division II teams and, in 1966, the Lambert Bowl was added for Division III schools.

Thirteen schools have been awarded the Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy, but no two schools combined can claim as many championships as Penn State. Army has won seven Lambert-Meadowlands trophies; Pittsburgh, six; Syracuse, five; Boston College and Navy, four; Dartmouth and Princeton, two; and Carnegie Tech, Cornell, Fordham and West Virginia, one each. Navy and Yale also shared the title in 1960.

Hugo Bezdek

Born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 1, 1884, Hugo Bezdek was head coach at Penn State for 12 years (1918-29), compiling a 65-30-11 record, including undefeated seasons in 1920 and 1921. An All-American athlete at the University of Chicago for four years, he was a fullback in football and a second baseman in baseball. After graduation, Bezdek began a collegiate coaching career that spanned 24 years. He also served as head coach at Oregon (1906, 1913-17) and Arkansas (1908-12). His 1917 Oregon squad defeated Pennsylvania, 14-0, in the Rose Bowl. He later managed the Pittsburgh Pirates (1917-19). Bezdek, who died in 1952, was named to the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1954 and the Helms Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1960.

Rip Engle

Charles A. "Rip" Engle achieved national prominence as Penn State's 14th head coach. A native of Salisbury, Pa., he was a four-sport standout at Western Maryland College, graduating in 1930. Engle began his coaching career at Waynesboro (Pa.) High School, where his teams posted an 86-17-5 mark in 11 years, including three unbeaten seasons and eight conference championships. In 1942, he joined the staff at Brown University and was promoted to head coach two years later. Engle was named head coach at Penn State in 1950 and guided the Lions to a 104-48-4 record in 16 years, winning three bowl games in four appearances. Three of his Lion squads won the Lambert Trophy. In 1970, Engle won the Amos Alonzo Stagg Award for his contributions to football. He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1974. Engle died March 7, 1983, in Bellefonte, Pa. He was born March 26, 1906.

Jack Ham

An All-American as a senior in 1970, Jack Ham will become the tenth former Nittany Lion to be enshrined in the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame, when he is inducted in December, 1990. Ham is one of 58 players and the only Penn State product selected for membership in both the college and professional Halls of Fame. A nine-time All-Pro linebacker for the National Football League Pittsburgh Steelers, Ham was enshrined at Canton in 1988. As a senior co-captain in 1970, Ham had 91 tackles and intercepted four passes. He still shares (with Andre Collins) a pair of defensive records for blocked punts; four in his career, three in his final season. Ham lettered for teams that won 29 of 32 games and recorded a pair of Orange Bowl victories over Kansas (1969) and Missouri (1970). He ranks No. 7 in career tackles with 251 (143 solo). A second-round draft choice of the Steelers in 1971, Ham developed into one of the NFL's most outstanding linebackers. He starred on all four of the Steelers' Super Bowl championship teams and was the "Defensive Player-of-the-Year" in 1975. A businessman in Pittsburgh, who works part-time as a radio and television analyst on both college and professional games, Ham also is a Distinguished Alumni Award recipient.

Dick Harlow

A Penn State graduate, Dick Harlow served as the Nittany Lions' head coach for three seasons [1915-17], compiling a 20-8 record. A two-year football letterman, he also was a member of the baseball and track teams. After leaving Penn State, Harlow was the head coach at Colgate [1922-25], Western Maryland [1926-34] and Harvard [1935-42, 45-47]. At Harvard, Harlow was national coach of the year in 1936 and a year later was chosen as the Ivy League coach of the year. He was named to the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1954. A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Harlow died in 1962. He was born Oct. 19, 1889.

Bob Higgins

Bob Higgins, a native of Corning, N.Y., came to Penn State as a student in 1914 and became one of only five players in the history of Nittany Lion football to earn five letters. An end on Walter Camp's All-American team in 1919, he also served as Penn State's captain as a senior. Higgins also lettered in baseball, boxing and wrestling and played pro football with the Canton Bulldogs for two years. His coaching career included stops at West Virginia Wesleyan and the University of Washington in St. Louis, before becoming an assistant at Penn State in 1928. Two years later, Higgins was appointed the Lions' head coach, compiling a 91-57-10 record in 19 years. His 1947 team was unbeaten and tied Southern Methodist, 13-13, in the 1948 Cotton Bowl. Higgins, who died in 1969, was elected to the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1954. Higgins was born Nov. 24, 1893.

He earned nine letters in football, basketball and baseball. He also coached at Penn State, Dickinson, Rensselaer, and Moravian and played professional football with the New York Giants. Killinger joined the faculty at West Chester [Pa.] State in 1934 and served in various capacities, including head football and baseball coach, athletic director and dean of men. A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Killinger died July 25, 1988. He was born Sept. 13, 1898.

Ted Kwalick

Penn State's first two-time All-American at any position, tight end Ted Kwalick joined the Lion legends in the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1989. In his three-year career [1966-68], Kwalick caught a total of 86 passes for 1,343 yards and 10 touchdowns. He shares the season mark for catches by a tight end (33 in 1967) with Mickey Shuler. Kwalick's career yardage [1,343] and touchdown totals [10] remain the career best for a Penn State tight end. After making a pair of All-America teams as a junior, Kwalick was a consensus choice as a senior, while finishing fourth in balloting for the Heisman Trophy. He was selected to play in the College All-Star game, the Coaches All-America game and the Senior Bowl following his senior season. Kwalick was a first-round draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers in 1969 and had a distinguished pro career with the 49ers, Oakland Raiders and, briefly, the Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League before retiring in 1977. He won the Maxwell Award, was a first-team All-American at quarterback and finished second in the 1959 Heisman Trophy balloting. As a senior, the Glassboro, Pa., native led Penn State to a 9-2 record and a 7-0 victory over Alabama in the first Liberty Bowl. He led the team in rushing (325 yards) and passed for 913 yards and five touchdowns, completing 58 of 117 passes. He also punted 20 times for a 34.0 average and returned five interceptions for 114 yards. Following a brief professional football career, he entered athletic administration at Penn State, where he now serves as an assistant athletic director.

Pete Mauthe

Pete Mauthe lettered four years (1909-12) at fullback for Penn State during which period the Nittany Lions posted a 26-2-4 record. Mauthe, captain of the 1912 team, also was an outstanding punter and placekicker. As a senior, he kicked a 52-yard field goal and scored 119 points, including 11 touchdowns. Born July 8, 1890, in Turkey City, Pa., he became president of a mining company in Youngstown, Ohio. Penn State vs. Heisman Trophy Winners

Penn State has played against 11 Heisman Trophy winners — Pete Dawkins [Army], Ernie Davis [Syracuse], Gary Beban [UCLA], Archie Griffin [Ohio State], Tony Dorsett [Pittsburgh], Marcus Allen [Southern Cal], Herschel Walker [Georgia], Mike Rozier [Nebraska], Doug Flutie [Boston College], Vinny Testaverde [Miami, Fla.] and Tim Brown [Notre Dame].

Four — Griffin (he won as a junior the year before), Allen, Walker and Testaverde — already had won the award from the Downtown Athletic Club, while the other seven were candidates.

Here follows a summary of how the Heisman Trophy winners have fared against Penn State.

1958: Army 26, Penn State 0. Dawkins rushed 12 times for 73 yards and a touchdown, threw two incomplete passes, caught two passes for 91 yards and returned three punts for 14 yards.

1961: Penn State 14, Syracuse 0. Davis rushed 13 times for 35 yards.

1967: UCLA 17, Penn State 15. Beban completed 10-of-16 passes for 108 yards and one touchdown, while rushing 19 times for one yard.

1975: Ohio State 17, Penn State 9. Griffin carried 24 times for 128 yards.

1976: Pittsburgh 24, Penn State 7. Dorsett gained 224 yards and scored twice on 38 carries.

1981: Penn State 26, Southern California 10 in the 1982 Fiesta Bowl. Allen rushed 30 times for 85 yards and caught five passes for 39 yards [Penn State's Curt Warner outplayed Allen, rushing 26 times for 145 yards and two scores and catching three passes for 10 yards].

1982: Penn State 27, Georgia 23 in the 1983 Sugar Bowl. Walker rushed 28 times for 103 yards and scored one TD [again Warner outperformed the Heisman Trophy winner, carrying 18 times for 117 yards and two TDs and catching a pair of passes for 23 yards].

1983: Nebraska 44, Penn State 6. Rozier carried 16 times for 71 yards and threw a pass interception.

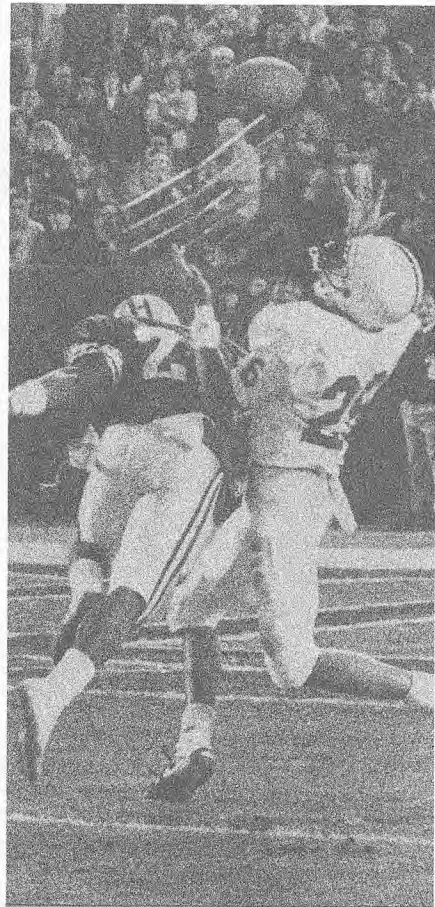

1984: Penn State 37, Boston College 30. Flutie completed 29-of-53 passes for 447 yards, was intercepted twice and threw for one TD. He also carried 10 times for 26 yards.

1986: Penn State 14, Miami [Fla.] 10 in the 1987 Sunkist Fiesta Bowl. Testaverde was intercepted a season-high five times, with pass thefts setting up the winning touchdown and sealing the Lions' victory. For the first time that season, the Miami quarterback did not throw a touchdown pass. He did complete 26-of-50 passes for 285 yards. The Lions sacked him four times for 26 yards in losses.

1987: Penn State 21, Notre Dame 20. Penn State limited Brown to four receptions for 80 yards, one carry for nine yards and one incomplete pass attempt.

Holuba Hall

Spacious Holuba Hall provides an inclement weather home for the Penn State football team. The massive building, first used during the 1986 season, but formally dedicated on April 26, 1987, is named in honor of the late Stanley Holuba, Sr., a 1928 biochemistry graduate, who was a boxing standout at Penn State.

Holuba's sons — Robert, a Penn State graduate, who played football for three seasons and was a National Collegiate Athletic Association postgraduate scholarship winner following his senior campaign, and Stanley, a Gettysburg College graduate — donated $1 million to Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics. The Holubas own and operate the Stanson Corporation of Teaneck, N.J.

Located along University Drive, opposite the East Area locker room and near the Greenberg Indoor Sports Complex, Holuba Hall is the largest pre-engineered metal building ever made in the United States. The 118,000-square-foot area, which has a 75-foot ceiling, consists of an 80x120-yard Astroturf field and a track with four 120-yard, 110-meter sprint lanes.

In addition to two adjacent 60-yard football fields, including end zones, Holuba Hall can be configured to permit regulation lacrosse and soccer games. It has been used by a number of Penn State athletic teams including football, baseball, men's and women's lacrosse, field hockey, soccer, softball, men's and women's track, and men's and women's golf.

Penn State athletic director Jim Tarman described Holuba Hall as "the equal of any indoor facility we have seen anywhere in the nation" at the time the project was completed in 1987.

Holuba Hall exterior (left) and interior (below). The 118,000-square-foot building houses two adjacent 60-yard football fields, including end zones.

Non-Losing Seasons

After an NCAA record 49 consecutive non-losing seasons, the 1988 Nittany Lions slipped under .500, the first time since 1938 that Penn State failed to achieve either a winning or a break-even record.

During their record run from 1939-87, the Nittany Lions rolled up 26 straight winning seasons [1939 through 1964], two .500 seasons [1965 and 1966] and 21 more winning seasons [1967-87].

Over the 49-year span, Penn State accumulated 358 regular-season victories against 106 defeats and nine ties. Penn State

On February 22, 1855, Governor James Pollock signed the charter incorporating the institution that would become Penn State. He could not have foreseen that he was creating what would become one of America's largest and most distinguished universities.

Located in the fertile Nittany Valley in the heart of central Pennsylvania, Penn State was initially a college of agricultural science, which awarded the nation's first baccalaureate degrees in that subject in 1861.

It broadened its mission after Congress passed the Morrill Land Grant Act in 1862. The Morrill Act enabled each state to sell federal lands and use the proceeds to endow one or more colleges or universities. These schools had to agree to offer instruction in agriculture, engineering and other utilitarian subjects at a cost that was affordable to people of average means. Pennsylvania's General Assembly in 1863 designated Penn State the Commonwealth's sole land-grant institution.

Teaching has remained central to the University's mission. Since the 1930's, Penn State has been Pennsylvania's largest source of undergraduate degrees. It offers studies in about 160 baccalaureate and 130 graduate fields. Testimony to the caliber of instruction can be found in Richard Moll's recent book, The Public Ivys (Viking, 1985), wherein Penn State is one of 17 public institutions cited as attractive alternatives to Ivy League schools for academic quality and ambience.

Even before the University admitted its first students in 1859, its faculty members already were engaged in research. Professor of Horticulture William Waring's simple experiments with fruit trees in 1857 have evolved into a comprehensive research program encompassing such diverse fields as artificial hearts, orbiting X-ray telescopes, and Latin American politics. Penn State perennially ranks among the top 20 American universities in total research and development spending, with expenditures exceeding $225 million in 1988-89.

The third element of Penn State's mission, public service, is derived largely from its land-grant obligation to promote the general welfare. Penn State's first president, Evan Pugh, set the standard for public service when the Commonwealth commissioned him to conduct chemical analyses of commercial fertilizers so that farmers would know what they were buying. This same ideal guides today's cooperative extension service and numerous other public service offerings of the University.

Penn State's land-grant mission is common to all of its 23 campuses statewide, where it enrolls some 70,000 students. While University Park remains an administrative and research hub, 65 percent of all freshmen start their academic careers at other Penn State campuses. By literally taking higher education to the students, the University has lowered the cost of attending college and enabled many persons to enroll who otherwise could not have afforded to do so.

Nittany Lion Legend

Penn State's athletic symbol, chosen by the student body in 1906, is a mountain lion once said to have roamed the central Pennsylvania mountains.

H.D. "Joe" Mason, a member of the Penn State Class of 1907, conducted a one-man campaign to choose a mascot after seeing the Princeton tiger on a baseball game trip to that New Jersey campus. A student publication sponsored the campaign to choose a mascot and Penn State is believed to be the first college to adopt the lion as a mascot.

Because Penn State is located in the Nittany Valley at the foot of Mount Nittany, the lion was designated as a Nittany Lion. In regional folklore, Nittany [or Nita-Nee] was a valorous Indian princess in whose honor the Great Spirit caused Mount Nittany to be formed. A later namesake, daughter of chief O-Ko-Cho who lived near the mouth of Penn's Creek, fell in love with Malachi Boyer, a trader. The tearful maiden and her lost lover became legend and her name was given to the stately mountain and the athletic teams of Penn State.

Blue & White

Penn State's student-athletes are instantly identified by their blue and white uniforms — but those weren't the original school colors.

A three-member committee representing the sophomore, junior and senior classes was appointed in October of 1887 to develop color options from which the student body would select the school's official colors. Dark pink and black was the unanimous choice of the student body after considering the color combinations presented by the committee.

Soon many students and the baseball team were sporting pink and black striped blazers and caps. However, problems arose when the pink faded to white after several weeks of exposure to the sun.

The students then opted for blue, rather than black, and white. The official announcement of the new choice was made on March 18, 1890.

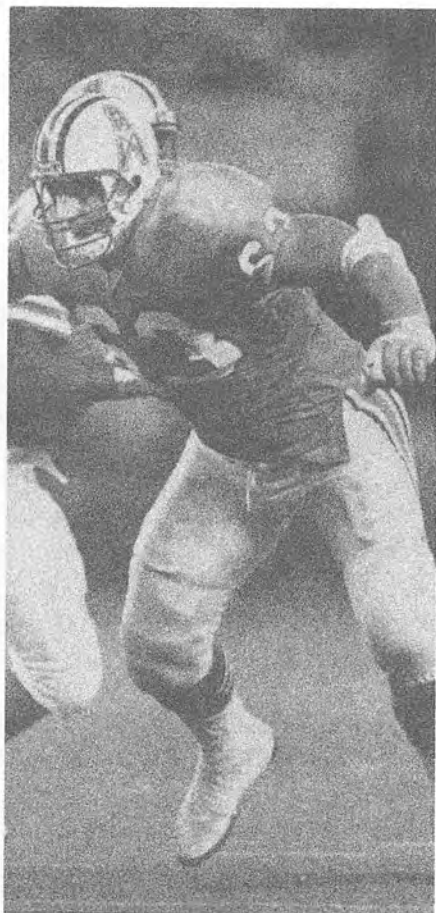

Nittany Lion Shrine

Penn State's Nittany Lion shrine was dedicated on Oct. 24, 1942, during Homecoming Weekend.

Animal sculptor Heinz Warneke and stonecutter Joseph Garatti molded a 13-ton solid block of Indiana limestone into the most recognizable symbol of Penn State. The shrine was chosen from six models submitted by Warneke.

The shrine was a gift of the Penn State Class of 1940 and rests in a natural setting of trees near Recreation Building, a site chosen ahead of the library and Old Main [the administration building], because of its accessibility, the setting of the trees and the fact that the sculpture would not be dwarfed by surrounding buildings.

Stadium

Beaver Stadium

The continued rabid support of Penn State football fans has again moved the University to expand the seating capacity of Beaver Stadium. Construction now underway will add 10,300 seats by the opening of the 1991 season.

The erection of an upper deck suspended over the north end zone seats will raise Beaver Stadium's capacity to approximately 93,670, making it the second largest on-campus stadium and the fourth largest overall in the nation.

Penn State football has attracted more than 10-million fans to Beaver Stadium since it was moved from the west to the east side of campus in 1960. By 1991 the stadium will have doubled in size to accommodate the capacity crowds which converge on Penn State for each home game.

The last major expansion in 1981 raised the capacity to 83,770. Lights were added in 1984 and entry ramps at the four corners in 1985. Construction of walkways at the top of each end zone in 1985 resulted in a reduction in capacity to 83,370.

Beaver Stadium was dedicated on Sept. 17, 1960, when Penn State defeated Boston University, 20-0. Lion half-back Eddie Caye scored the stadium's first touchdown at 10:45 of the first quarter.

Built in a horseshoe configuration seating 46,284, Beaver Stadium now towers 110 rows on the east side, 100 rows on the west and 60 in the end zones.

Additions of over 2,000 seats in 1969 and more than 9,000 in 1974 raised the capacity to 57,536. Expanded bleachers in the south end zone in 1976 increased seating to 60,203.

A major expansion during the winter, spring and summer of 1978 added more than 16,000 seats, bringing the capacity to 76,639. The stadium was cut into sections, raised eight feet by hydraulic jacks and precast concrete seating forms inserted within the inner circle of the stadium, where the running track previously had existed.

Penn State's first permanent home for football was Beaver Field, located between the present-day Osmond and Frear laboratories in center campus. Initially, games were played on the lawn of Old Main.

The first game at Beaver Field was played on Nov. 6, 1893 against Western University of Pittsburgh [later to become the University of Pittsburgh]. The game, won 32-0 by Penn State, was delayed two days because of bad weather and played on a Monday afternoon. The 500-capacity grandstand featured an overhanging roof and three flagpoles.

New Beaver Field, located on the current site of the Kern Graduate Center adjacent to Rec Hall, was opened in 1909 with the Nittany Lions defeating Grove City, 31-0. The area also contained facilities for baseball, lacrosse, soccer and track.

New Beaver Field was the Nittany Lions' home through the 1959 season, after which the 30,000-seat stadium was dismantled and moved in 700 pieces one mile to the east side of campus. The old stadium was reassembled with the addition of 16,000 new seats to form Beaver Stadium.

The stadium is named in honor of James A. Beaver. A lawyer in nearby Bellefonte at the outbreak of the Civil War, he enlisted as a second lieutenant and rose to the rank of brigadier general upon his discharge from the Union Army in 1864. Beaver, who died in 1914, later served as a superior court judge, governor of Pennsylvania and president of the University's Board of Trustees. He is credited with being among the most influential leaders in the development of the University at the turn of the century.

PRESIDENT

Dr. Bryce Jordan

Although he has announced his retirement as Penn State president, Bryce Jordan has agreed to remain in the post until a successor is appointed. Once that process is complete, Jordan will retire to Austin in his native state of Texas to pursue some of the personal interests his high-profile position as the leader of a major educational institution did not permit.

Jordan's term as president spanned eight highly-successful years, a period in which the national reputation of the University ripened and matured on a foundation of academic quality.

Initiatives throughout the University moved Penn State forward among the ranks of leading universities in the nation.

Jordan's pivotal role in the alliance of Penn State with the Big Ten Conference represented, in his own words, "a move of historic proportions for Penn State's past, present and future."

"The affiliation with like-minded universities, represented by the existing membership of the Big Ten, strengthens our ability to influence the quality of academic activities and intercollegiate athletics of the next decade and into the next century," Jordan said.

Dr. Jordan also presided over the successful conclusion of the first major fundraising campaign in University history. "The Campaign for Penn State," which concluded with a black-tie gala in late April, is expected to generate more than $350 million, well in excess of its original $200 million goal.

Endowed faculty chairs, professorships and fellowships are helping to attract and retain some of the brightest faculty in the nation to Penn State.

With the help of strategic planning, many of the University's strengths have been enhanced with additional support, and with new units such as the School of Communications and the College of Health and Human Development.

The King of Prussia graduate center occupies new facilities in Great Valley, where Penn State is taking educational opportunities into the heart of a major corporate park near Philadelphia.

Economic development initiatives by Penn State promise new jobs, exciting research ventures, improved facilities for faculty and significant contributions to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Research levels at Penn State have reached new highs in each of the past few years, with the University achieving significant rankings in many areas.

This is a time of achievement for Penn State.

Applications to the university have never been higher in its history. And those who have attended Penn State have not forgotten their alma mater. The Alumni Association is the second largest in the country, and determined to become No. 1 before long.

Bryce Jordan has been at the point of all these progressive efforts.

President Jordan was born Sept. 22, 1924, in Clovis, New Mexico, and raised in Abilene, Texas. He holds bachelor and master of music degrees from the University of Texas at Austin, and his Ph.D. in historical musicology, with a minor in comparative literature, from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Prior to coming to Penn State, he was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs of the University of Texas System and president at the University of Texas at Dallas.

He and his wife, the former Jonelle Thornberry, have two children: Julia, 31, and Chris, 30. Both are graduates of the University of Texas at Austin.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

James I. Tarman

Jim Tarman was named Director of Athletics at Penn State on March 1, 1982, succeeding Joe Paterno, who had previously held the combined positions of Head Football Coach and Athletic Director.

Tarman is in his 33rd year at Penn State, having joined the athletic staff in 1958 as Sports Publicity Director and serving in that capacity for 12 years. He was named to the College Sports Information Directors Hall of Fame in 1970.

He was appointed Assistant to the Athletic Director in 1970 and in 1973 was promoted to Associate Athletic Director with primary responsibilities in the areas of public affairs, development, fundraising, and alumni and public relations.

When Coach Paterno was named Director of Athletics in 1980, Tarman's responsibilities were expanded to cover the entire administrative scope of Penn State's athletic program.

Before coming to Penn State in 1958, Tarman was Assistant Public Information Director and Sports Information Director at Princeton University. Prior to his post at Princeton, Tarman was Public Relations Director at Gettysburg College for four years. He was on the staff of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot-News from June, 1952, until he joined the Gettysburg staff a year later.

He is a member of the National Football Foundation and Football Hall of Fame Honors Court, a member of the Hall of Fame Screening Committee, a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Special Events Committee, NCAA Post-Season Bowl Committee, and a past member of the NCAA Public Relations Committee.

Tarman also serves as President of the College Independents Football Officiating Association, a group composed of Penn State and nine other independent teams. In addition, the Penn State AD is on the executive committee of the Division 1-A Athletic Directors Association, representing Independent schools.

He also is a member of the Intercollegiate Athletics committee of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. Tarman was co-host with Coach Paterno of "TV Quarterbacks," then the University's state-wide football television program, from 1967 through 1982, and from 1971 through 1979 he served as color announcer on the Penn State Football Radio Network.

A native of York, Pa., he is a 1952 graduate of Gettysburg College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, was graduated with honors in history and social studies, was named to the Gettysburg Honor Society, and to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is a member of the Gettysburg College Board of Trustees.

His experience includes Army service from 1946 to 1948, with most of that time with a Military Government Team in Japan.

Tarman is married to the former Louise Catalano, Gettysburg '56, of Springfield, Pa., and they have two sons, James Jr., Penn State '82, and Jeffrey, Penn State '85.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

Penn State athletics took an historic new direction this year when University president Bryce Jordan announced the institution's affiliation with the prestigious Big Ten Conference. It marks the first time Penn State has been a member of an all-sports conference.

"We are proud of what Penn State represents in the academic and athletic communities," Dr. Jordan said when the Council of Ten announced Penn State's official acceptance on June 4. "Conference membership provides us with an opportunity to enhance our strong reputation as an educational institution of the first order and as a major player in intercollegiate athletics.

"The affiliation with like-minded universities, represented by the existing membership of the Big Ten, strengthens our ability to influence the quality of academic activities and intercollegiate athletics of the next decade and into the next century," Dr. Jordan added.

Big Ten membership is just the latest step for a Nittany Lions' athletic program that has grown to meet the demands of society and the student body. Students can choose from among 28 sports teams, consisting of 15 for men and 13 for women. As such, it ranks as one of the largest collegiate programs in the nation.

The Nittany Lions not only have become respected across the country for the size of their program, but for its quality and overall success as well. National championships, nationwide media exposure, All-Americans and winning traditions have all become an integral part of Penn State's success in athletics.

Within the framework of a philosophy which stresses that Penn State's student-athletes are students first and foremost, the school's athletic squads have built a winning heritage matched by few universities.

The University, to keep pace with its comprehensive athletic program, constantly is striving to provide its student-athletes with the best athletic facilities. The Philip M. and Barbara E. Greenberg Indoor Sports Complex was dedicated in the fall of 1981 and houses indoor practice facilities for many of Penn State's teams, as well as the football office, the Penn State Football Hall of Fame and a modern ice-skating arena. Holuba Hall, which was completed in the fall of 1986, provides a full-scale indoor football field and practice area for many teams.

Beaver Stadium, the home of the Nittany Lions, has nearly doubled in size since it was moved to its present site in 1960. Its seating capacity of 83,370 will be increased to more than 93,000 for the 1991 season with the addition of a 10,300-seat upper deck over the north end zone seats.

Rec Hall was built in 1929 and extensively remodeled in 1965. The 6,846-seat building serves as the home of Penn State's basketball, gymnastics, volleyball and wrestling teams.

Other Penn State athletic facilities include Jeffrey Field, the home of the Lions' soccer and lacrosse squads; baseball and softball fields; Lady Lion Field; Nittany Lion Track; indoor and outdoor tennis courts; the Ernest B. McCoy Natatorium with an adjoining outdoor pool; and two University 18-hole golf courses.

Thus a multitude of factors — quality student-athletes and coaches, commitment and encouragement from the University's administration, outstanding competition and top-level facilities — have all played a key role in helping Penn State develop one of the nation's largest and most successful Intercollegiate Athletics programs.
